Senate Passes Tax Measure Roosevelt Has Condemned

But President's Stand on Curbing Excess Profits Is Upheld in Bill

By Mary Spargo

Ignoring President Roosevelt's request for "a realistic" tax bill, the Senate yesterday unanimously passed the $2,275,600,000 revenue measure, yielding about one-fifth the amount asked by the Administration.

The measure, which passed the House before the congressional recess, will now go to a conference committee of both House and Senate to iron out differences in the versions adopted by the two bodies.

Although the Administration went down to defeat on its request for the full $10,500,000,000 asked by the Treasury, the President won a major victory in retaining the curbs he asked on war profits.

Renegotiation Law Tightened

The bill, as passed by the Senate, even tightened up some of the provisions of the war contract renegotiation law, as it passed the House, despite a series of amendments once offered by the Senate Finance Committee which various Government war agencies had claimed would virtually nullify the renegotiation law.

On this point the Finance Committee had almost completely reversed its position and brought in a new set of compromise amendments, thus upholding one of the five points in the President's State of the Union message.

Simplification Plan Rejected

On the income tax front, hope for simplification will rest with the conference committee, since the Senate rejected a House plan.

The bill retains the 20 per cent withholding tax, and existing individual tax rates, exemptions and tables provided for in existing law. The "Victory" tax, which the House voted to repeal, was continued by the Senate at a flat 3 per cent rate on incomes of more

9% of Bond Quota Raised In Three Days

War bond sales totaling $8,500,000—about 9 per cent of the Capital's 95-million-dollar quota in the Fourth War Loan drive—have been made by Washingtonians in the first three days of the campaign, it was announced yesterday by the Fifth Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va.

The amount, reported by Chairman John A. Reilly of the District War Finance Committee, is slightly over 10 per cent of the city's 53-million-dollar individual quota and includes five million dollars in Series E, the $18.75 "people's bond" that returns $25 in 10 years.

Ship to Prolong Stay

At the Liberty Ship, American Mariner, docked at 11th and Maine ave, nw., in connection with the drive, it was learned that bond sales have been so successful that the vessel will remain in the Potomac until January 30, instead of embarking Tuesday, as was planned originally. Goal for purchases on the ship is two million dollars, the price of another Liberty ship.

The broad decks at the stern of the Mariner yesterday were the scene of a presentation of the Merchant Marine's seldom-awarded Distinguished Service Medal to 19-year-old Ensign Alexander Waigandt, purser of an American cargo ship which was set afire off Algeria

Auto License Gives Clew in Williams Case

Four Numerals Noted On Tag of Car Used By 'Woman in Black'

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP).—A clew that may put detectives on the trail of the mysterious woman in black who is hunted as the slayer of Mrs. Frank Starr Williams gave a fresh fillip to the investigation today.

Police Capt. Frank Reynolds reported he had learned that a woman whose appearance corresponded to the general description of the killer entered an automobile near the Drake Hotel Wednesday night shortly after Mrs. Williams was shot, and drove off at high speed. He related that four of the seven numerals on the license plate were furnished to police who were sent out to trace the car and its driver.

At an inquest, Stanley Cook, Chicago businessman who was waiting for an elevator in the hotel near Mrs. Williams' suite when she was attacked, testified that a short woman clad in a black coat, black hat and black skirt emerged from the victim's suite and brushed past him in the corridor.

Cook recalled that Mrs. Williams daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, also appeared in the hall and screamed:

"Stop that woman. She's crazy. She shot my mother."

Cook said he didn't know where the woman in black went, but the revolver used in the slaying was found on the service stairs, indicating she followed them down in her flight.

The only other witness at the inquest before it was continued to February 8, was the victim's husband, an attache of the State Department in Washington. He was asked if he could provide any information, but he shook his head and replied: "No." Williams and his wife lived at the Fairfax Hotel, 2100 Massachusetts ave. nw., Washington.

Investigators had little working material. The weapon yielded no fingerprints. Before she lapsed into a coma induced by a bullet wound in the head, Mrs. Williams stated she did not know the gunwoman. Nobody has offered a de-

Farm State Democrats Ask 4th Term

Farley Declines Invitation to Attend Jackson Dinner, Leaves Capital

By Robert C. Albright

A fourth-term declaration by Democrats from 13 Midwestern States yesterday set the "Roosevelt-or-take-a-licking" pace of the Democratic National Committee meeting called here today.

The Washington Jackson Day $100-plate dinner, main fund-raising event of the Democratic Party, will follow tonight and if those in charge of advance planning have their way many dissident segments of the party will be represented in a glamorous demonstration of solidarity.

Yesterday there was one slight miscarriage in these plans. Former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, reputedly as much opposed as ever to a fourth term, was invited to the dinner. Although a guest at the Mayflower Hotel for several days, and participating in informal conferences with some committeemen, Farley left town last night. Farley told newsmen simply that he was unable to attend.

The fourth-term resolution was the surprise contribution of a "squawk" precommittee meeting of the Midwestern conference.

National committeemen and State chairmen from the 13 States convened in bitter protests over handling of Middle-West patronage, but adjourned in a solid "harmony" front.

James C. Quigley of Nebraska, chairman of the group, who set out to get the jobs of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and A. G. Black of the Farm Credit Administration because "the Farmers' Union is running the Agriculture Department," said that matter wasn't even mentioned at their meeting.

Quigley said the fourth-term resolution will be offered to the National Committee today, but committee leaders said it would be quietly referred to the resolutions committee and probably stay there.

The National Committee is not supposed to take sides in the presidential contest, they pointed out. Be that as it may, the one thing that could throw the committee into a panic today would be word that the President would not run.

Committeemen assembling for today's meeting, practically without exception, New Dealers and anti-New Dealers, were convinced that no Democratic nominee but Roosevelt could hope to buck successfully the Republican tide.

But save for a presidential reception for National Committeemen and Committeewomen, and a White House call by retiring Na-

Argentine Envoy Held By British

Consul Bound for Spain Seized as Enemy Agent; Nazi Intrigue Reported

Buenos Aires, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Argentine foreign office announced tonight that British officials at Trinidad had removed and detained Osmar Alberto Hellmuth, an Argentine consul, from a vessel en route to Europe and "the British foreign office informed this chancellery (foreign office) that detention was the result of information that proved Hellmuth was an 'enemy agent.'"

The foreign office communique said that Hellmuth "has been relieved of his functions because his conduct appears to have been compromising."

It was learned that Hellmuth, one of the newest members of the consulate staff, was headed for Barcelona, Spain, after being named auxiliary consul for that post several months ago.

Trinidad is a British possession off the Venezuela coast.

The communique added that "as information supplied by the British Foreign Office may imply the existence of an espionage organization in our country, of which Hellmuth was said to be a member, the government has ordered an ample investigation and has given all information to the Federal police."

"Due to the nature of an investigation of which a belligerent's interests are involved," the communique continued, "the procedure has been kept secret, but meanwhile several persons have been detained.

"It is the firm purpose of the government to carry on the investigation until all the facts have been made clear with all responsible persons deal with in a manner to end all activities which are contrary to the international policy of the nation."

Nazi Orders to Split 'Bloc' Are Reported

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 21 (AP). A purported photograph of a letter signed by Ruppert Weilhermer, secretary of the political bureau of the German Embassy at Buenos Aires, instructing all Nazi agents in South America to do their utmost this year to break up the Pan American bloc, was published today by the newspaper La Razon.

The letter, quoting instructions from Erich Otto Meynen, German charge d'affaires in Argentina, said its inspiration came from Adolf Hitler and Iron Crosses were promised faithful workers in the German political cause in South America.

La Razon declared the letter definitely proved a connection between

Nazis Reported Speeding Line Below Rome

Algiers, Jan. 21 (AP).—Battalions of forced Italian labor are rushing to completion a powerful new "Adolf Hitler" defense line 65 miles below Rome, Nazi prisoners reported today, indicating the enemy has scant hope of holding his present "Gustav" line much longer against the onslaught of American, British and French troops.

The British firmly held the town of Minturno, two miles northwest of the Garigliano River, after Allied planes and artillery smashed an incipient German counterattack on that West Coast communications hub, and French forces north of Cassino captured the foot of Mount Il Lago, a Nazi strongpoint across

Nazis Retreat On All Sides Of Leningrad

Mga Rail Junction Falls to Russians; Roundabout Line To Moscow Opened

London (Saturday), Jan. 22 (AP). The Russians are rolling back the German line from Leningrad through one fortified place after another, Moscow announced early today, after the Red Army yesterday captured the rail junction of Mga, 30 miles southeast of the great northern city, and thus freed a roundabout rail line to Moscow.

The Red Army was in full offensive south, southwest and southeast of Leningrad, killing thousands of Germans as it battered through areas the Nazis had carefully fortified for two years.

The capture of Mga gave Leningrad its first direct rail communication with Moscow and the rest of the Soviet Union in two years.

By taking Mga the Russians also opened a permanent rail line to tap lease-lend supplies flowing down the railroad from Murmansk through Volkhov. Leningrad has been getting these Allied supplies only by makeshifts—a railroad built on the ice across Lake Ladoga and a truck road freed of Germans a year ago.

New Breakthrough

The capture was part of a new breakthrough on a 30-mile front from the Narva River southeast to the town of Vinyagolovo.

Still occupied by the Germans, but under heavy pressure from advancing Russians, was a portion of the main Leningrad-Moscow railroad through Kolpino and Tosno south to Kalinin and the capital.

Another Russian force was smashing south and southwest of Leningrad toward the major rail junction of Krasnogvardeisk where they threatened to trap Germans fleeing from the east. The entire southward push was hammering the Germans down toward an anvil of Red army troops pushing west from Novgorod, less than 100 miles south of Leningrad.

In the Krasnogvardeisk area, 30 miles below Leningrad, one Russian force took Skvoritsy, 9 miles north of the rail junction.

Three Main Fronts

The fighting for Leningrad and its huge rail and highway network centered on three main fronts:

Southwest and south of Leningrad—Here 2000 Germans were killed as the Red army "completely liquidated and dispersed groups of routed German troops which had been encircled," the communique said. Fourteen towns were taken.

Southeast of Leningrad—In a new thrust linking the Leningrad front of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov and the Volkhov River front of Gen. Kyril A. Meretskov, the Russians struck to capture Mga and 14 more towns, from Petrushino on the Narva River southeast to Vinyagolovo.

Here a considerable number of prisoners was taken as the Russians forged southwestward.

Volhov River Front—Pushing west of Novgorod, Meretskov's forces captured several communities. About 2400 Germans were killed in this area.

In addition to these fronts on the far north there was important activity in southern White Russia where troops under Gen. Constan-

Allied Headquarters, New Guinea (Saturday), Jan. 22 (AP).—One hundred sixty Japanese troops were killed when speedy P-T boats caught them in their barges sneaking down the New Guinea Coast Tuesday night, Allied headquarters announced today.

The American craft surprised the troop-laden enemy barges off Cape Croisilles, less than 25 miles north of Madang, and sprayed them with rapid-fire guns. All of the barges were sunk and all the Japanese killed or drowned.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's spokesman said the enemy troops were well equipped and wore new uniforms, indicating they were replacements for the besieged Madang defenders.

Repeated bombings in the last few days suggest Australian forces may be starting a new drive from their inland Ramu Valley positions aimed at Madang defenses.

Allies Bag 19 Planes at Cost Of 6 Bombers And 5 Fighters

London (Saturday), Jan. 22 (AP). A mighty fleet of RAF heavy bombers thundered eastward last night—perhaps to hit still-blazing Berlin for the second straight night—after an Allied armada of 1000 planes hammered mystery targets on the French invasion coast.

The daylight operations against the Pas-de-Calais area cost the attacking force 11 planes, six of them U. S. heavy bombers, but 19 German fighters were shot out of the sky.

The British sky giants departed on their latest foray two and a half hours later than their 5 p. m. start against Berlin Thursday, when they delivered the largest aerial attack ever made against the German capital, dropping 2300 long tons (2576 U. S. tons).

On their way over the Channel the RAF night bombers met Allied planes returning from the day operation.

Nazis Lose 8 Planes In Raid on London

London (Saturday), Jan. 22 (AP). In Britain's biggest air show since the days of 1940-41, the German air force raided London and the southeast coast last night and lost eight planes—the most shot down in an enemy night raid in months.

A number of casualties were reported in the London area.

The raid was the longest in weeks and shells bursting over London could be seen 20 miles away. Only a few of the planes, which came across the coast in waves, were believed to have penetrated London's antiaircraft barrage. One raider that did plummeted to the earth in flames. A southeastern town's hospital was hit. The only casualty was a male nurse, lightly injured.

Air raid alarms sounded again at 4:30 a. m. today and antiaircraft fire was heard.

got an equal number. RAF, Dominion and Allied fighters accounted for an additional five enemy planes.

The Allied attacking force lost two light bombers and three fighters in addition to the six U. S. heavy bombers.

The Allied attack force dropped perhaps 2000 tons of bombs as it raked mysterious Nazi forward defenses on the French coast. RAF bombers hit Berlin Thursday night with more than 2300 long tons (2576 U. S. tons). The two operations carried forward the new attack cycle with reinforced strength.

War Factories Hit

A responsible informant in Stockholm said that 11 war factories in the German capital's East End were struck and the Borough of Neukoellin to the southeast was badly damaged. Many Berliners with whom travelers talked said the raid was the worst yet on the Reich's heart. They reported there were at least 30 huge fires at one time, 11 of which still were blazing furiously today.

Briggs Promises Prosecutor To Come Here in Letter Case

By Walter Wood

"I will be in your office Monday morning at 10 o'clock," George N. Briggs, missing character in the "Hopkins Letter" thriller, yesterday wired Justice Department Attorney Henry Schweinhaut.

The telegram, sent from New York City at 11:58 a. m., disclosed Briggs' whereabouts for the first time in four days. It was read to reporters by the Federal prosecutor at the conclusion of the afternoon session of the District grand jury, which is attempting to solve the mystery of who wrote the alleged Hopkins missive, a copy of which appears in the book "One Man—Wendell Willkie," by C. Nelson Sparks.

The following developments seemed to put the final chapter of the story farther away:

1. Harry Hopkins, the presidential adviser, reiterated his charge that the letter purporting to involve him with Willkie's campaign for the Republican nomination is a forgery and declared he knows who the "forger" is. Hopkins, who has been ill with influenza, left the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., to volunteer testimony before the jury.

2. Frank Phillips, Oklahoma oil executive, followed Hopkins into the jury room. He told reporters later that he knew nothing about the letter and said "it sounds like dirty politics to me."

Justice Department Attorney Schweinhaut interpreted the Briggs' telegram to mean that he wants to testify at Monday's grand jury hearing. Schweinhaut said Briggs will be coming "voluntarily" in that the Justice Department has made no attempt to contact him, other than putting a subpena under

War Sidelights

Swiss Intern Ciano's Wife, 3 Children

Bern, Switzerland, Jan. 21 (AP).—Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Benito Mussolini and widow of the executed Italian foreign minister, is interned in Switzerland under strict police watch along with her three children, it was officially announced today.

The countess took refuge in Switzerland January 9, the day after the trial of Count Ciano on charges of treason was started at Verona. She was placed in internment immediately. Her children arrived three days later.

The Swiss announced that Dino Alfieri, former Italian Ambassador to Germany and condemned to death in absentia at the Verona trials, had crossed into Switzerland last October.

A witness to the recent Verona executions said that aged Marshal Emilio de Bono died of a heart attack while being tied to a post but that nonetheless the order to fire was executed.

10 Frenchmen Beheaded

Barcelona, Jan. 21 (AP).—The French press announced today that 10 persons, which it described as "Communists," had been guillotined at Angouleme January 17 in reprisal for the killing of a Vichy policeman. Three other Frenchmen were said to have been condemned to death by German military courts and executed January 13 for sniping at German troops.

Two Spies Executed

Naples, Jan. 21 (AP).—Two 18-year-old confessed Italian spies who admitted sworn allegiance to the Fascist youth organization and who were convicted of furnishing information to the Germans concerning Allied movements in Italy were executed today by a firing squad.

Lenin Body Viewed

Moscow, Jan. 21 (AP).—Izvestia said today that 19 million persons had seen the embalmed body of Lenin, founder of the Soviet Union, and that the body is in excellent condition. This is the twentieth anniversary of Lenin's death. Since the war, there has been considerable mystery about whether the body has been removed from Moscow. The gates leading to the tomb have always been closed.

Japs Prefer A Long War, Tojo Declares

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Japan prefers a long war, Premier Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet today in his annual speech on general policy, and he called upon the legislature to expand the national labor service and impose higher taxes.

Tojo's address, corresponding to the annual message on the "state of the Union" by American Presidents, reopened the Diet after its long New Year's recess and was reported in detail by Tokyo broadcasts.

According to the radio version, Tojo declared that "unrest" in the United States and "increasing exhaustion" in Britain had given both countries "a craving for a short war."

"Enemy Is Impatient"

"The enemy is in a fit of impatience," he asserted, adding that the present Allied offensive in the Pacific was a "desperate" result of this desire for a short war."

On the other hand, he said, "if Japan is given time, her strategic position would become even stronger, war resources in the southern region would be converted into even more fighting power, the unity of the peoples of greater East Asia would become more strengthened than it is now, and the position of Japan would be beyond their (the Allies) power."

"There is only a hairbreadth between final victory and defeat," he observed, and added, "in the present war we must be prepared for the most difficult (blows that) will become more and more severe. It is but natural that the agony and distress of the enemy caused by our smashing blows should result in his increasing the intensity of his own."

"Axis Firm as Rock"

His discussion was followed by speeches by Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and Finance Minister Okinobu Kaya.

Shigemitsu, according to the broadcast, told the Diet "Axis positions, east and west, remain as firm as a rock.

"As regards the fortress of Europe, the Germany army, having completed the necessary readjustments of their front lines, are fully prepared in their impregnable positions to meet and destroy the enemy.

"It is a grand spectacle rarely witnessed in world history."

Jap Ship Damaged In Marshall Raids

Pearl Harbor, Jan. 21 (AP).—A Japanese cargo-transport vessel was damaged and two American planes lost in new raids in the invasion-marked Marshall Islands, Fleet Headquarters announced today.

A Navy Liberator hit the Japanese vessel near Maloelap Wednesday. An Army Liberator was lost over Wotje yesterday.

Latest Blow in Pacific Runs Total Up to 408

American submarines, engaged in a continuing battle to ruin Japan's shipping, have sent 12 more of the enemy's cargo vessels plunging to the bottom of the Pacific.

The blow, another long step toward cutting off men and materials from the enemy's ocean bases, was announced yesterday by the Navy in a matter-of-fact communique which told only of the types of ships sunk. The 12 ran the total sunk by America's Pacific submarines to 408.

Location Not Disclosed

The communique did not give any indication of the problems surmounted by the submarine crews on their many weeks of cruising beneath enemy waters, nor did it indicate where the Japanese ships were attacked and sunk.

But there is a strong possibility that some of the submarines operated virtually within hailing distance of the Japanese shores.

Two ships of the transport classification were included in the latest bag. They could have been carrying troops as well as supplies.

Probably Major Loss

A large tanker also was included and might be considered as a major loss to the enemy for ships that can carry fuel for planes and surface craft are badly needed by the Japanese. The others were seven medium-sized freighters and two small freighters.

The sinkings were announced at the same time the British Admiralty disclosed that a British submarine apparently operating in the Bay of Bengal has destroyed one Japanese cruiser and three enemy supply ships.

The score for American submarines now stands at 408 Japanese ships sunk, 36 probably sunk and 114 damaged. This total includes some warships, but for the most part is made up of merchant vessels.

British Sub Sinks Jap Ship Off Malaya

London, Jan. 21 (AP).—The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by a British submarine in a daring attack off Malaya was announced today by the Admiralty, indicating that certain Royal naval units transferred from the Mediterranean after the surrender of the Italian fleet may now be in action in the Far East.

The Admiralty announcement did not identify the submarine—first British naval craft disclosed to be operating in the southern waters of the Indian Ocean in some time—but noted that it was commanded by Lieut. Comdr. L. W. A. Bennington, who won fame as skipper of the submarine Porpoise which brought supplies to Malta when that island was under siege.

The cruiser, a 5100-tonner of the Kuma class, was sighted with a destroyer in the northern approaches to the narrow Malacca Strait which separates the island of Sumatra from Malaya.

The locale of the attack suggested that Britain may be acting to block the flow of Japanese reinforcements and supplies to the rekindled Burma front. Also it might have been a preliminary blow in a new campaign to blockade Sumatra and Malaya, both potential targets for Allied assault.

The submarine scored two hits which quickly sank the ship.

The escorting destroyer dropped depth charges in a counterattack, but the submarine escaped.

Three large Japanese supply ships also have been sunk by the same submarine, the Admiralty said.

Marines Soften Blow for Dad Of Casualty

The United States Marines are tough as Tojo's little yellow men well know—but that the Marines are also considerate, Robert R. Templeton of 4421 Ord st. ne., head of the Navy Press information casualty section, now knows.

For Robert R. Templeton is the father of Pvt. First Class Jay R. Templeton, 19, "missing in action," after Marine action in the South Pacific.

It is the daily duty of Templeton to send those "The Navy Department regrets to inform you" telegrams to kin of those who have fallen, are missing or wounded.

Each day he has been the first to open the envelope containing the list of Marine casualties, anxiously scanning the list because Jay had gone away to join the Marines the week before the Pearl Harbor attack.

And never since have the father and mother seen him.

And so the father had fearfully scanned each Marine casualty list as it came in, until the list which is released for publication today arrived.

Before he could see it Marine officers stationed at Arlington called him over there and as gently as they could they told him his son was missing.

Private Templeton was reported missing November 20, six days before his birthday, in the action on bloody Tarawa. He was with a Marine amphibious tank division and his parents believe him to have been among the first in that historic landing.

He enlisted in the Marines while still a student at McKinley High School and trained at Parris Island.

Missing Reporter Is Nazi Prisoner

London, Jan. 21 (AP).—Lowell Bennett, International News Service correspondent who failed to return from the RAF's December 2 raid on Berlin, is safe and a prisoner of war in Germany.

Leo V. Dolan, manager of the news service's London bureau, received a letter from him today dated "somewhere in Germany," in which Bennett said: "That's a helluva dateline—but it could have been worse."

Bennett, 24, who wife lives in South Orange, N. J., was aboard one of the 41 bombers lost in that heavy attack on the German capital.

The correspondent's letter ended with a sentence that intrigued newspapermen here and made them wonder if Bennett was kidding or was attempting to get through a tip.

"Tell Turney (London bureau's accountant) I'm saving my expense accounts, and watch out for that 'secret weapon'," he wrote.

Tito's Forces Reoccupy Jajce, Battle Foe in Tuzla Streets

London, Jan. 21 (AP).—Yugoslav Partisan troops have stormed back into the mountain stronghold of Jajce in western Bosnia, former headquarters for Marshal Josip Bros (Tito), the Partisans announced in their broadcast communique today.

In addition to the reoccupation of Jajce, which has changed hands half a dozen times, the bulletin told of hard street fighting in the eastern Bosnian town of Tuzla.

Elsewhere in the river valleys and along rail lines new Yugoslav successes were reported.

In the Glamoc area, 30 miles southwest of Jajce, and around Prozor, 40 miles southwest, the Liberation Army claimed new setbacks for the foe.

Tuzla is the hinge of a 55-mile front stretching through the Spreca and Drina valleys from Doboj to Zvornik. Tito's men swarmed into Modric on the Bosna River, 20 miles northeast of Doboj, and into Gradacac.

In sorties against rail lines within the shadow of Belgrade and along the Dalmatian coast near Gospic, trains were derailed and German feeder lines to active battlegrounds were seriously impaired, the Partisans said.

Planes Again Batter Nazi Lines in Italy

Algiers, Jan. 21 (AP).—The combined Allied Mediterranean Air Forces, which have isolated Rome by cutting its rail connections with northern Italy, have pursued their shattering attack on Nazi airdromes and railway communications in central Italy for the fourth straight day.

They again plastered the Ciampino and Centocelle airfields on Rome's southeastern outskirts and sprayed fragmentation bombs on the Guidonia field 14 miles northeast of the capital yesterday, it was announced today.

The concentrated assaults met little enemy fighter opposition, though five Nazi interceptors rose to meet the Flying Fortress formation that battered Centocelle. One was shot down. In all, five German craft were shot during the day for a loss of two Allied ships.

Hundreds of Allied fighter bombers and light bombers escorted by fighters supported the Fifth Army ground attack with attacks on German troops and gun positions, while British cruisers and destroyers ranged offshore and poured hundreds of rounds into the enemy along the Tyrrhenian coast. The heaviest shelling, spread over Tuesday and Wednesday, was concentrated on the Appian Way where that historic road runs close to the sea near the village of Terracina at the foot of the Pontine Marches.

the Rapido River from the village of Sant' Elia. The Gustav fortifications thus were being shredded fast.

Ever since their landing at Salerno, in September, Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army troops have been forced to batter their way through a succession of Nazi defense systems that extracted the last possible advantage from the rough Italian terrain. The name the enemy has bestowed upon his latest fortifications would indicate that he considered it the strongest of the lot.

According to German prisoners—Some 300 of whom have been captured by the British since they opened their Garigliano offensive Monday night—the "Adolf Hitler" line extends from 1700-foot Mount Cairo, six miles northwest of Cassino, down across the Liri valley in the area of Pontecorvo to the Aurunci Mountains near the coast. On an average, the line is about 6 miles nearer Rome than the enemy's present defenses.

Allied headquarters announced that British troops had seized Minturno after hard fighting, some 24 hours after the Germans reported they had abandoned the "totally destroyed" town. A German formation preparing an assault to regain the town was detected by Allied airmen and was torn to pieces by bombs and artillery shells.

British Press On

After consolidating their hold on Minturno, the British pressed on against German positions north of the town and were engaged in steady, bitter fighting. Another British force, apparently the one that established a beachhead near Suio, 7 miles up the Garigliano, was reported assaulting the twin Nazi fortress villages of Castelforte and Ventosa, situated on steep slopes a mile from the river banks.

French forces that crossed the Rapido River four miles above Cassino threatened to flank German troops defending that gun-ringed fortress. German prisoners complained that weather conditions in that mountainous sector were worse than they experienced on the Leningrad front in Russia.

American patrols probing for weak spots in Cassino's defenses crossed the Rapido below the town for the first time, but were forced to retire. A German patrol that forded the stream also was beaten back. Patrol activity alone enlivened the Eighth Army front, stretching from Italy's mountainous middle to the Adriatic Sea.

tine Rokossovsky struck out in the Kalinkovichi-Mozyr area and captured Ozarichi, an important defense center 25 miles northwest of Kalinkovichi. More than 1000 German dead were counted after this battle.

But the northern offensive, where the Germans faced one of their great disasters of the war, was outstanding in yesterday's developments as the capture of Mga knocked off the tip of a salient long held by the Germans southeast of Leningrad.

The Germans for their part were lashing back fiercely in retreat, carrying out a scorched earth policy. The Soviet army newspaper Red Star disclosed that the Nazis had sacked and burned Peterhof, former elaborate summer residence for the Czarist court.

Similarly great damage was reported from the ancient city of Novgorod to the south, which the Russians entered Thursday.

With the German danger to the south now no immedate problem, the Russians should be able to turn some of their might on this front toward the Finns.

The Russians now control 45 miles of Baltic coastline from Leningrad to Krasnaya Gorka.

Krasnaya Gorka, like Oranienbaum, is a fortress town, and it never fell to the Nazis. Possession of this stretch of Baltic coast gave free movement to the Russians' strong Baltic fleet, which had been bottled up in Leningrad. This gave the Finns something to think about, for it is only 90 miles to the Finnish capital of Helsinki from the liberated Soviet Baltic coast.

WAY HOWARD

Five Washington area men are missing in action and three have been wounded while serving with the armed forces overseas, it was learned here yesterday.

Missing are Lieut. Laughlin M. Kelly, 1511 22d st. nw., Lieut. Harvey S. Ford, 2511 Q st. nw., Lieut. John P. Cox, Burnt Mills Hills, Silver Spring, Md., Lieut. Kenneth S. Wales, jr., 5 Quincy st., Chevy Chase, Md., and Pvt. Jay R. Templeton, 4421 Ord st. ne. Wounded were Sergt. Fred T. Way, 1340 Fairmont st. nw., Pvt. Gerald E. Howard, 1525 Good Hope rd. se., and Pvt. Frank A. Lesko, 902 13th st. ne.

Lieutenant Kelly has been missing in action since December 20, when he participated in a RAF raid over Frankfort, Germany. The 28-year-old pilot was completing a tour of duty with the RAF before taking up his duties with the Eighth U. S. Air Force.

Lieut. Ford, former assistant editor of the Field Artillery Journal, is missing in action in Italy, where he was serving with the Field Artillery, his wife, Mrs. Adele Ford of Q st., has been informed by the War Department.

Prior to June, when Lieut Ford was transferred at his own request to a combat unit overseas, he had been serving with a tank destroyer battalion at Camp Hood, Tex.

Born in Burton, Ohio, Lieutenant Ford, 28, a graduate of Ohio State and Western Reserve Universities, moved to Washington five years ago.

Lieutenant Wales, 19, navigator of a Flying Fortress with the Eighth Air Force based in England, failed to return from a December 16 raid over German territory, his parents, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Wales of Chevy Chase, have been informed by the War Department.

Sergeant Way, 20, was wounded by shell fragrants on December 20 during a fortress raid over Germany. Serving as a tail gunner in a B-17, he suffered serious head injuries. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Way of Fairmont street, has been notified that he is recovering.

Private Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle B. Howard of Good Hope Road, has received the Purple Heart for wounds suffered while stationed in the South Pacific area late in November.

Private Lesko, who was wounded while on active duty with the Marine Corps, is the brother of Mrs. Louis M. Quinn of the 13th st. address.

offer stiff fighter opposition along the French coast, the bombers were forced to fly through thick flak. Generally accurate bombing results were reported.

It is conservatively estimated that 7500 sorties (individual plane flights) have been made against the Pas-de-Calais "rocket gun coast" in the last month.

Returning aviators disclosed that the Germans were heavily reinforcing the antiaircraft defenses of the Pas-de-Calais area, which now has been attacked on 22 of the last 31 days.

The eleventh of a series of obliteration raids on Berlin was delivered by an estimated 800 British heavy bombers which unloaded an average of 77 tons of bombs each minute during the half-hour attack. The load was greater than the 2300 long tons dropped on Berlin on November 22, the previous record.

Thirty-five bombers failed to come home as the Germans made frantic efforts to save their capital from threatened obliteration.

The big bomber fleet took off from England in the late afternoon 18 days after the last attack. First a group of swift, twin-engined Mosquito bombers laid down a feint bombardment of northwest Germany. Then the "heavies" came in, plowing through overcast weather that hampered Nazi fighters but failed to interfere with Allied aim.

Fliers minimized the opposition they encountered. Some said "Jerry simply wasn't there. It wasn't like the Jerry we've run into before." Others called the antiaircraft barrage "loose" and said the night fighters were "late."

But the losses—second highest of the campaign against Berlin—made clear the Germans were fighting back and Swedish reports said the Germans had steadily augmented their antiaircraft batteries in an attempt to save what was still left of Berlin. Forty-one bombers were lost in the raid December 2.

The capital, which has now absorbed nearly 17,000 tons of explosives, was reported grievously wounded by the attack.

Swedish reports said first small bombs fell, then bigger ones, then incendiaries and for the climax came the earth-shaking blockbusters. Gigantic new fires started, belching smoke thousands of feet into the air. One unconfirmed report said the Friedrichstrasse Station in central Berlin was hit and surrounding area devastated, dislocating traffic and reducing bus service this morning to skeleton service.

One Swedish correspondent in Berlin reported that when he scrambled from his bomb shelter he saw the city's outer industrial districts sending flames brightly into the sky.

FBI Arrests N. Y. Woman For Using Code

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Kicking and clawing, Mrs. Velvalee Dickinson, 50, a dealer in antique dolls, was arrested by FBI agents in a downtown bank today and charged with sending coded messages to South America in violation of the censorship laws.

She was held in $25,000 bail. The FBI said the woman formerly had Japanese connections and that she had concealed code messages in what appeared to be ordinary letters.

Special FBI Agent E. E. Conroy said Mrs. Dickinson was arrested in the bank's vault for safety deposit boxes where, in one of the boxes she had about $18,000.

The FBI said her exclusive doll shop on Madison Avenue attracted a wealthy clientele.

Conroy said she was well known to persons associated with the Japanese consulate and military attaches on the West Coast prior to the war, and had been a frequent visitor to the Japan Institute here.

The law provides a maximum penalty of fines totaling $10,000 or 10 years in prison or both, Conroy said.

Spied to Aid France

Detroit, Jan. 21 (AP).—Grace Buchanan-Dineen told a Federal jury today she acted as a German Reich espionage agent for the benefit of France, which she said she was led to believe would be a free country again after the war.

Under cross-examination in the trial of Dr. Fred W. Thomas, Detroit physician, and Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, Merchant Marine seaman, both charged with espionage conspiracy, Miss Buchanan-Dineen said she became an espionage agent for German "to be of service to France."

Chief Government witness against her alleged former confederates, the 35-year-old Canadian-born cosmopolite has pleaded guilty with five other persons to charges of conspiring to commit espionage.

Miss Buchanan-Dineen told of obtaining information from Dr. Thomas on the number of persons employed in Detroit war plants, labor trouble, activities of Coast Guard patrol boats, and manufacture of war weapons.

She testified that Dr. Thomas suggested sabotaging of two plants, the Clark controller plant at Cleveland and the Ford Willow Run bomber plant.

Information on the movement and personnel of convoys from the United States was obtained from Hoffman, she said.

Pleads Guilty

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Wolfgang T. Achtner, said by Assistant United States Attorney Stuart Z. Krinsley to have been a friend of Rudolph Hess, pleaded guilty today to a Federal indictment charging that he falsely represented himself to be an American citizen to obtain employment.

While employed, he was found entering a prohibited area of the building, a room containing maps of every important hydroelectric plant in the country, Krinsley said.

When arrested, Achtner was described as one of the most dangerous enemy aliens in this country. Sentencing was set for February 7.

German agents and the Argentine revolution of last June as well as a link with the Bolivian coup of last month.

Hitler Sends Thanks

The newspaper said the letter was addressed to Robert Kellman, foremost Nazi agent in Brazil, and was dated December 28, 1943.

La Razon said the Argentine June revolution was the work of a "patriotic junta" originally created in the Army Club at Buenos Aires in September, 1941.

The junta kept in close touch with the German embassy and with Bolivian nad other South American nationalistic leaders, La Razon said, and used as a meeting place the house of Count Karl von Luxburg, former German minister in Buenos Aires who was declared persona non grata in the first World War.

The newspaper declared that on the night of August 15 a German submarine surfaced a few miles off La Plata, Argentina, and landed Willy Kohn, former Nazi party commissioner in South America and present director of the Latin American section of the German foreign office, along with 40 boxes. Kohn contacted a number of Argentine and German notables, including Enrique Guinazu, foreign minister in the former Argentine administration of President Ramon Castillo, La Razon reported.

Cannon Heads 12th Air Force

Algiers, Jan. 21 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the Allied Air Force in the Mediterranean theater, announced tonight the appointment of Maj. Gen. John K. Cannon as commanding general of the U. S. Twelfth Air Force.

GEN. CANNON

General Cannon also will serve as commander of the tactical air force, which is composed of American and British units operating in close support of the Fifth and Eighth Armies. This command recently was left vacant by the departure from this war theater of Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham.

General Cannon has been in North Africa since November, 1942, when he was in charge of the western task force air units in Morocco. He later became commanding general of the Twelfth Bomber Command under Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, then commanding general of the Training Command and finally deputy commander of the Tactical Air Force under Coningham.

General Cannon's home is in Salt Lake City, Utah, where his wife and three daughters live.

State Vote Control Bloc Wins Test

In House Vote

Huge Margin Seen Assured UNRRA Fund

Although scattered criticism of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Agreement continued in the House yesterday, indications were the resolution authorizing a United States contribution of $1,350,000,000 to this first venture into the field of postwar cooperation would be approved by an overwhelming majority in both political parties.

Taking the floor to answer charges that Premier Stalin was in favor of UNRRA because it would enable him to gain control of Europe, Representative Fulbright (Democrat) of Arkansas declared the Russian leader possibly had a "selfish interest" in the organization but that it was based on a desire for the "future stability and peace of the world."

Source of Danger

"It is not enlightened self-interest that is dangerous to us, either when expressed by other countries or ourselves. Our danger comes from muddle-headed emotionalism and narrow prejudices.

"If the Russians were primarily interetsed in imposing communism upon the whole of Europe, they undoubtedly would oppose this bill," he declared.

Asserting he accepted the standard "that we should be most interested in our own welfare," Fulbright said he considered the self-interest of this country—as well as that of Russia and Britan—"demands a lasting peace."

"UNRRA is a real step along the road and that will rectify the mistake of isolationism," he declared, "something that will implement the expression of our belief in internationalism and show it is not just a pious platitude."

Representative Mundt (Republican) of South Dakota said he would seek to get a statement in the resolution expressing this country's interest in "the plight of India."

None for Starving Indians

"The way the bill is written now about a million Burma refugees now in India can receive UNRRA benefits but starving Indians cannot. I am told we can only recommend a change in this rule to UNRRA's council and I hope we will do so," he said.

Representative Vorys (Republican) of Ohio, has said he will offer an amendment to put "participation inside this country" under the State or Treasury Department" or some other legislatively established permanent branch of the Government." Although the resolution carries no specific provision, it has been believed the purchasing of supplies and accumulation of stockpiles needed for the program would be assigned to the Foreign Economic Administration.

Representative Rogers (Republican) of Massachusetts, said she would ask to have the resolution ban the use of UNRRA money for religious teachings just as it now bans its use for educational work.

House Committee Rejects Plan for Roll Call on Ballot

By the Associated Press

A proposal to force a House roll call on a uniform Federal ballot for servicemen, thereby to show how each member votes on the issue, was rejected yesterday by the Rules Committee in a stormy hearing.

The roll call was asked by Chairman Worley (Democrat) of Texas of the Elections Committee who conceded that he had been "whipped in committee" on his demand for a uniform ballot for all 48 States "and frankly I expect to be whipped on the floor of the House."

The Rules Committee held that Worley's bill to be offered next week as a substitute for a "States' rights" vote bill approved by the Elections Committee, may be acted on in the House under the customary procedure, without a roll call.

Rules Committee Chairman Sabath (Democrat) of Illinois, favoring a roll call, told newspapermen that further efforts would be made to get the record vote, probably from the House floor next week.

House opponents of the uniform ballot, led by Representative Rankin (Democrat) of Mississippi retained the upper hand, notwithstanding Senate gestures toward a compromise. They pressed for passage of a bill to leave with the States the machinery for voting by men and women in the armed services.

Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, objected vigorously when Worley told the Rules Committee that people were beginning to consider the vote matter a "party issue."

Rankin declared "I'm just as good a Democrat as the gentleman from Texas," and Representative Brown (Republican), Ohio, asked why, if the Army could haul "the First Lady" around, it could not get regular State ballots to the service people.

Representative Monroney (Democrat), Oklahoma, told the Rules Committee "the country is entitled to have a clear record of how the members vote."

Rankin argued that the Worley uniform ballot measure was unconstitutional, that it "would shoot the bottom out of the ship of state" by violating States rights, and would result in election contests in many of the States.

The Worley bill would provide a ballot with spaces for a soldier to write in the candidate's name or party of his choice for President, Vice President, Senators and Representatives. The opponents insist on the usual State ballots being delivered to the service people, with the Government aiding the delivery of these ballots.

Stilwell's Fliers Sink 2 Jap Ships

Chungking, Jan. 21 (AP).—American Liberator bombers yesterday sank a 1700-ton enemy passenger-freighter and a 1500-ton tanker during a sweep over the China Sea, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced today. All the American aircraft returned.

Midwest Group Urges 4th Term

tional Committee Chairman Frank C. Walker, the President was holding aloof from the committee proceedings. Presidential Secretary Stephen Early told newsmen Mr. Roosevelt will not send a message, or address as he did last year, to the annual Jackson Day dinner that follows.

To Elect Walker's Successor

Chief business of the committee will be receipt of the resignation of National Chairman Walker and election of his successor. No hitch is expected in plans to elect 40-year-old Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, only recently named United States Internal Revenue Commissioner.

Originally the meeting was called to pick a convention city and date, but the city, except for formalities, had already been picked—the same Chicago setting as the Republican convention already fixed for June 26. The Democratic date is unsettled, but best guesses are July 17 or 24.

Disciples of harmony had been most concerned with the patronage rebellion of the 10 Midwestern States. Quigley, Nebraska committeeman and chairman of the Midwestern Democratic conference, had arrived in town breathing fire.

Patronage Complaints

Quigley's chief complaints were appointment of Frank L. Robinson of Kearney, Nebr., and Jess Alten of Mondamin, Iowa, to the Land Bank Board. He said they were dominated by the Farmers Union, and demanded the ouster of Wickard and Black, whom he blamed. He also complained of appointment of Republicans to Government posts and indicated grievances would be carried directly to the White House.

In the group was some sentiment for Eugene Casey, executive assistant to the President, and patronage trouble-shooter, for election to Walker's post.

The conference was expected to raise a merry ruckus but ended in the fourth term declaration and nothing else.

Following the White House reception for committeemen, State chairman and their wives, Quigley told newsmen he had handed the President an envelope containing the fourth term resolution. He said the President did not know what was in the envelope "and so I got no comment from him."

President Reported Pleased

The President was reported pleased with a demonstration of unity between the Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties. Elmer F. Kelm, Minnesota State Democratic chairman, and Elmer Benson, former Senator and former Farmer-Labor Governor of Minnesota, had walked up to the President with arms linked. Benson told Mr. Roosevelt that a group of Minnesota Farmer-Laborites had urged a party merger. Kelm said the President "gave it his blessing."

Retiring Democratic Chairman Walker will preside at tonight's Jackson Day dinner. Vice President Wallace yesterday was put on the program for a brief speech, but the main address was still scheduled to be delivered by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, currently being boomed by House Democrats for second place on a fourth term ticket.

pending the investigation's conclusion. Sparks, former mayor of Akron, says he got the letter used in his Willkie book "through Briggs from Ickes."

Hopkins left his bed at the Naval Medical Center to ask and receive permission to testify. Weak with illness, he slowly walked from a Government-chauffered sedan into Municipal Court Building. After spending less than 10 minutes before the jury panel, Hopkins made his way into the press room and slumped into a chair.

"I can only repeat what I have said before," Hopkins told reporters. He branded the alleged letter bearing his signature a forgery.

"There is a forger in this picture," he concluded, "and I think I know who the forger is."

The President's aide would say no more about the letter and returned immediately to the hospital after telling newsmen he was feeling "so, so."

Phillips Never Saw Letter

Phillips, whom Sparks said once held the famous letter, said he never saw the letter or heard of it until he read Sparks' book. Asked whether he believed such a letter was in existence, Phillips would not comment. He, too, denied that the word "Alamo" had any more significance to him than it does to a school boy.

The tall, oil executive came here from New York to testify voluntarily. Phillips, informed that Sparks said Briggs had gone to Phillips' office in Dallas for the letter, denied having an office in the Texas city.

Phillips Going to Farm

Phillips, in departing, said he was going back to his farm near Bartlesville, Okla., to "milk the cows and feed the pigs." He is chairman of the board of the Phillips Petroleum Co.

Prosecutor Schweinhaut, who is being assisted in the case by G. Maynard Smith, would not comment when asked if he had subpenaed Briggs' correspondence and telegrams. He refused also to say whether Briggs' typewriter has been examined, and denied that the latter's personal files at the Interior Department have been subpenaed.

Both typewriters and files, however, are gone from the Interior Building, a source there said.

Sparks, who had returned last night to his New York apartment, said over the telephone that he had not been in contact there with Briggs.

Mrs. Louise Roos, a sister of Mrs. Williams, came here from the East and was interviewed by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan. He told reporters she could shed no light on the mystery. She said her sister, who was in Tokyo when her husband was stationed at the U. S. embassy there before the war, had written a book on Japan, but the State Department advised against its publication.

With the sister was her husband, Col. Robert A. Roos, retired Army officer. Their home is in Burlingame, Calif.

Rise in Living Costs Reported, Lower Vegetable Prices Fixed

By Christine Sadler

As the Office of Price Administration took action yesterday to prevent a repetition of last winter's sharp increases in the prices of fresh vegetables, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the country's cost-of-living index had advanced two-tenths of 1 per cent from November 15 to December 15.

The start upward, however, was due to disappearance of low-priced clothing lines, increased coal prices to cover wage adjustments, and to slight increases in rent—and not to food prices, which declined one-tenth per cent during the month, BLS, figures showed.

Vegetable Levels Set

After several ups and downs, due mostly to unstabilized food costs, the index in mid-December was 3.3 per cent up from December, 1942, BLS said, and 24.4 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

The increase was 3.7 per cent in the Capital.

Biggest single jump here was in clothing, which increased 9.2 per cent, while food, believe it or not, is credited with only a 2.4 per cent leap.

Rents here remained stable, but costs of fuel, electricity and ice were upped 5.2 per cent, housefurnishings cost 2.9 per cent more, and miscellaneous services have gone up 5.1 per cent.

OPA's action yesterday was announcement of a schedule setting maximum prices at all levels below retail on carrots, spinach, peas, snap beans, eggplant, peppers and cucumbers.

In Effect January 31

Retail prices, to be worked out in dollars and cents at community levels within the framework provided by OPA, will show sharp reductions under 1943 prices for peppers, eggplant and cucumbers. The other vegetables will be lower than the highs of last winter and in some instances above the low prices of last summer, OPA said.

The new prices will go into effect at country shipper levels January 31, at wholesale February 15, and passed on to retail immediately. OPA said maximum prices for lima beans, cabbage, lettuce, cauliflower, celery and tomatoes will be issued "in the near future."

The schedule is announced for the entire year and allows for seasonal variations. OPA listed New York retail prices as typical of which could be anticipated by consumers in Washington. They will be: Carrots, 9½ cents a bunch through June; spinach 11½ cents a pound through June; peas, 22 cents a pound through March and 18½ cents through June; snap beans, 20½ cents a pound during January and February, 20 cents for March and April, 16½ cents for May, and 15 cents for June; eggplant, 13½ cents a pound through June; peppers, 16 cents a pound through May and 13½ cents in June; cucumbers, 18½ cents through March, 13½ cents for April and May, and 9½ cents for June.

Solid Framework Seen

Uncontrolled until after the summer crops were coming in, prices on fresh vegetables spiraled upward last winter and spring and were the chief factor in running the index up during the period when stabilization experts were trying to run it back to the levels of October, 1942, to cover promises made to groups of organized labor.

Admittedly the toughest problem OPA has faced, the new vegetable regulation "provides a solid framework for stabilizing retail prices over fresh vegetables," Price Administrator Chester Bowles declared lastnight.

Meantime, to meet increased demands for vegetable seeds anticipated during 1944, the War Food Administration for the first time "rationed" the farm necessity by allocating 70.3 per cent of the supply to this country's farmers and Victory gardeners, setting up a contingency reserve of 25.3 per cent and saying Allied and liberated areas could have 3.4 per cent. One per cent will go to our territories, the Red Cross, friendly nations, etc., while about 31,000 pounds will be available to United States military and war services.

The country has about 391 million pounds for allocation, WFA said, with "heavy seeds" such as peas, beans, and sweet corn as counting for more than 366 million pounds. More than 263 million pounds of these "heavy seeds" will be used to meet civilian needs. About one-fourth of the total supply of small vegetable seeds will go to our Allies or be used for military purposes, with more than seven million pounds kept in reserve. Civilians of this country will get almost half of the 25-million-pound supply of the small varieties, WFA said.

2 Killed as Army Plane Hits Virginia Mountain

The pilot and one-man crew of a C-78 Army plane, described by Bolling Field officials as a small transport, were killed when their plane crashed against the side of Little Cobbler Mountain, located about 50 miles south of here in Virginia, Bolling Field officials disclosed yesterday.

Those killed were Capt. Berthold A. Moeller, jr., of Honolulu, Hawaii, pilot of the plane, and Corpl. Winton L. Lawrence Powell of Miami, Fla. Both men were stationed at Eglin Field, Fla., and were making a routine flight to Bolling Field, officials said.

Lepke Placed In Deathhouse At Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP).—The door of a deathhouse cell clanged shut behind Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, chieftain of Murder, Inc., today a few hours after the State gained his custody from the Federal Government.

He and two other members of the wholesale death ring that terrorized New York a few years back are scheduled to be electrocuted February 10 for a murder committed in 1936.

Released from a 14-year Federal sentence on a narcotics charge so the State may apply the death penalty, Lepke, who was brought here from New York City, was abrupt in his last words uttered before entering death row.

"Where do I go—where next?" the heavy-set gangster asked impatiently after being given a serial number.

Receiving Officer Jesse Collyer asked the routine question:

"To what do you attribute your criminal acts?"

"Not guilty," snapped Lepke.

Asked whether he had any property or money, the racketeer said "no."

He said he had a wife, Betty, and that he last resided in St. Albans, Queens.

Lepke was taken to the Bertillon office, fingerprinted and photographed, then to the deathhouse, where he was given a bath and a prison-gray uniform before being assigned to a cell.

Surrounded by guards armed with machine guns and small weapons, Lepke made the 30-mile trip from the Federal House of Correction in New York to Sing Sing in a bullet-proof limousine.

He shielded his face with a handkerchief as he entered the car.

His release, after months of a custody dispute between U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, was granted on the condition that he be returned to Federal authorities if he is not executed.

Sing Sing officials declined to disclose whether Lepke's death row cell was so located that he could converse with Emmanuel (Mendy) Weiss and Harry (Happy) Maione, convicted with him in the slaying of Samuel Rosen, a Brooklyn storekeeper.

Senate Passes Tax-Increase Bill

than $624 a year, regardless of dependents.

The income tax provisions of the Senate measure will yield an estimated $664,900,000 in additional revenue a year. Revenue gain is made chiefly by the repeal of the earned income credit against normal tax, and repeal of allowances of deductions for certain Federal excise taxes paid.

Excess Profits Tax Boosted

The corporation excess-profit tax was boosted from 90 to 95 per cent by action of the Senate in approving the House-passed provision. This increase will yield an estimated $502,700,000. The Senate modified somewhat House provisions for reducing the profits credit on invested capital.

Nearly half the extra revenue brought in by the new tax bill is expected to come from new and higher excise taxes.

Senator Walsh (Democrat) of Massachusetts, a conferee and one of the leaders in the fight to retain the renegotiation law, by which the Government recaptures excessive profits on war contracts, predicted that the Renegotiation Act amendments would virtually be rewritten by the conferees.

One of the most important Senate amendments concerning renegotiation would give a contractor who disagrees with the findings of the War Price Adjustment Board the right of court appeal.

Follows House Lead

The Senate followed the House lead in leaving exemption of standard commercial articles up to the War Price Adjustment Board.

An amendment introduced by Senators Walsh and Taft (Republican) of Ohio, would exempt machine tools lasting 10 years or more from renegotiation.

Subcontractors making machines and equipment not part of finished war goods are still subject to renegotiation.

The renegotiation power, under the Senate bill, will terminate at the end of 1944, although its closing date can be set back or put ahead six months upon the authority of the President.

A Senate Finance Committee amendment exempting from renegotiation contracts covering articles furnished in accordance with WPB directives or coming under OPA price ceilings was abandoned by the committee.

Senator LaFollette (Progressive) of Wisconsin won approval of an amendment which knocked out a committee provision exempting public utilities and common carriers from recapture of excess profits by renegotiation.

last May when bomb fragments from a two-hour attack by 17 Nazi bombers pierced the hull and exploded 400 tons of high octane gasoline.

The youthful merchant mariner, with three shipmates, answered his skipper's call for volunteers to enter the adjacent hold and spray water on the bulkheads and gasoline drums.

For "heroism beyond the call of duty," Waigandt yesterday was given the medal, made in the form of a compass rose, by Capt. Edward McCauley, USN (retired), on behalf of President Roosevelt and Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, as hundreds of visitors and prospective bond buyers watched.

Captain McCauley explained that the medal has been awarded less than 60 times in the history of the Merchant Marine Service. The young veteran of five years at sea, two torpedoings and the dangerous "Murmansk run" to Russia received the congratulations of the American Mariner's officers, headed by its skipper, Comdr. Joseph H. Masse.

From the Interdepartmental War Savings Bond Committee came the announcement that Federal employes have purchased $3,278,070 in bonds since the drive opened.

FSA Workers Invest $1750

Federal Security Agency workers yesterday were given a short respite from their desks to visit the American Mariner at Municipal Wharf, and during their visit purchased $1750 in bonds and stamps.

District Government employes will make a similar trip through the Merchant Marine vessel from 11 a. m. until 12:30 p. m. today, and the District Commissioners and heads of various agencies will be luncheon guests of Captain Masse at 1:30 p. m.

The American Mariner also was the scene yesterday of a presentation ceremony of an honorary staff sergeant's rating to Stonewall Jackson, the Rebel, the Boston terrier who flew in 20 combat missions over the Southwest Pacific before his master, Sergt. Raymond Katz of Washington, was killed in action.

Goes to Katz's Sister

The award was made by Mrs. Spencer Waters, chairman of the War Dog Fund campaign in the District, and went to Sergeant Katz's sister, Selma, of 4918 Ninth st. nw.

At Washington National Airport, Maj. Leslie L. Blau, commanding officer of the air-depot detachment, announced that the depot leads all other military installations in the District in war-bond payroll deductions.

An Air Service Command outfit, the depot employs several hundred civilian workers. Blau reported that each worker has authorized at least a 10-per-cent deduction from his gross salary. The average deduction is 13 per cent per employe.

Terming war bond buying a form of psychological warfare, War Information Director Elmer Davis said last night the enemy is watching to see how successfully the 14-billion-dollar Fourth War Loan is met.

"And we at OWI will see to it that the people of occupied countries and theh people of the enemy countries know about it, too," he declared.

Wilson Likely To Keep WPB Executive Post

Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production Board, yesterday disclosed that he plans to "be around a little while" after a 45-minute conference with President Roosevelt.

Associates interpreted Wilson's comment as an indication that President Roosevelt asked the WPB executive, who is on leave from the presidency of General Electric Co., to withhold his resignation, which has been on the desk of WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson since early in December.

Wilson had deferred his departure at the request of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes while the President was abroad in connection with the now historic Teheran conference to give the Chief Executive a chance to talk him out of it.

Refuses to Talk of Status

Other than the brief comment, Wilson refused to discuss the status of his resignation.

However, it is believed that the conference with the President served to remove some of the uncertainty clouding the question—"Who's to do the reconversion job when the time comes."

With Wilson remaining in WPB, it is believed that the main reconversion decisions will be made by Wilson and Nelson working as a team.

Some policy guidance may come from Bernard M. Baruch, head of the OWM War and Postwar Advisory Unit, but Baruch has not laid down any over-all blueprint, permitting WPB to proceed with plans of its own.

Already, preliminary "reconversion" decisions are being made every day within the Production Executive Committee, a WPB unit headed by Wilson. The committee consists of Wilson, and representatives of the War Manpower Commission, War and Navy Departments and Maritime Commission.

The service representatives keep the committee informed on prospective contract terminations—so-called "cutbacks." The committee then considers the feasibility of the proposals from manpower and production angles to keep disruption at a minimum.

To Return From Trip South

Later, when resumption of civilian production on a large scale is authorized, this committee will be in a position to do the day-to-day coordination necessary to smooth functioning. Questions of major policy might go up to the full War Production Board, or even to the OWM.

However, this program has received no executive charter, although it is now operating on a limited scale. Wilson's comment was interpreted in some quarters as tantamount to presidential approval of the program.

Meanwhile, Wilson scheduled a fishing trip to Florida for the next week or two and said that he would return to Washington when it was over. It will be his first vacation since 1940.

Benedict Will Filed

The will of Charles J. Benedict of Forest Glen, which has been admitted to probate in the Orphans Court at Rockville, bequeaths his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Margaret Olds Benedict, and names Robert Conroy, Forest Glen, executor.

U. S. Retirement Fund Tax Upheld in Court

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21.—The Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the Tax Court of the United States in holding that funds deducted from the pay of civil service employes were taxable under the income tax law.

The case was appealed by Malcolm D. and Martha Ann Miller of Arlington who contended that $94.56 deducted from Miller's salary during 1940 for retirement benefits were not taxable.

The Appellate Court held that economic benefits were obtained by Miller under the Retirement Act and that he had purchased "substantial rights of a value which can in no event fall materially below the amount of his own contribution.

"There is no merit to Miller's contention that he received no vested rights in the money during 1940," it concluded.

In another opinion yesterday, the Appeals Court said the use of the trade name "Greenzoil" by the Crown Central Petroleum Corp. was not an infringement on the trade-mark "Pennzoil" registered by the Pennzoil company. The case was appealed from the District Court of Baltimore.

High Finance

Senator Butler, the South American explorer, has returned to the fray with an assertion that he was 95.5 per cent pure when he told the Senate last November that "our actual expenditures, commitments and extensions of credit in or for Latin America during the three years, 1942, 1943 and 1944 total more than six billion dollars." In support of his assertion he says that "the documentation of every item and of every amount has been certified and authenticated by the well-known Washington accounting firm of James A. Councilor."

But this is by no means what the well-known Washington accounting firm of James A. Councilor says about it. The well-known Washington accounting firm, in its letter of certification, merely says: "We hereby certify that the source material referred to in these lists has been examined by us and that the amounts shown are correct according to the source information." (Italics supplied with pleasure and amusement.)

This satisfies us completely as to everything except Senator Butler's sources. It means, if it means anything at all, that the Senator added his own figures correctly, even though he may have added the same amounts into the total several different times under several different disguises. Why, this is positively the most convincing audit since McKesson & Robbins saw fit to reorganize. If he succeeds in selling this sort of accounting to his colleagues, Senator Butler should find it easy to sell them stock in the Brooklyn Bridge or the Pan American Highway. We genuflect in admiration.

Now The Carolines

In itself it is only of minor importance that planes attached to Fleet Air Wing 2 in the central Pacific carried out a successful raid on Kusaei, a Japanese air base southwest of the Marshall Islands. As a harbinger of what lies ahead in that far-flung zone of operations, it is very significant indeed. For Kusaei is in the Carolines, and the Carolines, with its great naval base at Truk, constitutes one of the great objectives of our combined forces in the Pacific.

This does not mean that an assault on Truk is in the offing. We still have a long way to go before any such ambitious undertaking can be mounted. The Marshalls must first be cleared of Japs and Rabaul must be taken. But the bombing of Kusaei shows that our air power is now extending its range and may soon be in a position to carry out those preliminary attacks on the centers of Japanese power in the central Pacific. Without this preparation any future landing operations would have no chance of success.

Practice And Theory

Not so many years ago membership in the American Economic Association was confined very largely to professional economists engaged in teaching and research at colleges and universities. At the annual meetings of the association discussions consequently revolved chiefly around problems of theory. They were likewise limited to a narrow range of interests. To realize how radically times have changed it is only necessary to note what is taking place at the association's current convention in Washington. This takes the form of a joint meeting by the American Economic Association with the American Political Science Association and the American Society of Public Administration. The simple fact that these three organizations are sponsoring a program for the benefit of all their members is significant. This cooperation testifies to their awareness of the close interrelationship of the various social sciences and the need of relating economic teachings and theories of Government to problems of administration in the social and economic field.

The participants also testify to a gratifying development in the scope of discussion outside the ranks of academic specialists. Among them are members of the House and Senate, Federal administrative officials, and professors and instructors connected with our colleges and universities. The result is a program of great variety and interest. But even more important is the opportunity afforded for bringing together diverse elements that are often mistakenly assumed to have little in common. The popular belief that professors are impractical and unsuited for administrative and political office is an outgrowth of the days when academic interests were in fact divorced from practical affairs. Contrariwise, the assumption that the politician or the officeholder is a practical man having no interest in the long-range problems of Government that concern the student of political science is a holdover from the age when politicians were a less tutored race of men.

However, much still remains to be done to break down the barriers of habit and prejudice that have prevented the politician, the administrator and the theorist from doing full justice to one another. One of the best possible ways to create better understanding is to arrange meetings for an exchange of views, such as those now in progress, which we welcome as a good sign of the times.

Sucker List

An attempt to tamper with the integrity of the Civil Service retirement fund has been exposed in this newspaper by Jerry Kluttz. A Washington law firm, he reports, was furnished with a list of Federal workers who left the Government service without withdrawing from the retirement fund the money due them. The ex-employes could get this money any time they wanted it, without charge, simply by writing to the Civil Service Commission and asking for it. The law firm, however, proposed to secure it for them—at a 20 per cent fee. Its conduct has now very properly been referred to the grievance committee of the District of Columbia Bar Association.

But the nub of this ugly scandal lies in the source of the sucker list made available to the lawyers. At the repeated request of certain Congressmen, the Civil Service Commission prepared a list containing the names of 40,000 former Government workers who, collectively, had more than a million dollars in the retirement fund. This list was turned over, in confidence, to the members of Congress who had asked for it. The commission asserts that it made it available to no other persons. Indeed, when the intervention of the lawyers was discovered, the commission promptly sent letters to all those who had unrefunded retirement amounts due them and advised them that they could get their money, if they desired it, without any expense or legal assistance.

The public is entitled to know why members of Congress wanted this list and what use they made of it. Only a congressional committee can furnish the answers to these questions. The appropriate body to inquire into this situation is the Civil Service Investigating Committee headed by Representative Robert Ramspeck. He should initiate action without delay, whether the blame rests with executive or legislative members of the Government. There is no place here for the curious kind of courtesy which too often shields members of Congress from investigation by their colleagues. The story disclosed by Jerry Kluttz has, as he put it, "the earmarks of a racket."

Good Neighbor

The strained relations that exist between the United States and one or two of the other republics of this hemisphere should not make us lose sight of the infinitely more important fact that our relations with the overwhelming majority of our neighbors are today extremely close and friendly. This fact has been abundantly justified in the two years since Pearl Harbor and has found expression in the series of state visits which the chief executives of so many of the American republics have made to Washington during recent years. The latest of these most welcome visitors is Gen. Isaias Medina Angarita, President of Venezuela. A distinguished soldier, President Medina has also proved himself a real patriot, a true democrat, and a man who believes and follows out the doctrine of hemisphere solidarity. The extremely cordial reception he is getting in Washington is a tribute both to him personally and to the great and good neighbor he represents and serves.

Our Diplomatic Arm

Questions which are left in the wake of the Pravda article will not down. They have to do as much with American as with Russian policy. After the Moscow and Teheran conferences the American public were given the impression that no misunderstandings on war or peace policy were left among the Allies. On this score the returning conferees filled the country with exhilarating confidence. The Allies "agreed on every point concerned with the launching of a gigantic attack on Germany" and with the treatment of Germany. They likewise agreed on the "basic principles" governing the peace. Without a doubt Pravda has overclouded both claims. With a jolt the public now realizes that the basic principle of any relations has been endangered, namely, faith. At any rate, within less than a month of the conclusion of the Teheran parley the relations between Britain and America on the one hand and the Soviet Union on the other have become confused.

What seems to have happened at Teheran is that Britain and America listened to Marshal Stalin's reiteration that the carving of his western frontier was not susceptible of discussion. The settlement was to be bilateral between Russia and the country concerned. We were left with the choice either of accepting or rejecting this stand. Evidently we did neither, but heard out the man in the Kremlin, who doubtless thought the issue had been disposed of. The issue, however, came up almost before the conferees had gotten home. And Moscow saw the Polish government-in-exile talking it over with the British. It found itself put on the spot by the possibility of a public proffer of good offices from both Britain and America. We would venture the guess that Stalin imagined that at Teheran he had excluded such third-party intermeddling. The guess is also justifiable that we came back from Teheran with the same hope with which we went there, instead of translating it into a policy, say, local settlement.

Thus the confusion is all-round. The moral is that we must iron out a policy on the specific problems in our foreign affairs as they are now envisaged. Otherwise the existing confusion will be dangerously compounded. We could ourselves think up Mr. Hull's 30 or 40 problems which he but nobody else has remitted for postwar consideration. For instance, the attitude of the Soviet Union over its western frontiers is likely to be repeated over its eastern frontiers. We must at least be prepared for that contingency. If we are any judge, Manchuria may become a problem child among the Big Powers, as Poland now is. From the standpoint of individual security Moscow has just as much reason to roll back the Far Eastern map as to roll back the eastern European map. It is all very well to entertain a hope that maybe Russia will consider future problems in terms of collective security. We must be prepared to consider what shall be done if she doesn't, and to argue our case into a common policy when the time comes for discussion. In other words, an American policy must be developed on the whole subject of the Russian frontier, among other subjects.

This brings us to the problem of the reorganization of our diplomatic machinery to cope with our constipation in respect to policy. A new world is being created de novo. One of the chief artificers is the United States. And this titanic task requires new staffwork—just as the military effort required new staffwork. It was fantastic to think that we could win the war with our peacetime General Staff. What has happened in this respect is a vast recruitment of expert personnel in the armed services and in the Office of Strategic Services topped by the Joint Chiefs of Staff Committee. That reorganization is helping us win the war. It was imaginatively and audaciously conceived. And Congress backed it with ample funds. The same metamorphosis on our diplomatic front is required in connection with the problem of winning the peace. What happened last weekend at the State Department, however, was reorganization by way of phoney finagling. The furniture inside was shifted around, and postwar advisory committees were set up in public though they had already been established in private.

The sequence of all good staffwork, as we have found in military matters, is Intelligence-Planning-Operations. Intelligence is an internal function. But there is no sign in the present plan that the State Department has gone outside its present ranks for the recruitment of experts, as the military have done. Planning may or may not be the function of the new advisory committees. We are in some doubt about this. The word advisory reminds us of the decoration in nomenclature that adorns the letter paper of eleemosynary institutions. Planning, not advisory, committees are what we ourselves had suggested in our various pleas for reorganization. And the planners should be thoroughly representative—of the country's best brainpower, of course, but also of the legislative as well as the executive branch. After all, this new world we are called upon to build will one day have to be underwritten in the Senate. As Senator Wiley, with whose ideas on this subject we have often expressed agreement, has said, the Senate is lacking at present a liaison in information, let alone in planning. Operations, of course, can be guided by our experienced foreign service officers. Little expansion is needed in operations, though there should be more recognition of the new realities of diplomacy. The rapidity of modern communications is enabling governments more and more to bypass the diplomatists in the field. Thus the need for operational strength has shifted from the periphery to the center.

The urgency of a real reshuffle in the diplomatic arm in this dynamic world is acknowledged even in traditional Britain. There the liveliest discussion is going on around a proposal to set up a ministry of foreign policy, with separate departments for the day-to-day conduct of diplomacy, for overseas trade, for information. Each of these departments would be as big as the old Foreign Office. There is nothing phoney about the proposals which the British are now discussing. Theirs are new, thoroughgoing, up-to-date. On the contrary, our country seems to be content with puttering with the same pattern. That is what the reorganization plan amounts to. It shows that the State Department is still tied to a dead-and-gone world in which even the submission of its own too-small budget is regarded as slightly humiliating.

The subject is important enough to warrant the President in appointing a commission to study it and make recommendations, instead of letting it be handled by foreign service officers passing around fancy charts. How urgent is the need for the modernizing, strengthening and rationalizing of our diplomatic arm is highlighted by the present crisis in eastern Europe. The people know nothing about our policy in the matter. They have had fine words, and these are now sounding hollow as they collide with harsh realities. We shall find wisdom if we begin with realities both in the formulation of policy and in the means of prosecuting it.

Good Neighbors

By Virginia Prewett

Trick Butler Report

FATE OF the Butler report, which vanished from view after its first launching, is now known. It has become three reports.

These three do not agree among themselves. The second two are as fantastically incorrect as the first. The third is a trick that must assume the level of Senate intelligence to be around that of a 12-year-old child. But it does, at last, reveal why Senator Butler is taking such trouble to try to blacken the Good Neighbor policy.

Report three has a new grand total—$6,396,760,504. This differs from the total in the first blast and in the revised official version of it, which was quietly released the day Congress went home. The third version has extra trimmings—a separate figure for the Latin-American republics as distinguished from the Canal Zone and our island possessions, with a public accountant's certification.

Senator Butler's speech of presentation to the Senate claims utmost honesty for this third report on grounds of this certification. To see how the play starts here, it is necessary to go into this certification.

"Certain Lists"

The accountant's letter says that the firm of James A. Councilor & Co. have examined "certain lists" prepared by the Butler office. The certification reads: "We hereby certify that the source material referred to in these lists has been examined by us and that the amounts shown are correct according to the source information."

A man who identified himself to this writer as James Councilor, chief of the firm, Thursday categorically refused to move one jot from this statement. His firm has not audited the books of the United States Government. It has done only what it says in the covering letter—verified that the figures in the report are the same as the figures in Senator Butler's source material.

This throws the spotlight and the whole burden of authenticity on the source material.

Here it becomes clear as daylight that the total figure was built up by a system of research that permits concealed repetitions of large sums. This is how it was done:

The report has 115 items. Twenty figures were taken from letters from United States Government officials stating the expenditures of their agencies. A number were sent to the Butler office direct. Thirty-one items came from the budget's list of requests for expenditures. Forty-four came from laws authorizing expenditures. Six came from letters from agency heads submitted in the McKellar report exploding Butler's original charges. Nine came from official reports and periodic financial statements by departments and agencies. One was picked up from a Senate inquiry, another from a hearing. Three actually came from news reports.

Under this system a figure could be included once in the budget request, again in the congressional law authorizing the expenditure, again in an annual report on expenses by the department or agency, again in a letter from an agency head to Senator Butler reporting expenditures and any number of times in news and magazine stories.

By this method of compiling source material, anybody could make up a list totaling 25 billion if he wanted to. A public accountant could still certify that the laws, letters, reports, news stories, etc., actually existed and had been correctly quoted—yet the report would still not be true or honest.

Number of Duplications

A number of large duplications have been made in the third Butler report. Trick repetition runs only one item, the figures for the Rockefeller office, from 129 million dollars to $232,110,000.

The question now arises—what is the motive behind this series of trumped-up reports? Senator Butler pays heavy lip service to the good-neighbor policy, yet we have it from no less an authority than Secretary of State Hull that his first charges injured that policy. Senator Butler's persistence in attack shows that he is perfectly willing to keep on injuring this vital security policy in a time of crisis.

His speech presenting the third report gives clearly why he is doing so. He says: "This multi-billion-dollar total is important because it demonstrates, in Latin America, what the present Administration aims to do all over the world. In Latin America we have already found that . . . the Treasury of the United States cannot successfully be the agent for building our postwar world."

Senator Butler's attack is opening gun of a barrage by isolationism intended to kill this Nation's postwar world cooperation. The tactic is to blow up spending in Latin America far beyond the true figure and to scare the American people back into isolationism on score of expense.

Let us not be deceived. There is more of this to come. This is isolationism on the march—an isolationism that, if it gets into the saddle, will lead us directly into an armistice instead of a peace and from that ultimately into a third world war.

Drive In The North

By Barnet Nover

Liberation Of Leningrad

OF ALL THE GREAT sieges of this war—Leningrad, Odessa, Tobruk, Corregidor, Sevastopol, Malta, Stalingrad—none was of greater duration, none involved more individuals and none resulted in a greater loss of life than the siege of Russia's second largest city and its former capital.

The siege of Leningrad began on August 21, 1941, two months after the German attack on Russia was launched. It reached its period of greatest intensity during the winter of that year when, according to some estimates, a million inhabitants died of cold and hunger. While the pressure on the city and its population was considerably eased a year ago, following the recapture by the Red Army of Schluesselberg, a development which made possible the reopening of communications between Leningrad and Moscow, Leningrad still remained within range of German artillery and was repeatedly shelled by the Nazis.

Now, 29 months after the siege of Leningrad began, the threat to that great city and its heroic inhabitants has finally been liquidated. The Germans today are in retreat in the north of Russia as well as in the south.

IT MAY BE more than a coincidence that the flaring into new life of the long inactive front from Leningrad south occurred soon after the Russian forces, through their capture of Sarny and other points on the Rovno-Wilno line, had severed the last direct line of rail communications connecting the German forces in the north with those in Poland and the Ukraine.

This development meant that any reinforcement of the threatened German armies east of the Bug had to come from reserves inside Germany rather than by stripping the northern sector. For after the Russian capture of Sarny, troops from the Leningrad-Veliki Lukie region could only reach the south by making a great detour by way of Brest-Litovsk.

With the German troops now under pressure in the north as well as the south Hitler and his generals are up against a tough problem in the disposition of their reserves. They can only strengthen one threatened salient in the east at the expense of another. And they can only reinforce their armies facing the Russians by weakening the force they are keeping in the west to guard against the threatened invasion from across the Channel.

There is no indication that they have done or are even contemplating the latter. Instead, the German strategy appears to be to keep the anti-invasion force intact while withdrawing wherever and whenever necessary on the Eastern Front.

SUCH A STRATEGY, as a matter of fact, is today as much a matter of necessity as of choice. For one result of the persistent and heavy Allied bombing of German centers in western and central Germany has been to impose very heavy additional burdens on the already strained German transportation system.

This is one reason, although only one, why the assault on Berlin continues. Berlin is not only one of Germany's most important industrial centers and the administrative heart of occupied Europe but is also a major communications point. From Berlin, railroads and roads radiate in every direction. Rail communications between Berlin and the east are particularly important for the supply and maintenance of the German forces in the northern sector of the Russian front.

IT IS EVIDENT from the communiques that the Germans have suffered a disaster in the fighting below Leningrad.

They have been forced to give up the heavily fortified city of Novogorod, they have lost large numbers of men and considerable quantities of supplies including many of the siege guns with which they pounded Leningrad. And they are now threatened with the loss of the Baltic states.

It is significant, however, that in the Ukraine the Germans have launched a series of fierce counterattacks designed to prevent the Russians from advancing beyond Innitsa and severing the Odessa-Lwow line, the last great trunk line connecting the German troops in southwest Russia with central Europe.

Serious as would be the loss to Germany of the Baltic states, since that would inevitably be followed by the collapse of Finnish resistance and the elimination of Finland as a belligerent, a Russian drive into the Balkans by way of Rumania would be, from the German point of view, even more serious still.

So it is hardly surprising that it is in the south that Germany's greatest strength on the Eastern Front is now concentrated. But the Russians now enjoy the initiative. Held up in the south, slowed up in Poland, they have found it possible to launch a successful drive in the north.

National Highway

The proposal for a National Highway System is sound and far reaching. It would break down barriers, promote national unity, distribute production and make us all better acquainted with our country and with each other. There is scarcely a business in the country that would not be favorably affected except the existing transportation systems, and Lord knows they are used to meeting their problems with heads up.

As a postwar rehabilitation project it is of incalculable value.

Now take a map of the United States and draw four broad lines from east to west. No. 1, from New York through Chicago to Seattle; No. 2, from Washington through St. Louis to San Francisco; No. 3, from Norfolk through Memphis to El Paso to connect with number four; No. 4, from Jacksonville through New Orleans to Los Angeles. The north-south routes would be seven broad lines at proper intervals from the Canadian to the southern border. Of course none of these lines would be straight, but would allow for physical and population considerations as well as for existing highways.

Think what such a system would have meant in the present emergency.

The invalid objection to the National Highway recently appeared in your columns that the plan was all outgo and no income. There are two entirely feasible ways to pay for the system. First, a Federal one-half cent per gallon sales tax on gasoline; and the other, a one-fourth cent per mile toll. The system should have at least four lanes throughout; the two inside lanes should be through, unlimited speed lanes, and the toll required in those. After the system is paid for, which would take from five to ten years, the same as for its building, it should be turned over to the States. These could continue the tolls, applying all funds to maintenance and extension of State roads; or it could abolish them.

Saving Tires

When I came in my office this morning I noticed a large poster appealing to car owners to save their tires! We're trying to save our tires and would appreciate a little more cooperation from the Police Department (or whatever department may have charge) in removing broken glass from the streets. And how about inspecting the parking lots, especially in the vicinity of the South Agriculture Building? More tires are ruined by broken glass and nails picked up in the streets and parking lots than by mistreatment by the car owners. L. S. E.

Polish Boundaries

The question of Polish boundaries after the war and of Polish-Soviet diplomatic relations has been quite prominent in the newspapers lately. I am not an isolationist, yet recent events have given me a clearer understanding of the eternal diplomatic and political chicanery George Washington must have had in mind when he spoke of "foreign entanglements."

When the United Nations sit at the peace table the problem of the blood-soaked European boundaries must be settled, for only then can we hope for a lasting peace.

I believe that Poland's territorial claims will be settled equitably, but for the present the Polish diplomats make a somewhat legendary picture of themselves to us Americans, for we remember how Poland seized a portion of Czechoslovakia when that country was overrun by the Nazis, and he who asks for equity must do so with clean hands. G. B. G.
Washington, Jan. 16.

It is true, the Polish borders west and east are of mixed population and a definite line to separate those nationalities cannot be drawn, but on the other hand, does Russia, Rumania or Hungary have a homogeneous population? Hitler's declaration has no meaning, and it looks as if Stalin follows Hitler's steps.

If Russia can do what she pleases and nobody can stop her from doing so, then the Allied efforts and postwar plans are crumbling to pieces before they are even finished. STANLEY KOLO.

Railroad Wreck

The recent train wreck in North Carolina is the result perhaps of the most careless piece of railroading in our time.

No one with any sense can understand how a train crew could not be advised of the wreck which had occurred 40 minutes previously. Two-way radios and walkie-talkies are just as practical for railroading as they are for police and fire department work. It is obvious that this North Carolina district is not equipped with the block signal system, or else this wreck could not have occurred. The storm element would not have entered into it had the members of the crew of the southbound train placed torpedoes on both tracks to warn approaching trains. Seemingly, neither of these trains was properly equipped with emergency warning devices. Witnesses speak of makeshift flares being used to stop the freight trains.

Postwar Japan

WHEN EX-AMBASSADOR to Tokyo Joseph C. Grew told the Illinois Education Association recently that Japanese emperor-worship might be an asset in keeping the peace, and that it might be advantageous to have postwar Japan run by "a peace-seeking ruler not controlled by the military," he caused consternation in a good many quarters where it had been considered as an axiom that no permanent reform could be achieved in Japanese political thinking unless this stultifying influence were erased from it.

Ambassador Grew insisted that he was expressing only a personal opinion, but few observers believed that he would have done so if he had been in violent disagreement with official policy—and instructions to American propaganda departments have consistently ordered them to refrain from personal attacks on the Emperor of Japan.

Chinese opinion does not seem to be in accord with this view, though Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's New Year message was not necessarily in opposition with it. "It is my opinion," he said, "that all the Japanese militarists must be wiped out and the Japanese political system must be purged of every vestige of aggressive elements. As to what form of government Japan should adopt, that question can better be left to the awakened and repentant Japanese people to decide for themselves."

Imperial Rule

This statement might be interpreted to mean that the generalissimo would have no objection to the maintenance of the imperial rule, if the Japanese people should themselves be willing to accept it, once the militarists were cleaned out. But other influential Chinese have expressed themselves much more definitely in favor of the necessary elimination of the Emperor.

Thus Chien Tuan-sheng, professor at the National Southwest University of China, recently stated, "The Japanese crown should be overthrown," while Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative Yuan of the Chinese government, declared, "The Japanese Empire must be overthrown and a Japanese Republic set up in its place."

Dr. Sun's opinion is of special importance, for his place in the Chinese government system is roughly akin to that of the president of the legislature in Western countries. He believes that the Japanese doctrine of Tenno (that is, the belief that the Emperor is a god in human form) must be eliminated because it serves as a convenient cloak for the Japanese imperialists on the necessity for whose elimination everyone agrees.

"In order to command absolute submission on the part of the people so as to carry out their nefarious designs for aggrandizement and glorification," Dr. Sun said, "the militarist caste simply makes use of the Tenno as their willing puppet, who submits to being deified before death."

Dr. Sun disagrees with the American theory that Tenno is so deeply rooted that it cannot be easily destroyed, but can be employed to lead the Japanese people in a new direction as the result of unquestioned reverence for the Emperor as a spiritual and moral leader. Nor does he agree that the Emperor's prestige is sufficient to enable him to control all groups and tendencies in his domain. To support this statement, Dr. Sun might have pointed to Ambassador Grew's own testimony of an earlier date—that the Emperor had definitely ordered his military leaders not to make war on the United States, but had been disobeyed by them.

Japanese Culture

Dr. Sun, with many other experts on Japanese culture, holds that the divine position of the Japanese Emperor is a comparatively recent creation of the militarists. Before Japan emerged from her isolation, after Commodore Perry's visit to that country, respect for the Mikado was so slight that on several occasions the death of an Emperor embarrassed an imperial household too poor to pay for a fitting burial.

The "Son of Heaven" concept, these scholars point out, was originally a Chinese idea, borrowed by the Japanese ruling class as a convenient means for dominating the people. The Chinese themselves abolished their imperial system, but Dr. Sun does not believe that a similar action can be expected from the Japanese, who, unlike the Chinese, have no revolutionary party. "The proposed Japanese revolution," he says, "will have to be initiated and introduced by the United Nations after the defeat of the Japanese military power."

The dilemma in Japan is in many respects like the dilemma in Germany. In neither case are there signs that any spontaneous revolution from within is likely to purge the state of its dangerous elements. And for both cases there are advocates of leaving the choice of the future regime to the conquered peoples themselves—the people who, before the war, allowed themselves to become the instruments of aggressive elements, and may, lacking vigilance from without, do so again. The noninterventionists support the theory that we may intervene in the internal affairs of enemy nations to the extent of dropping 2-ton block busters upon them, but not to the extent of seeing to it that they get the kind of governments which will not bring such retaliation upon them again.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Stimson On National Service

LIPPMANN

ON WEDNESDAY Secretary Stimson made a statement which, whatever Congress does about national service, will have a high place in the great tradition of American public life. For here in measured and compelling words is the argument that the Republic cannot oblige some of its people to serve the Nation and exempt all the rest of its people from the obligation. It was on the moral principle that there must be one standard of duty, not two differing standards for the soldier and the civilian, that Mr. Stimson rested his argument. He appealed to the American conscience on an elementary moral principle.

The mark of greatness in troubled times is to do just that—to cut through all other considerations and calculations to the basic issue of right and wrong. It is wrong for us who are civilians to owe no legal obligation to serve. It is right that our obligation should be equal in law—though it can never be equal in the reality of sacrifice—with that of the men who fight. To make this truth clear is leadership. To acknowledge this truth, when it has been made clear, is each man's plain duty. To reject this truth is to fail in one's duty. That is the argument for a national service act. All the rest of the argument is over details.

THERE IS NO answer to Secretary Stimson's argument. When armies were raised by volunteering, no one had a legal obligation to serve his country. Now that our armies are raised by compulsory service, it is a crying injustice and wholly immoral that the support of those armies should depend not upon the obligation to support them but upon personal choice, private whims, and upon bargaining for money enforced by threats of a refusal to serve. No one can defend the double standard of duty, and even if there were not the practical and urgent reasons why national service legislation is more necessary than ever at this stage of the war, it would still be imperative that we cleanse ourselves by establishing one single universal standard of duty for all able-bodied adults.

There are, however, urgent and practical reasons, which Mr. Stimson alluded to but did not dwell upon, why at this stage of the war national service should be adopted. One of them is that when the German phase of the war ends, a tremendous re-orientation will take place in order to conclude the Japanese phase. If in this difficult and complex transition we do not have national service, it will be each civilian worker for himself and the devil take the hindmost. The workers who remain loyally at war jobs, and those who cannot leave them, will then suffer injustice in relation to those who get a favored place at the top of the list of peacetime jobs. Only a national service act can introduce justice and order into the partial and then into the general demobilization.

BUT IN TRUTH it ought to be a sufficient reason for Mr. Green, Mr. Murray, Senator Vandenberg, or anyone else, that Secretary Stimson asks for this legislation in the name of the Armies of the United States. Each of us is, of course, entitled to his opinion, but there are times when the faithful citizen will defer to a more authoritative opinion than his own. This is such a time. Maybe an argument can be made that perhaps it will not prolong the war to do without this legislation. Mr. Green, Mr. Murray, Mr. Vandenberg think so. But Mr. Stimson thinks the legislation is necessary, and what he thinks is necessary to win the war at the least cost is a more important opinion than anyone else's opinion.

For to his care is committed the welfare of the American Army. It is he who had to set the machinery in motion calling these men out of their homes to the training camps and the battlefields. It is he who must guard their interests while they are away and must bring them back again to their people. If he thinks that this Army needs the support of a National Service Act, who has a better right to be believed?

LET THE PEOPLE at home who have a man in this war ask themselves where, from whom, they can obtain wiser and more disinterested advice on what is good for their men than from the present Secretary of War. What conceivable purpose could he have except to protect the Army under his care? He is no politician with a constituency, and he will never seek any other public office. He has served the Nation with honor and distinction longer than any other man in public life, and there is nothing that he could seek, nothing that he could want, except the welfare and success of the Army, and the public good.

He stands above party, above ambition, and above any possible criticism of his motives. And he speaks as hundreds and hundreds of thousands of Americans are poised for the greatest battles ever fought by American forces. He is entitled to our trust, and to be followed even by those who feel that they have a different opinion. For on this subject and at this time he speaks with authority.

WLB Reports Plant Pay Boost Of 15% Since Stabilization

By Ben W. Gilbert

The War Labor Board yesterday reported to Congress that weekly earnings of factory workers increased 15.4 per cent during the first year of the stabilization act, but the agency disclaimed responsibility for all but a small portion of the increase.

During the year from October, 1942, when the stabilization act was passed, to October, 1943, the average weekly "take home" of factory workers increased from $38.89 to $44.90, WLB said.

However, the board said that its decisions actually accounted for straight time wage increases of 1.09 cents per hour, averaged over all factory workers.

Some 2,551,000 factory employes involved in so-called voluntary cases where the employer joined in a request for wage increases received an average increase of 5.9 cents an hour, WLB said. Adding in 1,228,000 nonfactory workers who received an average boost of 7.4 cents an hour provided an overall voluntary average of 6.4 cents an hour for 3,779,000 workers.

Increases Explained

Some 420,000 factory workers and 116,000 nonfactory workers involved in dispute cases where employers and employes disagreed received increases averaging 5.6 cents per hour.

Explaining the comparatively larger jumps in weekly take-home earnings, the board explained that many factory workers received increases in earnings by moving from industries with low-wage scales to industries with relatively high scales. In addition, many unemployed workers, or workers employed outside of industry have taken jobs in war industries, increasing the average "take."

Some of the increase resulted from additional overtime work, WLB said. (WLB ruling customarily apply to basic pay rates, and do not apply to take-home wages.)

"Changes in the distribution of employe-hours among industries," WLB said, "the increasing relative importance of the high wage durable goods and war industries—also continued in this period to exercise an important influence on labor earnings."

Another factor cited by WLB was adjustment to individuals made by employers under general grants of authority from WLB.

The report, required monthly by law, disclosed that WLB's 12 regional boards received slightly more cases than it disposed of during the four week period ending November 26.

A total of 12,654 applications for voluntary adjustments were filed; 11,643 were disposed of. Just 406 dispute cases were received, and 402 were disposed of.

The report pointed out that voluntary increase approvals accounted for almost seven times as much of the increase in straight-time hourly earnings of factory workers as did dispute cases. The total rise of 1.09 cents, spread over all factory workers, amounted to an increase of 1.3 per cent above the level prevailing at the beginning of wage stabilization, the report said.

Russian Criminologist One of 60 New Citizens

Dr. Peter Lejins, 35, of 4506 Guilford rd., College Park, Md., Russian-born criminologist of the University of Maryland, became an American citizen at naturalization proceedings in Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday.

A native of Moscow, Dr. Lejins came to this country four years ago. He was one of 60 persons whose petitions for naturalization were granted by Judge Charles Marbury.

Warren Sees Waste in 1941 Ship Deal

By the Associated Press

The Government's purchase of 10 cargo ships from the Southern Pacific Co. (Morgan Line) in 1941 at a price of $4,733,952 "resulted in a wasteful and extravagant expenditure of public funds," Comptroller General Lindsay Warren has reported to Congress.

The report, made public yesterday, said the vessels were bought outright by the United States Maritime Commission when they legally could have been requisitioned for immediate war use pending a full investigation of their value.

"The fact that $3,580,000 had to be spent to recondition the vessels shortly after their purchase," Warren's report said, "suggests that at least this condition of the contract (taking the ships on an 'as is' basis) was unreasonable and not in the public interest."

Transmitted "for the information" of Congress, the report said the vessels ranged in age from 17 to 30 years, that they aggregated 66,590 deadweight tons, and that the purchase in June, 1941, was in compliance with a directive by President Roosevelt that the Maritime Commission immediately acquire two million tons of cargo shipping for war shipping purposes.

"The commission purchased the vessels on an 'as is' basis without warranty as to physical condition," the report said. "Well might it be said that the Government bought 'a pig in a poke'—in fact, 10 of them."

"It is true of course that such determinations may be controled in many cases by other than dollars and cents economy," it continued. "Also it is true that reasonable men using their best, honest judgment may differ as to the proper course of action in the same circumstances.

"However, in the purchase of these Morgan Line vessels there is evidence indicating that the commission utterly disregarded its responsibility to the Congress and to the taxpayers of the United States by pursuing a course of action which was unsound and improvident at the very outset and could lead only to waste and extravagance in the expenditure of public funds."

Arlington Woman Gets First Navy Civilian Pin

The first of the Navy's recognition pins for civilian service to be awarded in the office of public relations was presented today to Helene Philibert of 3402 3rd st. north, Arlington, a former resident of St. Louis.

The pin was presented to Miss Philibert by Capt. Leland P. Lovette, director of public relations, who complimented her on her 25 years of service. She joined the Navy's public relations office during World War I as an assistant press officer, and now heads the reference section.

District Court Asked to Halt Esquire Ban

By Joseph Paull

Justices of District Court were petitioned yesterday to don their robes and spectacles to judge whether Esquire's leggy girls and gags are fit to travel by second class mail.

Attorneys for Esquire filed suit to set aside the mailing curb imposed by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker on the grounds that the publication contained information of an "unpublic character," and thus was unfit for the second class mailing privileges. Revocation becomes effective Februrary 28 unless injunctions are granted.

Walker is expected to file his answer to the suit next week. Summonses to bring Postoffice officials into court were sent out last night.

Arbitrary Action Charged

The suit complains that Walker acted arbitrarily and capriciously in that he imposed the ban "contrary to law and to the established practice of a postoffice department."

Walker issued the ban after a three-man hearing board chosen by him judged, 2 to 1, that the magazine was not obscene. Walker then placed the unfit charge against the publication.

The suit says Walker ignored the record of the hearings and acted as he did only to compel a court review of the case.

It is Walker's contention that Congress' grant of the cheap mailing privilege is in effect a subsidy toward magazines of educational and public type. Walker, the suit alleges, is mistaken in the law because "he determined that the statutory language should be limited to such information as might be considered by him for the public good and the public welfare."

Has 700,000 Circulation

Esquire contends that should Walker's order stand, the magazine would have to expend about $624,000 a year to use parcel post. Esquire has a circulation of 700,000 a month. They further contend the magazine meets the law in every respect and is devoted in part to the industry of clothing.

The suit does not plead on the basis of freedom of the press. During the last two weeks, District Court justices, in two cases, have held that the Postmaster, in limiting use of the mail privilege, does not violate the free press provisions of the Constitution.

The court is petitioned for temporary and permanent injunctions and is asked to direct Walker to produce the entire record of the proceedings of the Postoffice Board.

The filing of the suit was accompanied by an advertising campaign in the newspapers explaining Esquire's action.

Filing the petition was Attorney Hugh Lynch, jr., in behalf of the New York law firm of Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine and Wood.

Gettysburg Address Given Modern Dress by Seabees

Neenah, Wis., Jan. 21 (AP).—Mrs. Dorothy Sell, whose husband, Arvin, is a carpenter's mate second class with the Seabees somewhere in the South Pacific, received this parody on Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, which Sell said he and a companion had written:

"Two score and seven days ago our battalion brought forth upon this island a new project, conceived in a foxhole and dedicated to the proposition that all Japs are created evil.

"We are now ensnared in the heat, rain and mud of the island, testing whether this project or the Seabees will long endure.

"We are all together slipping and sliding as we do this, but in a larger sense we cannot cultivate, we cannot navigate, we cannot harrow this ground, for those great rains which make this mud here have made it impossible, far above the poor power of all but the "cats" (tractors).

"It is for us, the Seabees, rather to be enslaved here by this menial labor which they who are in charge have thus so freely advanced. It is rather for us to be here sickened by the dish of hash set before us, that from these cans we took our nourishment; nor no devotion to those cooks, for our stomachs gave an everlasting measure of commotion.

"The world will little note nor longer remember what we build here, but we shall never forget the hash and beans we ate here. Let us resolve that we shall not have sweat in vain; that this battalion shall have 30 days of freedom in the United States by Easter; that this thought shall not perish from our hopes."

Ore Use at New Peak

Cleveland, Jan. 21 (AP).—Iron ore consumption in 1943 reached an all-time peak of 89,027,689 gross tons compared with 86,225,460, the 1942 record high, the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association reported today.

The Gallup Poll

Majority of Americans Today Think War In Europe Will End in 1944, Survey Shows

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 21.—As of today a majority of the American people agree with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's prediction, "We will win the European war in 1944."

The average of all guesses in an Institute Poll just completed would put the end of European hostilities in October of this year—only a few weeks before the presidential election.

Public thinking continues along more sober lines so far as the Japanese conflict goes. Only six out of every one hundred U. S. voters think the war with the Japanese will be over before we enter 1945. The average of all guesses would end the Pacific war in two years.

As in past polls on the question, field reporters for the Institute put the problem to a representative segment of the total voting population as follows:

"How much longer do you think the war with Germany will last?"

The same question was asked with reference to Japan, but with sharply contrasting results, as the tables below indicate:

PUBLIC'S GUESSES

Length of War with Germany:

Will end first half of 1944	12%
Second half of 1944	46
In 1945	31
In 1946	5
In 1947 or later	1
Undecided	5

Length of War with Japan:

Will end first half of 1944	1%
Second half of 1944	5
In 1945	33
In 1946	33
In 1947 or later	20
Undecided	8

Other interesting facts brought to light in the present poll:

1. Women are more pessimistic about when the war in Europe will end. Sixty-two per cent of the men think the war with Germany will end in 1944; only 52 per cent of the women hold a like opinion.

2. Approximately one year ago, in February, 1943, the average guess was that the war with Germany would be over by now. In the summer of 1943 the guess was that the European phase would end in July of this year. Now the average guess is October, or nine months from now.

DIAGONALLY ACROSS FROM THE UNITED STATES TREASURY

January 22, 1867

The National Savings and Trust Company was founded Seventy-Seven Years Ago as the National Safe Deposit Company, under an Act of Congress signed by Andrew Johnson, seventeenth President of the United States.

In 1891 the Company absorbed the old National Savings Bank. In 1907 an Act of Congress signed by President Theodore Roosevelt permitted a change in name to the National Savings and Trust Company.

From its inception, this Bank began to lay a solid foundation of helpful public service, with understanding and vision. Its growth has been steady—through years of peace and prosperity—through wars and depressions. From year to year it has faithfully mirrored changes in the Nation's Capital, in the City's life and thought, in the scale and scope of its achievements and aspirations. It has reflected the advances, too, in Banking and Trust Services.

It is a far cry from the small, three-story structure of 1867 to today's bank building with the green patina-covered clock tower known throughout the world.

Through the years this financial institution has remained at the corner which cradled its start—"diagonally across from the United States Treasury"—serving faithfully—steadfast to that fundamental principle of helpful public service with which it began—a principle as permanent with this Bank as its Charter of Perpetual Existence.

Many Events Mapped for Service Folk

A "gold rush dance" tonight at the USO Club at the Central YMCA, 1736 G st. nw., is among the numerous events planned for servicemen and women over the weekend in the Capital.

The theme of burlesque acts and a gold rush contest will center around the idea of the original nugget of gold that started the California gold rush of 1849. USO guides point out this gold weekly to servicemen visiting the National Museum of Natural History. Miss Mary Sue Callicott and Miss Nola McDonald, cochairmen of the USO sightseeing guide service in cooperation with the YMCA, are in charge of arrangements.

Justices of the Supreme Court have been invited to be honor guests this afternoon at the canteen of the National Press Club. Also expected to attend are Admiral Emory S. Land, head of the United States Maritime Commission, and officers of The American Mariner which recently arrived in Washington. Refreshments will be served from 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Peggy Le Baron, former Broadway singing star, will be guest artist at 10 p. m. at Servicemen's Club No. 1, 306 Ninth st. nw. The weekly dance will begin at 8:30 p. m. and include lessons in square and ballroom dancing.

Open house will be held tomorrow from 2 to 5 p. m. at the Stage Door Canteen. Guest artists will be Belle Fenstock, composer and pianist; the Navy School of Music Band, and the Vivian Nicholson dancers.

Special events scheduled at all of the USO Clubs over the weekend include:

Conference Today

WAVES' Use Of Dormitory Awaits Talks

Whether 2000 WAVES drop anchor in the handsomely appointed dormitories of Arlington Farms residence halls next week will be decided today at a "showdown" conference of Army and Navy with Budget Bureau, National Housing Agency, and Civil Service officials.

Meanwhile other agencies, like FBI and Treasury—which, like the War Department, used promises of rooms at the exclusive "girls' town" as a heavy selling point in their civilian recruitment program throughout the country—were wondering how they will fill commitments of new arrivals if the decision favors the WAVES.

One Girl Turned Away

Although a tentative agreement with NHA early this week provided that incoming tenants be admitted to the Farms on a permanent basis until final word on the WAVES comes through, at least one girl has already been turned away, it was learned yesterday.

The girl involved arrived last week, suitcase in hand and eager to see the pretty room a Treasury recruiting officer had shown her in photographs back home. One hour later she stood in the office of Theodore Wilson, personnel director for the Treasury Department, and, weeping unhappily, told Wilson that she had been turned away—there were no rooms available at Arlington Farms. She was going back home, she said.

Wilson yesterday cited this case in his concern that recruiting of hundreds of desperately needed white-collar Government workers may suffer "irreparably" if the WAVES are given rooms at Arlington Farms promised to civilians.

Almost at "Rock Bottom"

"It puts us, as well as the other agencies, in the position of misrepresenting inducements to come to Washington when we recruit girls from distant cities," he declared.

Present at the conference today—and pointing to the urgency of the situation so far as the War Department is concerned—will be a representative from the Office of the Secretary of War who has personally studied the matter.

According to a spokesman for NHA yesterday, however, the outcome will have no "long term" repercussions. Promises of rooms at Arlington Farms can not go on forever, he said, since dormitory space is "rapidly reaching rock bottom." In addition, "within a month or two, Government employment is expected to taper off materially," he added.

Two Notaries Sworn In

Governor O'Conor has appointed Frances T. Fisher and Earl N. Lowe notaries public for Montgomery County. Both have subscribed to the oath before Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Circuit Court at Rockville. Arnold M. Worth has been made a special deputy sheriff for the county by Sheriff Robert W. Farmer, and he, too, has taken the oath before Clerk Watkins.

Bond Premiere for 'Tender Comrade'

Keith's Schedules Event for Feb. 2; News and Gossip of the Theater

IN A SPIRIT of wholehearted cooperation, Washington motion picture interests and three great, national film organizations are combining forces to insure the success of the war bond premiere to be celebrated at RKO-Keith's Theater on Wednesday night, February 2, at 9 p. m. The picture to be given its pre-release showing on this occasion will be RKO-Radio's production of "Tender Comrade," in which Ginger Rogers, as the "chin-up girl," is said to have her best role to date and one that places her high in the competition for this year's Academy Award.

For this war bond performance the RKO-Keith management is donating the theater and all services requisite to the presentation, and canceling that night's performance of Deanna Durbin's "His Butler's Sister" and its revenue.

Fifty theaters in the Capital will issue bonds and distribute tickets to the purchasers for this contribution to the Fourth War Loan Drive. These will include both the downtown, first-run houses and those in the neighborhoods.

It is stipulated that only bonds of $100, $50 and $25 denominations will be sold and only one ticket to the premiere issued with each bond bought. This is necessitated by the limited capacity of RKO-Keith's and, of course, has a direct bearing on the number of tickets that will be available at each of the 50 bond-issuing box offices. irst come, first served.

No tickets will be issued beyond the seating capacity of the house. No seats will be reserved, but the theater will be divided into sections corresponding with the face value of the bonds purchased.

Bonds and seats are now available, as above. The judicious thing would be to shake a leg and get yours before they are all snapped up.

And speaking of such, it has just been reported to this desk that the war bond matinee of the "Ice-Capades of 1944," scheduled for the Uline Arena a week from today, under the joint sponsorship of the Washington Variety Club and Radio Station WRC, already is an assured sellout. Furthermore, "Ice-Capades" has shattered every Washington record for an attraction of its type by having run up an advance sale that has passed the $50,000 mark. It is anticipated that by Tuesday an approximate $65,000 will be in the till in advance of the opening.

Our early-week advance tip has been confirmed by word from the Theater Guild that the preliminary tour of its production of Franz Werfel's "Jacobowsky and the Colonel" has been extended to include a two-week engagement at the National Theater, beginning Monday night, February 28. Louis Calhern, Annabella, Oscar Karlweis and J. Edward Bromberg are at the top of the cast. And if you see this in tomorrow's paper, that was written before this was.

A Tour De Luxe in Effigy

That wicker hamper, about the size of a steamer trunk, that was breaking down the desk when we came in Thursday morning, contained a two-day visit to New York as guest of United Artists, who labeled it a "Knickerbocker Holiday Jun-Kit."

This vicarious pilgrimage presupposed that we never got there, or, if we did, that we couldn't get in any of the places U. A. had selected for our entertainment. So the bamboo portmanteau contained 17 mementoes of what might have been, each ornately wrapped and tied with satin ribbon, making like a Christmas encore in January.

Item No. 1 was a tube of foot powder, because we had to walk from the station—or was it La Guardia Field?—to the New Yorker Hotel. Not being able to get into the Automat, we snitched a deck of playing cards from "21"; at Benson and Hedges we snatched a carton of Virginia Round cigarettes, walked off with a woven basket of Chinese sweets from Ruby Foo's and were given an autographed picture and a locket of her blonde hair by Mimi Walthers when we didn't go to see the "Ziegfeld Follies." Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe turned up with a souvenir program missing and somebody swiped an ash tray and matches from the Stork Club.

Since all this nonexistent excitement probably kept us awake, there was a copy of Margaret Buell Wilder's "Since You Went Away" to read, and a box of aspirin, just in case.

The second day of the magic carpet business produced a package of American Mixture pipe tobacco from Dunhill's, a box of Sherry's bitter-sweet chocolates, an illuminated brochure on "Carmen Jones," a double-faced record of Hildegarde's "Why Do I Love You?" and "The Last Time I Saw Paris," to take the place of a mirage of cocktails at the Plaza, and six 4-oz. packages of that many kinds of Blue Moon cheese spreads, all done up in a menu from Reuben's. Because we couldn't have gotten in to see "Oklahoma," even if we had been there—and had seen it anyway—there was tossed in a folio of six double-faced Decca records of the song hits from that fabulous musical.

The final inclusion was a receipted bill for two days at the New Yorker, including bar tabs of insulting—or flattering, depending on how you look at it—proportions.

The only plug for "Knickerbocker Holiday, in which our old friend Charles Coburn portray's the role created on the stage by our old friend Walter Huston, was a complete set of "stills"—as superb a demonstration of press agent restraint as we have ever encountered!

Blue Tops Bogart In View of One

Hollywood. — For a French sailor, 24, who visited the Humphrey Bogart set at Warner Bros., the star was not Bogart but Monte Blue, who has been a big name in the sailor's life since a certain fortnight on a South Sea island beach almost 20 years ago.

The sailor, Lysis Lavigne, was one of a group who visited the "Passage to Marseille" set.

He asked to meet Blue, who is playing a minor role, and then recalled an incident which the actor remembered well. It was Blues' visit to Papeete and Tahiti in 1927 as the star of "White Shadows in the South Seas,' then in production.

Blue was stricken with sunstroke and was nursed back to health by the sailor's mother, Eugenie Lavigne, for whom Blue has ever since remained the only big star in Hollywood.

'Apple Queen' Wins New Contract

Hollywood.—Apple blossom time is over for Noreen Roth. The statuesque brunette, 19 years old, has been signed to a new term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and goes into a prominent part in "Mr. Co-Ed," starring Red Skelton.

LEONARD LYONS

Times Square Tattle

New York, Jan. 21.—In an interview last week Canada Lee, who played the role of Spencer, the steward, in Alfred Hitchcock's "Lifeboat," protested, somewhat belatedly, about the portrayal he had been called upon to give. Lee, a good actor, cited, as an example of the script's discriminatory tones the fact that in the scene where he shows his baby's picture to Henry Hull, the baby's name originally was "George Washington Spencer." The interviewer reported that the baby's re-christening in the script, to "Stephen Spencer," instead of "George Washington Spencer," was a triumph for tolerance . . . Hitchcock's representative read the interview and its suggestion that only "second-class citizens" are given the name "George Washington" . . . "Try telling that," said Hitchcock's man, "to the family of Dr. George Washington Carver."

JOE E. BROWN

Wendell Willkie will enter the California primaries. He'll tour the Northwest, too, during his campaigning . . . John Steinbeck is in Mexico finishing his novel—a super Tortilla Flats story set in Mexico . . . The Philadelphia Orchestra, with Eugene Ormandy conducting, will start a series of Saturday afternoon broadcasts for CBS January 29 . . . Clifton Fadiman confessed the other night that he hasn't read a single new book since he resigned as literary reviewer for the New Yorker . . . The J. P. McEvoys, who already own five homes in various sections of America, this week purchased Brenda Frazier Kelly's home in Havana.

A few days ago Richard Ford's marriage to Lele Ford, the widow of Marcus Daly, came to an end. On the day the newspapers reported this break-up, the drama pages announced the closing of Rose Franken's play, "Outrageous Fortune," which starred Elsie Ferguson . . . "Oh, well, I got one newspaper break this week," Ford told his friends later. "I needed an apartment for myself, read that Elsie's show had closed—immediately rented her apartment."

Joe E. Brown entertained recently at an American camp in the China-India sector. He was introduced to the troops by Capt. Mike Frankovitch, the UCLA football star. Frankovitch presented some of the soldiers to Brown after the show. . . . The screen star asked them where their home towns are. One, Sergt. Joe Raykie, reluctantly admitted that he is from Sharon, Pa. "Congratulations," Brown told him. . . . "Why? You from Sharon, too?" asked Raykie . . . "No," said Brown. "Congratulations for being as far away from Sharon as anyone could possibly get."

Joe Losey, the director, is the husband of Elizabeth Hawes, author of "Fashion Is Spinach" and "Why Women Cry." He was offered a commission in the Army, but the surgeon-general ruled that he could not meet the Army's physical requirements. The Navy commission offered him also fell through because Losey couldn't pass the physical exams. Nor could he pass the Marines' tests, when a commission was offered him . . . Losey finally became resigned to his inability to meet the services' physical requirements, went to Hollywood last month and signed a fat contract with MGM. Then he was reclassified by his draft board, passed the physical, and last week Losey was inducted into the Army as a private.

Guerney Munn, jr., grandson of John Wanamaker, received a medical discharge from the Army because of his fractured jaw.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

MEMBERS OF THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS who have lived beside Russia and dealt with her diplomats for years point to some significant things about the Pravda report which set the world on its ear about the British negotiating a separate peace with Nazi Foreign Minister Ribbentrop.

In the first place, diplomats point out that, had the report been published in Izvestia, it would have been much more serious. Izvestia is the organ of the Soviet government, and anything appearing therein can be considered the gospel views of the Kremlin itself.

However, Pravda, organ of the Communist Party, is one step removed, and anything published in it can be interpreted as close to but not necessarily representing the views of Stalin.

Thus, it was Pravda which dropped a ton of editorial bricks on the unsuspecting, well-intentioned head of Wendell Willkie, hitherto considered Russia's best friend. That editorial rebuke came after Willkie had discussed the Polish boundary question—in a manner quite sympathetic to Russia.

However, the Russians chose to rebuke their best friend as a warning to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull that they did not want the Polish question discussed at all—not even by their friends. They could not very well come out and rebuke Hull and Roosevelt, so they chose a prominent American, one step removed, figuring Hull and Roosevelt would take the hint.

Again, when Secretary Hull was en route to Moscow, Pravda was singled out to publish the statement that the second front was the only question Russia was going to discuss with him. This upset Mr. Hull so severely that his friends reported him in a mood to come home. However, he proceeded to Moscow and, despite the planted newspaper reports, his trip was a genuine success. This shows that Pravda news items, even when inspired, should not be considered too earth-shaking.

Therefore, remembering that Russian diplomatic moves are usually aimed obliquely at something on the other side of the billiard table, here is the Diplomatic Corps' explanation of the latest Pravda thrust against the British.

For about two years, it has been no secret that the British have hung back regarding a second front in western Europe. It is also no secret that, right down to the Teheran Conference, Churchill pulled for a Balkan front or almost any other front except a Western Front.

Putting British on Spot

STALIN IS A MAN who never forgets and, even if no friction had occurred at Teheran, he would have continued to be suspicious about British intentions of a second front, in view of the two years of second front debate. And on top of Teheran, plus Churchill's long stay in Africa, Stalin's suspicions may be boiling again.

Therefore, point out the diplomats, what could be more adroit than to put the British squarely on the spot by subtly accusing them of talking to the Nazis about a separate peace? In other words, after the Pravda article, the British now have to prove they want no separate peace by pushing ahead with the second front. If they delay it, then the Russians can point to the suspicion—no matter how untrue—that perhaps the British were talking to Ribbentrop, after all—which, of course, they weren't.

The Pravda publication fits in especally at this time, when there actually have been some hints in official circles that the Russians are doing so well that the Nazis will surrender soon; then we wouldn't need a second front.

It's complicated, but the Russian mind is complicated, and Russian diplomacy even more so. However, you can be sure that, despite all the fuss and furor, the Russians and British will stick together. They need each other too badly.

Capital Chaff

AFTER F. D. R. finished the radio rendition of his recent message to Congress, he was tired and took no phone calls. However, the one call he was glad to get came from the Vice President, who told him, "I just had to call you because of the sincerity in your voice and because I know you felt so deeply what you said." . . . Demands for the Des Moines Register's penetrating editorials on Republican isolationism are so great that the Cowles brothers have reprinted them in brochure form. . . . Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former U. S. Minister to Norway, is being urged by Bolivian Representative Lozada to go to Bolivia to report on his government's pro-American policy for the Free World Association.

Stalin And Churchill

MORE AND MORE is gradually leaking out about the Teheran Conference as the President tells friends and Cabinet members about the intimate details of his talks with Stalin and Churchill.

One significant bit of repartee occurred during the round of speeches which always feature a Russian banquet. The British Prime Minister, either ill and irritated or else trying to josh Stalin, said:

"Marshal, everybody who gets in close touch with you becomes slightly pink."

Whichever way the remark was meant, Marshal Stalin didn't like it. He shot back: "As any doctor will tell you, my dear Prime Minister, pink is the healthiest physical condition."

Later, President Roosevelt smoothed over the cross-fire by diplomatically remarking: "All the colors of the rainbow make a beautiful combination."

WAC's Trial Slated To End Today Or Tomorrow

The Army reclassification board hearing of WAC First Lieut. Virginia Wight, charged with military infractions, is expected to end today or tomorrow, it was learned last night.

Almost all of the testimony is in the record, it was learned, and it appeared probable that if today's session did not end the case, the tribunal would meet on Sunday.

Yesterday, the trial was held in the third floor conference room of the Pentagon. This room is often used by the Secretary of War. Outside it, armed guards patroled.

That Lieutenant Wight took the stand yesterday was demonstrated by a conversation overheard in the corridor at 6 p. m.

Lieutenant Wight smiled and said to her attorney, James J. Laughlin, "How did I do"?

"You did splendidly," he replied.

The 24-year-old redhead is charged with wearing slacks and sweater, going off the post at Fort Myer late at night without permission, disobeying orders and submitting false reports.

announced to all, "that man had two guns," and disrupted the lunch hour.

Korman agreed to telephone the police if Beard would follow the man. Beard did . . . to 6th and F sts. nw., where Cox turned and inquired: "What do you want, Mac?"

"I was just looking," said Beard.

"Well, my advice is for you to get going," Two-Gun replied, making an allegedly menacing motion with his hands in his pockets.

"I think your advice excellent," shouted Beard over his shoulder as he moved rapidly away.

About 3:30 Two-Gun was found having a beer with his wife in a cafe in the 600 block of Pennsylvania ave. se. He still had the unloaded guns.

She said she didn't think he was going to harm her. He said it was all a bluff.

Police said: "You are charged with carrying concealed weapons and assault with a deadly weapon."

Foundry Strikers Vote, Three to One, To Resume Work

Seattle, Jan. 21 (AP).—Striking foundry workers of Washington and Oregon voted 3 to 1 today to return to their jobs in approximately 80 plants, Neil V. Pardo, secretary of the AFL Molders and Foundry Workers Union, said tonight.

The action will reopen the war plants which have been closed since Tuesday morning and end the threatened shortage of castings for ship construction and repair work. The strike involved 6000 foundry workers and an estimated 4000 other workers remained out of affiliated shops because of picket lines in the wage dispute.

Anonymous Donor Sends Treasury $18,909 Check

An anonymous donor enriched the Treasury by $18,909.38 yesterday—not a payment for taxes but "an elementary way of expressing belief in a democracy."

The check, received by Internal Revenue Commissioner Robert E. Hannegan, was accompanied by a letter which said:

"Please keep my name out of any discussion of this. I have recently been given some money which is more than I need or want. This money was tax-exempt and in distributing it I want to give some to the Government where I believe it can do the greatest amount of good."

The donor did not explain how he arrived at the amount.

Crusade for New World Order To Attract Area Methodists

Several Thousand Will Participate in Meetings Here

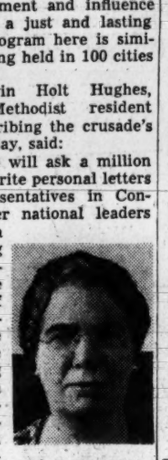
QUILLIAN

Several thousand Methodists from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Delaware, are expected to attend the regional phase of the Methodist Bishops' Crusade for a New World Order Thursday at Foundry Methodist Church and Memorial Continental Hall.

The crusade is a movement to create, mobilize and register Christian sentiment and influence to help insure a just and lasting peace. The program here is similar to those being held in 100 cities this month.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Washington Methodist resident bishop, in describing the crusade's purpose yesterday, said:

"The crusade will ask a million Methodists to write personal letters to their Representatives in Congress and other national leaders who will have a voice in making the peace, expressing the sentiments of the writers regarding the Christian nature of the coming peace, against a policy of so-called isolationism, and in favor of continuing collaboration with other nations in maintaining peace and developing a Christian society.



MRS. BRAGG

"The crusade also will sponsor an extensive program of radio education concerning the nature of the coming peace, and will urge all Methodists to write letters or cards to the men in the armed forces, assuring them that the church will work for the establishment of perpetual peace and the principles for which they are fighting."

The program at Foundry Church will last from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 2 to 4 p. m., opening with a worship service led by Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, host pastor and Senate chaplain. Bishop Hughes will speak on "A New World Order"; Mrs. J. D. Bragg, national president of the Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service, on "A Christian America," and Dr. W. F. Quillian, cultivation secretary of the Methodist board of missions, on "A Christian World."

BACON

Bishop Alexander P. Shaw will lead a worship service at 2 p. m. Plans and methods of the Crusade will be discussed by Mrs. Bragg, Dr. R. E. Green, Methodist pastor from Smyrna, Del.; Dr. W. Emory Hartman, pastor of Grace Church, Harrisburg; D. Stewart Patterson, lay leader of the Baltimore Methodist Conference, and Dr. John C. Millian, executive secretary, Baltimore Conference Board of Education.

KERN

Bishop Hughes and Bishop Paul B. Kern, the latter of Nashville, Tenn., will lead a consecration service in the afternoon at Foundry Church.

The mass meeting at 8 p. m. at Continental Hall will be addressed by Bishop Kern on "The Prince of Peace," and by Dr. C. Clifford Bacon, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Des Moines, Iowa, on "The Coming Peace." Justin Lawrie will lead congregational singing.

The original of this picture was conceived and painted by the famous artist, Howard Chandler Christy, in vivid color and heroic proportions as an artistic symbol for the Crusade for a New World Order. This movement, led by the Council of Bishops of The Methodist Church, is this denomination's part in a general effort of the churches to register in advance with the peacemakers approval of such post-war collaboration among the nations as will guarantee future peace.

A hundred mass meetings in key cities during January, a transcribed radio series on scores of stations, posters, periodical and pamphlet literature and a sermon on the picture title in every one of the 42,000 Methodist pulpits on January 30 are items in the program.

Msgr. McCormick Named Honorary AlumnaeHead

The Right Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. McCormick, has been named honorary president of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, of which he has been director for a number of years. The new director of the federation is the Right Rev. Msgr. Edward B. Jordan, university vice rector, who was elected director by the federation's executive board.

P-TA Head to Speak

Mrs. Percy C. Ellett, president of the D. C. Federation of Parent-Teacher Association, will address the adult forum of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow at 10 a. m. on "Juvenile Delinquency—the Relation of the Home and the Family to This Problem."

Church Council To Discuss Postwar Items

Problems confronting the church in planning for the postwar world will be studied by religious education leaders representing 90 per cent of American Protestantism at the twenty-second annual meeting of the International Council of Religious Education, to be held in the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, February 7 to 12, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the council.

"Christian Education for the Postwar World" will be the theme of the general sessions and the 17 advisory sections which will be attended by nearly 1500 lay and ministerial religious educators from every State and from provinces of Canada. Delegates will represent the 42 denominations, the 31 State and provincial councils of churches and religious education, and the 114 city councils which are members of the international council.

"The church today is facing imperatives which challenge her most cherished ideals and her total resources," Dr. Ross stated in his announcement. "Without diminishing our emphasis upon the meeting of wartime needs, we must now give attention to the new imperatives for Christian service which accompany our anticipation of peace.

"The church must be prepared for an effective spiritual ministry to her returning veterans. She must seek to understand their varied experiences and convictions, and command their highest loyalties and ablest leadership for the great spiritual tasks which lie ahead."

In the absence of Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, president of the International Council, who is serving in the Pacific, James L. Kraft, Chicago industrialist, will serve as acting president.

Among the 90 speakers who will be on the program are: The Rev. Dr. William Barrow Pugh of Philadelphia, Pa., chairman of the General Commission of Army and Navy Chaplains and chairman of the National Council of the Servicemen's Christian League; the Rev. John W. Decker of London, England, secretary of the International Missionary Council, and the Rev. Dr. G. Baez Carmargo of Mexico City, Mexico.

Dr. Ball to Mark 81st Birthday

Dr. John Compton Ball tomorrow will celebrate his eighty-first birthday and his forty-first anniversary as pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church, 6th and A sts. ne. He will preach at 11 a. m. on "What I Have Learned About God and Men in 81 Years."

Dr. M. Chandler Stith, executive secretary of the D. C. Convention of Baptist Churches, will speak at 8 p. m. First Musician Homer Phillips of the Navy Band will lead singing at the evening service.

Lutherans to Hear Mission Secretary

Miss Francis Dysinger, executive secretary of the Washington Lutheran Inner Mission Society, will discuss her organization's work tomorrow at 9:40 and 11 a. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, North Capitol and Rhode Island ave.

Mount Vernon Place Church Sets Aside Boys' Workroom

The allotment of a permanent room to be used as a workshop for the Friday evening community program at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church has recently been made. One of the rooms in the old section of the building, previously used by the church school secretary, has been set aside for this use.

Plans are now under way, under the leadership of a trained engineer, to develop a shelf for wood carving, metal working and other similar crafts for the neighborhood boys. Tools and money for purchasing tools are being donated by various members of the church. Plans are to use this room for the use of neighborhood boys, not only on Friday night, but at such times as boys are free, and leadership is available.

The idea of a permanent shop has grown out of a class in airplane model making which began last fall, and which some 20 or 30 boys, around the ages of 10 to 12, attended. At present the boys are continuing to make airplane models but are branching out into more difficult and complicated construction activities.

The Board of Education and social welfare committee of the church studied this plan for some time, and laid out progressive plans for creative group programs.

This workshop is operated as one part of a program on Friday night which includes other features such as a class in arts and craft, music, newspaper publication, games and recreation. The general program of activities at the church also includes classes of various kinds being held on weekday afternoons.

Anti-Semitism Held Unpatriotic

The District of Columbia will not tolerate any violence, such as has been manifested in other cities, growing out of prejudice against the Jewish people, according to a letter written by Edward M. Curran, United States Attorney, to Wilbur La Roe, jr., chairman of the Citizens Committee on Race Relations.

Mr. Curran told La Roe, "No person having the interest of his country at heart can look upon such actions with anything but abhorrence," and assured that where intolerance manifests itself in such a manner as to cause violations of the law here, "I shall perform my duty regarding them with the same dispassionate vigor which I believe should characterize the conduct of any public prosecutor."

La Roe had written Mr. Curran calling his attention to manifestations of anti-Semitism in other cities and expressing the hope that "you will deal promptly and effectively with the slightest sign of this ugly thing in our city."

World Traveler to Speak Thursday

Dr. Sherwood Eddy, internationally known authority in the field of economic, social and religious questions, will address the midweek supper meeting of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church Thursday at 7:30 p. m. on "A New World Order."

For 15 years Dr. Eddy worked among the students of India, after which he was called to be secretary of the YMCA for Asia. In 1931 he was present at the capture of Mukden in Manchuria by the Japanese.

In Berlin in 1933 he challenged Hitler and the Nazi Party for their treatment of the Jews, liberals, and radicals, and as a result was barred from further visits to Germany. He has come to know the leaders of many nations, including various Prime Ministers of Great Britain, the Viceroys of India, and such men as Mahatma Gandhi and Generalissimo Chian Kai-shek.

Stackhouse, Not Cooke, Heads Sunrise Service

Howard M. Stackhouse, prominent worker in the Box Men's Bible Class of Emory Methodist Church, 6100 George ave. nw., is chairman of the 1944 Easter sunrise service at Fort Lincoln Heights, sponsored by the D. C. Organized Bible Class Association. It was incorrectly stated last week that Charles Cooke would again be chairman this year. The Post regrets the error.

Men's Day to Be Marked

Men's day will be observed tomorrow at 10:50 a. m. at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., as a feature of the church's attendance crusade. A male chorus will sing. Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor, will speak on "He Saw a Man."

Church Installs Officers

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Washington Grove Methodist Church of Rockville installed officers this week under direction of the Rev. Royal A. Rice, pastor. They are: Miss Ruth Pope, president; Miss Mabel Becraft, vice president; Mrs. Virgie Thompson, secretary, and Mrs. Helen Bean, treasurer.

Dr. Wenchel, Christ Church Pastor, Retires

The Rev. Dr. J. Frederic Wenchel, senior Lutheran pastor in the Washington area, is retiring after 35 years of service to Christ Lutheran Church. His resignation was considered by the church council at a meeting Wednesday night. The council will make a report to the congregation at a special meeting February 2.

WENCHEL

Dr. Wenchel, now 69 years old, says he is retiring because he does not have the physical strength to carry on the work as aggressively as in former years. He has agreed to continue as pastor until a successor has been called. After retirement, he plans to continue writing for church publications; and will also be service pastor of the Missouri synod at the Lutheran Service Center soon to be opened in the former Woman's City Club building on Jackson pl.

Dr. Wenchel was ordained in 1898 at Tampa, Fla., after graduation from Baltimore City College and from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He took postgraduate work at Harvard. In 1901 he organized Bethlehem Lutheran Church of Boston, Mass., where he served until he was installed by Christ Church here November 15, 1908.

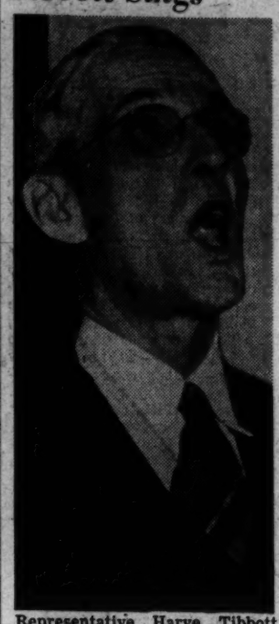
Since that time he has had the distinction of building for the same congregation, two stone church structures, including the fine Gothic structure at 16th and Gallatin now used. This structure was dedicated in 1931.

The doctorate was conferred on Pastor Wenchel June 1, 1943.

Capital's Morals Will Be Topic

Civic and moral conditions in the Nation's Capital will be discussed tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church by the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor, in his sermon on "What's the Matter With Washington?" He will speak at 11 a. m. on "Love Unlimited," continuing his sermon series on "The Greatest Sermon." Civic groups are invited to attend the evening service.

Capitol Hill's Tibbott Sings



Representative Harve Tibbott (Republican) of Pennsylvania, who did concert and oratorio work before coming to Washington, this week entertained the Men's Brotherhood of Takoma Park Presbyterian Church with a bit of song. Like the famous Lawrence Tibbett, the Congressman is a baritone

Sir Gerald Campbell To Speak Tomorrow

Sir Gerald Campbell, K. C. M. G., British Minister in Washington and special assistant to the British Ambassador in the United States, will speak tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Petworth Methodist Church, Grant Circle and New Hampshire ave. nw. His theme will be "Britain Studies America."

Trinity Women To Install New Officers

Headed by Mrs. H. C. Morris, new president, new officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be formally installed tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at Trinity Methodist Church, 5th st. and Seward Square se. Mrs. H. P. Hagemeyer will conduct the worship service.

Mrs. M. E. Ferrell, president of the Washington East District, WSCS, will install the following, in addition to Mrs. Morris:

Vice president, Mrs. D. W. Justice; treasurer, Mrs. C. I. Deily; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. C. Jordan; recording secretary, Mrs. L. E. Cox; secretary of missionary education, Miss Laura Jo Brown; secretary of Christian social relations and local church activities, Mrs. W. C. John; secretary of literature and publications, Mrs. R. L. Barnes; secretary of supplies, Mrs. B. W. Kaiser; secretary of student work, Miss Kate Hawkins; secretary of children's work, Miss Jean L. Koon; chairman spiritual life committee, Mrs. H. P. Hagemeyer; chairman fellowship committee, Mrs. W. J. Rollins.

Basil Mathews To Be Heard At Cathedral

Another in the series of united services sponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches and Washington Cathedral will be held tomorrow in the Cathedral at 4 p. m. Basil Mathews, author and professor-elect of the Union College of British Columbia will preach on the subject: "World Leadership from the Younger Churches."

MATHEWS

Mathews was educated at Oxford University, majoring in history and political philosophy. He was chairman and secretary of the literature committee of the British Ministry of Information in the last war, and was deputy director of its American division for the first 18 months of this war. He has been professor of Christian world relations in Boston University and Andover Newton Theological Institution. Of his many books, the most recently published are: "India Reveals Herself," "Supreme Encounter," "The God of History in the World of Today," "We Fight for the Future," "The British Commonwealth in the World of Nations."

Local clergy who will participate in the service include: The Rev. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Armand T. Eyler, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church and president of Ministerial Union of Washington, and the Rev. Estel M. Perry, pastor of National Memorial Church of God.

There will be regular Holy Communion services at the Cathedral at 7:30 and 9:30 a. m. Canon Theodore O. Wedel will preach at 11 a. m.

The Washington Chapter of the Order of St. Vincent, a national organization of men and boys who serve as acolytes at the altar, will hold its annual diocesan service tomorrow at 8 p. m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 917 23rd st. nw.

The Rev. William L. Goodrich, assistant pastor of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church and chaplain of the order, will install the new officers. The Rev. Flint Kellogg, rector of the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, will preach. The Rev. Robert Kell of Emmanuel parish, Anacostia, will sing the evensong. Harry Hauser of St. Agnes' parish is president and Dean Thomas of St. Paul's is secretary of the local order.

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon Topic Is 'Truth'

The Christian Science lesson-sermon for tomorrow is "Truth." Services are held at 11 a. m. and repeated at 8 p. m., except Third Church, at 5 p. m., Fifth Church no evening service. All are incited to attend the services and the Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock.

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Withhold not Thou Thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let Thy loving kindness and Thy truth continually preserve me." (Ps. 40:11).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is essential to understand, instead of believe, what relates most nearly to the happiness of being. To seek Truth through belief in a human doctrine is not to understand the infinite." (Pages 285-6).

National Memorial Book Talk Luncheon

A book review luncheon will be held January 28 at Universalist National Memorial Church, 16th and S sts. nw., beginning at 1 p. m. At 2 p. m., Mrs. Albert W. D. C. Lectures On Religious News to Open

A series of six monthly lectures on the subject of "Helpful Hints on Religious Publicity" will open Monday at 8 p. m. at the Federation of Churches' Building, 1751 N st. nw., under the auspices of the Washington Church Press Association.

The initial session for ministers is designed primarily for clergymen, priests and rabbis who have come recently to Washington. But anyone interested in religious publicity is invited to attend.

The meeting February 28, the place of which will be announced later, will be primarily for church young people and young adults, especially publicity chairmen and members of church publicity committees.

Mrs. Marvin Wurts, well-known young adult worker of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, is chief scribe of the press association. Its aim is to promote closer cooperation between the secular press and churches and to help churches develop more effective techniques in handling publicity of all kinds.

Robert Tate Allan, Washington Post church editor, and past chief scribe of the association, will lead the discussion at the Monday meeting.

Dr. Pruden to Talk Over Network

Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach on the National Vespers' radio program tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., supplying for Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick. The service will be broadcast over the Blue Network throughout the Nation and will reach Washington through Station WMAL.

At the two morning services at First Church, Dr. Pruden will take as his topic, "United Nations and Divided Churches," and at the evening service he will continue his series of Sunday evening sermons on the subject, "What Religion Has to Offer." He will speak tomorrow evening on "To Those Who Are in Doubt."

Foundry Church Group To Hear Justice Laws

Justice Bolitha J. Laws, teacher of the A. B. Pugh Bible Class at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, and among the country's most eminent jurists, will address the Foundry Forge tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the Ball Memorial Chapel, Foundry Methodist Church, on "The Stewardship of Life."

Calvary Church Congregation to Hear Dr. Gautier

Calvary Methodist Church tomorrow evening will have as guest speaker Dr. Raymond Gautier, officer in charge of the health service of the League of Nations. His subject will be: "The Health of the World Community."

Dr. Gautier was invited to Washington last spring for consultation on medical and health questions with the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation. He left Geneva in November, 1942, and spent last winter in London, where he took part in the technical work of the Postwar Requirements Bureau.

At the 11 o'clock morning service the Rev. Orris Gravenor Robinson, minister, will continue his sermon series with the subject: "You and Your Activities."

Indian Chief To Speak Here

Chief White Feather, well-known gospel singer, and descendant of Chief Sitting Bull, will appear tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., and daily next week at 8 p. m. at the National Tabernacle, 6440 Piney Branch rd. nw. He is of Sioux-Chippewa and French parentage.

He sings in 11 languages, has appeared in musical comedy, opera, films and on the radio, and has made several concert tours. He will appear in full Indian regalia.

Dr. Rand to Give Lecture At Catholic University

Dr. E. K. Rand, professor of Latin at Harvard University, will deliver a lecture on "A Classical Approach to Byzantium" Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the music building auditorium of Catholic University. The faculty, students and members of the religous communities are invited to attend. No tickets are necessary. Dr. Rand is a widely known scholar in the field of the study of the Middle Ages.

"JESUS, SAVIOUR, PILOT ME"
— — REV. EDWARD HOPPER — —

Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea,
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rock and treacherous shoal;
Chart and compass come from Thee,
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me!

This mariner's hymn has for long years appealed to the hearts of singing seamen wherever they may be. It was written by Rev. Hopper while pastor of the Mariner's Church at New York harbor — "The Church of the Sea and Land."

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

Branch Rickey has inserted his foot in his mouth again, according to Bucky Harris, who has penned this department a note taking violent issue with Rickey's pessimism of the minor league's ability to operate next season.

POVICH

Harris, back in the minors as manager of the Buffalo club for 1944 after 20 years as a big league pilot, waxes impatient with Rickey "who seems to be taking a sour puss attitude toward the game. All leagues, the majors as well as the minors, face hardships next season and we need men at the top with fight and determination to see us through, not the likes of Rickey who would give up easily.

"Rickey's weekly press conferences with the New York baseball writers haven't produced anything constructive and now he follows his renewed demand for chain-store baseball with this unsolicited prediction that the Double A and A-1 minors won't be able to operate because of a scarcity of players. We're not going to quit as easily as Mr. Rickey suggests.

"Perhaps my Buffalo Club is lucky, but we have 32 players on our reserve list. We can operate with as few as 18, Mr. Rickey notwithstanding. He has not suggested that the big leagues quit."

Rickey is in the middle now, on another subject, Harris points out. "Mr. Rickey has been a very capable baseball executive for many years but one of the gentlemen who don't see eye to eye with him is Commissioner Landis, who is definitely against the chain-store baseball that Rickey wants, and who is strongly in favor of independent and local ownership.

"Judge Landis is usually on the beam, hence Mr. Rickey has a fight he is welcome to. In my ouinion, he is a longshot (at least 100 to 1) to prevail against Landis. And if he is sincere in his fight for the chain store, then he should be sure that he has the necessary players to equip his Montreal farm of the International League for 1944, but he doubts his ability to do so.

"Mr. Rickey states that the B, C and D leagues do not face the same problems as the high minors because they can sign free agents, but, apparently, he hasn't read the rules lately. There is no rule forbidding the Double A and A-1 leagues from signing free agents and, in fact, Mr. Rickey himself signed a free agent shortstop named Bartley for his Dodgers last season."

Mr. Rickey is a very energetic person who has been a credit to baseball, but I wonder if the metropolitan press has accepted him with all the acclaim he expected. Certainly he is good off-season copy. We all will miss him if baseball has to close shop for the duration, but when he sounds such a sour note at a time when determination is needed, I wonder at the thoughts of such men as Connie Mack, Ed Barrow and Clark Griffith, of the old school, who have beaten bigger problems.

The pessimism of Rickey was based, he pointed out, on what he believed to be the inability of the big league teams to provide their big minor farms with players. "In normal years, we would have 39 or 40 players under contract," Rickey said, "and there would be a half dozen more who would be in our training camps not under contract. We would have 20 players to turn back to the minors.

"But this year, the big leagues are desperate. The Giants will have only 27 players under contract and Brooklyn about the same. There will be no surplus material for the high minors and so I doubt their ability to operate."

Harris declares that the minors will meet the problem in their own way, signing free agents, taking what they can get from the majors, and perhaps bringing back over-age veterans. "We'll make out somehow, and it should be very interesting," he says.

Chain-store baseball will be the chief topic of the big league owners' meeting with Landis at New York on February 5-6, and the commissioner is definitely aligned against the clubs owning networks of farm teams. He has a supporter in Clark Griffith.

"It is my idea that the big league clubs should be limited to one farm team in each class of minor leagues. That would make for local ownership, which is more healthy than corporation control of a chain of teams. The Cardinals, for instance, own three Double A clubs, Rochester, Columbus and Sacramento. That gives them control of nearly 140 ball players in contrast to a team like Washington, which is limited to 40 men."

Perry Floors Creelman, Wins Upset Verdict

Wilson Wins, 39-26, as Fans Demonstrate

3415 Watch Negro Youth Score Here

By Walter Haight

Aaron Perry, 10 months out of the amateurs, proved last night that dynamite in a right makes up for a lack of ring experience by pounding at every opportunity to earn a unanimous decision over Victor Creelman of New York.

The Washington colored boy with a body of bronze and a mule-kick in his gloves did not think fast enough to make the most of his golden opportunity for a knockout in the fourth round, but he stung home his punches and, although Creelman's masterful boxing allowed him to stay the distance, Perry's punching gave further evidence of his rating as one of the best fistic prospects in District hoxing history.

A crowd of 3415 paid came to Uline's Arena to see the boxer meet the puncher and saw just that, plus a game performance by Creelman.

Takes Loser's Best Shots

The New York lightweight had Perry in trouble in the first round. He hit Perry with everything he had in the third round, including two right crosses and from that point the Washington boy appeared to know he could take what his rival had to offer.

Perry's knockout chance came shortly after the fourth round began. He caught Creelman near the ropes with a rapid right and Creelman went down but immediately jumped to his feet. Perry tried to follow up but Creelman tied him up and left handed his way out of the immediate danger.

At the end of the preceding round, Perry floored Creelman almost 15 seconds after the bell had rung. The two boys were slugging it out in a clinch and for some unknown reason Referee Eddie LaFond failed to separate them and Perry finally caught Creelman with a right to the jaw. The New York boy's handlers offered only a brief protest.

Creelman Takes First Round

Creelman's boxing earned him the edge in the first round. At this point he was using his right and Perry was moving around flat-footed and cautious. The New Yorker at least held his own at this stage in the little flurries of punching.

Perry's murderous right came into evidence in the second and Creelman began to depend more and more on his left jab and his ability to dance around the Washington boy.

After the fourth round knockdown, Creelman came back to shade Perry in the fifth with his boxing ability and it was not until near the end of the session that Perry got home a stiff punch. In the remaining four rounds, Creelman was able to poke in his left as long as he kept moving but when the stalking Perry caught up, Creelman took a pounding.

Both in rounds and by point-score, the fight was close. I gave the first, fifth and seventh to Creelman, called the third and sixth even with the second, fourth, eighth and ninth in Perry's favor. My point score was Perry, 84, Creelman, 80.

Davis Gains Decision

The crowd paid a gross of $6276.30 with a net of $5091 to see the excellent card, making it two pay nights in a row for the Liberty A. C. and the prospects of more whenever Perry is elected.

Charley (Dixie) Davis, 137, of New York gained a decision over Maxie Starr, 142, of Edgewood Arsenal. Starr kept moving every second of the six rounds, but Davis landed the cleaner punches and deserved the verdict.

The first of the six-rounders brought a TKO victory to Bee Bee Washington, 157, of this city over Jackie Smith, 152, of Philadelphia. Washington was too strong for Smith and had him on the floor for nine counts three tnimes before Smith's handlers decided to call it a night at 2:53 of the third round.

In the four-rounders, Leroy Fleming, 160, of Washington won a decision (but not in my book) from Eddie Sparks, 159, of Annapolis while Jimmy Jerico, 130, of Washington outpointed Bobby Driscoll, 135, of Annapolis.

Good Bid Pays $3.70 At Hialeah

Hialeah Park, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP).—Good Bid, which H. E. Jacoby purchased from E. K. Bryson at private terms since the colt finished a head behind Black Badge in the recent Hialeah Stakes, literally ran away and hid from seven other 3-year-olds in the second and more important division of the Split Bay Breeze Purse here today. The chestnut son of Psychic Bid—Glorious Hour, a $3.70 for $2 choice, qualified for a chance to run in the $15,000 added, 1 mile and a furlong Flamingo Stakes, scheduled for February 26.

J. M. Hutchins' Valdina Malden took the place, five lengths back and three-quarters of a length better than Herbert M. Woolf's Leavenworth. A. J. (Whitey) Abel's Gramps Image, winner of his last two and second choice today, was first out of the gate but soon was swallowed up in the bunched run for positions. Apparently bothered, he dropped back to sixth, where he finished.

A crowd of 7765 saw the sport.

Matches Filly's Time

Good Bid's time for the 6 furlongs was 1:14-1-5, same as that made by the filly Smart Sheila in the first half of the event, but the colt's race was somewhat more impressive. In addition to the victor, Gramps Image and The Captain are Flamingo eligibles.

There was a general skirmish in the fight for early command, with Side Boy, Gramps Image, Leavenworth, Good Bid and Valdina Maiden all in a bunch. Around the big bend, Valdina Maiden and Good Bid pulled away from the others. The favorite shot into a command advantage after turning for home and won in hollow fashion.

Patron Saint Wins

The turf course event, seventh on the card, was easy for Patron Saint, a $9.80 for two chance which got in under a mere 105 pounds with Apprentice Ronnie Phelps up. Many lengths out of it for most of the mile and a furlong trip, Patron Saint ran over the leaders in the stretch, scoring by four lengths. Miami Springs and Billie Day followed, three lengths apart as named.

Anacostia Bows, 41-24, To Eastern

By Tom Moore McBride

The Wilson Tigers clawed the Tech Trainers pretty badly in the last half of a ball game which had begun as a nip-and-tuck affair, scoring 39 to 26, when it was called 28 seconds early because of spectator overinterest. Eastern defeated Aanacostia, 41 to 24, in the opener, which was mild by comparison.

Two Wilson players were disqualified because of roughness, another went out of the game because of an injury and a fourth went out on personal fouls. Three Tech first stringers went out because of the four personal foul rule.

It was easily the most spirited game of the series.

Game Ordered Stopped

Dallas Shirley, director of high school athletics, ordered the timekeeper to fire the final gun 28 seconds before the game would have been officially ended because the spectators were milling about the edge of the court and several near fights among them had been averted.

Stu Brown, playing another inspired game for Wilson, led the floor play until he was taken out in the last quarter, suffering from a head injury, incurred when he hit the floor in a melee under the basket. Case, with nine points topped the Wilson scoring, and John Moffatt was high for Tech with seven.

Tech was desperate in the last quarter, but only Tom Tulenko and Andy Davis were able to score for the Trainers during that frame, while Russ Keith, Tom McLarney, Bill Haycock and Bill Huff were sinking them for Wilson.

Lamon Paces Attack

Bob Lamon, Eastern guard, continued his scoring spree in the Eastern-Anacostia game, with a 13-point total, aided by Ed Charnock's 8. An improved Anacostia team had the Ramblers worried for the first half and led, 18-15, at that point. From then on, however, the Indians rarely got in scoring territory that Eastern's Mike Rappafotis didn't snag a pass and return it to the other end of the line for a score of Lamon, Charnock or Dellinger.

Bill Dietrich and John Wolfgang were doing yeoman duty for the Indians in floor play, but couldn't stem the Eastern tide. Bill Kline was top scorer for Anacostia, with 9 points.

Terp Quintet Host to Tigers; Boxers at N. C.

The University of Maryland cagers play hosts to the Hampden-Sydney College basketball team tonight at College Park while the Terrapin boxers will appear at Chapel Hill against the University of North Carolina mittmen.

Maryland's basketball team, under the tutelage of Al Heagy, drafted to fill in for Burton Shipley, the ailing mentor, will take the floor with an even chance, at worst, to defeat Hampden-Sydney. The Terps broke into the victor's circle for the first time this season when they defeated V. M. I. last week. Against this one win they have the dismal record of four defeats administered by Virginia, the Bainbridge Naval Station, the Quantico Marines and Marshall College.

Tonight's tip-off is scheduled for 8 p. m. at Ritchie Coliseum.

Probable Starters

Coach Al Heagy announced last night that the probable starters for Maryland would be Joe Acito and Jack Flynn at the forward posts with Jack Fennell handling the pivot assignment. The starting guards probably will be Herman Engelbritt and Dick Tushak.

The Maryland boxers entrained for Chapel Hill at 9 last night and will face the Carolina battlers tonight in Maryland's second start of the year. Last week the Gold and Black handed the Army a 4½-3½ defeat at College Park.

Squad Named

The men accompanying Coach Fausto Rubini will be Ed Garvin, 120 pounds; Bill Coakley, 127 pounds; Ray Hanbury, 135 pounds; Vic Berman, 145 pounds; Alex Bobenko, 155 pounds; Sid Sternman, 165 pounds; Frank Doory, 175 pounds, and Dan Marowitz, heavyweight.

Frank Doory, a football letterman at end, is a newcomer to the squad. He will fight at 175, replacing Mike Zetts, who has been handicapped all week with a knee injury. OSCAR ELDER.

'Rip' Sewell Sends Unsigned Contract Back to Pirates

Pittsburgh, Jan. 21 (AP).—Truett (Rip) Sewell, whose famous "blooper" pitch won 21 games for the Pirates last year, has returned his 1944 contract unsigned, President William E. Benswanger disclosed today.

Benswanger described Sewell's letter accompanying the contract as "friendly" and said:

"We have not entertained any doubts about Sewell. The tone of his letter is typical of the friendly relations we have had in the past with Sewell. In due time, Rip will be in the fold."

Iowa Defeats Illinois, 56-51; Record Intact

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 21 (AP).—Iowa, the Midwest's only major undefeated basketball team, resumed its Big Ten campaign tonight by defeating Illinois, 56 to 51, in the first of a two-game series. It was the eighth Hawkeye victory of the season.

Playing before 6000 fans, the Hawkeyes started slowly and then accelerated their pace to sweep to a 34-17 halftime lead over the defending conference champions.

Holding the Illini offense in check with a "fluid" defense in the initial half, Iowa set its long range guns and constantly hammered the basket from far out on the court to pile up a lead it never lost.

Gonzaga Halts Little Hoyas' Streak, 36-34

A fighting Gonzaga team defeated Georgetown Prep, 36-34, yesterday, ending the Little Hoyas' winning streak and Lane O'Donnell's streak of 20 or more points in four games. The star Prep center was held to 15.

Scott Cranston was high scorer for Gonzaga, equalling O'Donnell's mark, but it was Chester Coakley, who pulled the ball game out of the fire by sinking the winning field goal after the Hoyas had tied it up in the last period. Prior to the final quarter, Gonzaga had led by comfortable margins, and was ahead, 28-22, as the final quarter began and the Preppers began their futile desperation drive.

Bobby Jones Begs Off Charity Golf Match in England

London, Jan. 21 (AP).—Maj. Robert T. Jones, one-time golfing great but now a member of Uncle Sam's flying forces, begged off today from the suggestion that he appear in a charity match "because from the way I have been playing lately it would be taking money under false pretenses."

"I'd like nothing better than play golf in England again, but I didn't bring any clubs along. This time I brought a musette (Army knapsack) bag instead of golf bag," he added.

Jones won both the British Amateur and Open titles in 1930, the year he won fame as the grand slam golf king.

Armstrong Defeats Dunbar in Last Frame

Armstrong High basketballers came from behind in the last period last night to defeat Dunbar High, 38-35, mostly on Buck Ford's inspired scoring. Dunbar led all the way until the Armstrong spurt caught the team flatfooted.

Armstrong Defeats Dunbar High, 38-35

A determined Gaithersburg High rally in the final period fell just short of tying the score with Friends yesterday, the Quaker cagers clinging to a two-point lead and salvaging the game, 21-19. Friends led by a fairly wide margin at the half, and still led 19-13, as the final quarter began. The Gaithersburg men dominated the floor play in the last quarter, however, and Friends made only one more basket, just enough to win.

Monday Fight Card Completed

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez yesterday rounded out his supporting card for Monday night's boxing show featuring Holman Williams, Sergt. Joe Louis' protege from Chicago, and Gene Buffalo, the former Philly Phantom, at Turner's Arena.

Jimmy Bell, local lightheavyweight who scored an impressive victory over Stoney Lewis last week, was booked for a six-rounder against Jimmy Nelson of Norfolk, Va.

George Williams of Washington, will oppose the veteran Tommy Mollis of Baltimore, in a six, while Harry Diduck and George Farrell will clash in another six.

Williams, who will rule a favorite over Buffalo, is slated to arrive today for a public workout at the arena.

Controlling Stock In Braves Sold To Group of 3 Men

Boston, Jan. 21 (INS).—Manager Bob Quinn of the Boston Braves revealed tonight that three men had purchased a majority of that National League club's stock.

The three, according to Quinn, are Joseph Maney, Guido L. Rugo and Louis R. Perini, Boston contractors. The stock was purchased from Joseph Conway, Francis Quimet, J. W. Powdrell, Dr. William Rand and Max C. Meyer.

A new board of directors, formed tonight and including each of the three, will meet on February 8 to draw up the new policies of the club, Quinn said.

Coolidge Jayvees Win 7th

Coolidge High's Jayvees won their seventh straight game yesterday, defeating the Georgetown Boys Club, 42-33, Mike Levin and Al Schindler each made 9 points for the undefeated "Little Colts." The winners visit Western High for a game Monday.

G. W. Rallies To Score, 43-42

George Washington High came from behind in a basketball thriller to nip the Fredericksburg five, 43 to 42, last night at Fredericksburg.

The Presidents were led by Marshall Boaz with 15 points, ably aided by Chalmers and Hensley with 10 each.

High-point honors went to George Timberlake, Fredericksburg forward, with a total of 17 points.

Fredericksburg jumped into an early lead and were out front, 15-11, at the first quarter, and left the floor at half-time with a 24-19 advantage. George Washington led for the first time late in the third quarter and from there in staged a rally that would not be beaten back.

Denials Run Fee Racket Inquiry Up Blind Alley

Two other members of Congress who are reported to have been given lists of former Civil Service employes who had money in the retirement fund yesterday absolved themselves of any blame in connection with the list being used by a Washington law firm as a sucker list to collect the money at a 20 per cent commission. They were Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, and Chairman Andrew J. May of the House Military Affairs Committee. "The list wasn't given out from my office," Senator McKellar said emphatically, "I can assure you of that." Chairman May said he couldn't even recall getting such a list and even if he had he was certain it wouldn't have been turned over to anyone outside the Federal service for personal profit.

Third known Congressman who was given a list was Senator Homer T. Bone of Washington. Senator Bone still has his list and he says it has never been out of his office. Moreover, when his office learned that an attempt was being made to work a fee racket with the list it warned Senator McKellar and advised the Civil Service Commission to expose the attempt through full publicity. A person who said he tried to get a copy of the list but failed is Leroy Chittendon who is with the National Tribune, a veterans' publication. Chittendon said his only interest in the list was to inform veterans and others that they had money tied up in the fund.

Other members of Congress may have been given such a list. I don't know. An earlier statement by the Civil Service Commission said that only three members of Congress were given copies. The copies were sent to Congress on January 22, 1942 and four days later the law firm whose case is now before the grievance committee of the District Bar Association began to send out letters soliciting a refund business of 20 per cent of the take.

I presume the commission was dead sure of itself before it made such a statement. It would be quick suicide if events proved otherwise. But I also believe the members of Congress. And that leads us up a blind alley, at the moment. Everyone seems to be agreed that the person who turned the list over to the lawyer should be made known. That's a job for Congress as it alone has the power to find out. If any law was violated the matter could be turned over to the Justice Department but it's the general opinion that it was all within the law; that is, so far as is known. The Civil Service retirement fund must be kept above suspicion at all times, the same as bank, insurance, and social security accounts. The fund is made up of the employes' own money and hundreds of millions of dollars are in it. If the unscrupulous person who tried to make a good thing out of the fund is exposed it'll be a long time before anyone else tampers with it.

Meantime, the Civil Service Commission is taking steps to clear up the huge backlog of retirement refund cases and the retirement division will be moved to a larger building—perhaps Tempo X—where some 300 additional employes will be assigned to the work. It often takes an employe up to a year after he resigns to get his retirement refund. The long delay isn't all the commission's fault as it can't settle the accounts until it gets reports from the agencies. Yesterday the commission had on hand 83,000 cases that were being delayed because the agencies had failed to report. Employes who have served for less than five years can get full refunds while those who have served longer can draw out payments only up to January, 1942.

Civil Service has informed its recruiters in the field not to promise Government girls rooms at Arlington Farms or any other Government dormitory. A quick check has revealed, according to National Housing, that 2600 rooms already have been reserved at Arlington Farms and that's more than the farm can possibly accommodate. Very few, or perhaps none, of the 2600 will get rooms if two more residence halls are turned over to the WAVES. Navy was promised by NHA that it could have the halls for 2000 WAVES but the housing agency is now looking for a graceful exit on that deal. Civil Service is now demanding that all commitments be honored and it'll have the support of everyone, apparently, except Navy. A final settlement will be made at a meeting today of all interested parties. If the WAVES are given the halls a large number of Government girls say they'll pack up and go back home.

A dress rehearsal for Government girls chosen to model in the Wartime Educational Clinic will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock sharp in the Interior Auditorium. Girls who were selected must appear or they'll be eliminated. The clinic is sponsored by the Government Girl Club and presented by The Post. It'll be held Tuesday and Wednesday in the Interior Auditorium. Admission is by ticket only. Personnel division of all agencies have tickets. Headliners who'll attend include Elsa Schiaparelli, clothes designer; Harry Conover, Representative Winifred Stanley of New York; and David Cohn, author.

Two Injured Fatally in D. C. Traffic

D. C. traffic deaths this year..... 5
Deaths this date last year 7
District total last year 97

Two persons were injured fatally yesterday in traffic accidents here.

Miss Marjorie Nicholson, 22, of 235 Mississippi ave. se., suffered mortal injuries when struck by a truck in the 3800 block of Nichols ave. se. at 6:45 p. m. She was removed to Gallinger Hospital in its ambulance and was pronounced dead at 10:50 p. m. of a skull fracture.

Witnesses said Miss Nicholson, a clerk employed by the Government Printing Office, had just stepped from a bus when she was struck. They reported that there was quite some delay in the arrival of a Gallinger Hospital ambulance, which police said was dispatched to the scene at 7:05 p. m. During the 26-block trip to the scene of the accident the ambulance was reported "lost." However, the hospital denied this and said Miss Nicholson was admitted there at 7:30 p. m.

Police said the truck was driven by Harry Proctor, 32, Negro, of Oxon Hill, Md., who will appear at a coroner's inquest.

James Lee Middleton, 61, Negro, of 1017 7th st. se, was killed instantly when he attempted to jump into the cab of a moving trailer truck at 4th and C sts. sw.

According to police, the truck, operated by Wilbur Whitney Peake, 22, of 7906 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md., had just pulled out from the loading platform of the District Grocery Stores warehouse, when Middletun tried to get on, slipped, and fell beneath the rear right wheel.

Peake told police that Middleton, who was employed by the District Grocery Stores as a helper, had been drinking and he refused to take him along. Police also said that Middleton reportedly had been put off another truck just prior to the accident because of intoxication.

An analysis of his blood, made at the Morgue, showed a .40 alcoholic content. A content of .15 is indicative of intoxication, police said.

Delinquency Commission Advocated

Creation of a special commission to deal with child delinquency in Washington was advocated last night by Representative D'Alesandro (Democrat) of Maryland, chairman of a House District subcommittee which will begin an investigation of the problem Monday.

The commission, he said, should be composed of authorities on the subject such as child welfare and social workers, school teachers, parents and "the cop on the beat."

"Such a group, it seems to me," D'Alesandro declared, "would be able to find a solution to every juvenile delinquency problem—to discover what makes a child go wrong and prescribe a program of reformation that will work."

D'Alesandro said he would place his plan before the witnesses invited to testify before his subcommittee and ask for their views.

"Maybe they will have a better plan," he declared. "If so, I will support it."

Postlude

Navy Band Plays Opus By Respighi

Lieut. Charles Brendler conducts the U. S. Navy Band Orchestra on Friday night in Departmental Hall. Soloist: Oscar Shumski. Program: Prelude from Violin Sonata No. 6 in E major (Bach-Weiner), Symphony No. 3 in A minor (Mendelssohn), "Gregorian" Violin Concerto (Respighi), Polonaise from "Evgen Onegin" (Chaikovski).

Last evening's concert by the United States Navy Band Orchestra signalized a rare occurrence in Washington—two local premieres of contemporaneous works for violin and orchestra. Only 48 hours after Yehudi Menuhin and Antal Dorati had presented Bela Bartok's concerto with the National Symphony Orchestra, music-lovers heard for the first time Ottorino Respighi's "Gregorian" concerto with Oscar Shumski as soloist and Lieut. Charles Brendler as conductor.

Produced in 1922, Respighi's "Concerto Gregoriano" is an intimate, meditative and subtle work with a deeply touching spiritual quality derived partly from the use of plain-chants and partly from the composer's intense sincerity. After a hymn-like Aeolian prelude by the orchestra, the main theme is given out by the oboe in a plaintive pastoral tune that is taken up by the English horn and bassoon, after which the solo violin proceeds to elaborate it. The entire movement closes in a broad slow cadenza that leads into the second movement.

In this andante the solo instrument sings the plain-chant, "Victimae Paschali," in the pure Dorian mode and enters upon an impassioned free treatment of the melody while the chant continues in the orchestral bass. The finale, in the style of a rousing march, is based on the plain-chant, "Alleluia, Beatus vir qui timet Dominum," which is interwoven with another chant and with still a third in a remarkable treatment of contrasted keys and colors.

The concerto, was the high mark of the program which began with Leo Weiner's arrangement for the violin section of Bach's prelude to the sixth sonata for solo violin. Other items were Mendelssoh 's "Scotch" symphony and the dashing polonaise from Chaikovski's opera, "Evgen Onegin."

City News in Brief

PREVIEW—A wartime buying course showing how the OPA operates to protect Washingtonians against excessive prices and inflation will be given next Tuesday. The institute, cooperating with the District Civilian War Services Division, will present the course for about 400 persons chosen by community organizations and civilian defense. The course will feature a city-wide survey of grocery store prices and of compliance of OPA regulations. Shown are Mrs. Ernest Lindley (right), wife of the newspaper columnist, and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot

Fights Banana Ceiling

Charging the Office of Price Administration ceiling on bananas is too low, the Suwannee Fruit & Steamship Co. of Florida asked the Emergency Court of Appeals yesterday to set aside the OPA maximum price.

The fruit company says that the 4-cents-a-pound ceiling allowed it on bananas imported from the Dominican Republic is illegal in that companies importing from Costa Rica, Panama, Guatamala and Honduras are favored by a 5½ cents a pound ceiling.

Bridegroom Arrested

George S. McClelland, 21, of Ossining, N. Y., was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday, following his arrest here Thursday on a charge of impersonating an Army officer. He was placed under $1000 bond and the hearing continued until February 22.

Meanwhile Detective Sergt. Roy Blick, who arrested him in a downtown hotel where he was honeymooning with his bride, a member of the WAVES, said that District police had been notified that McClelland was wanted in Indianapolis on a charge of passing bad checks.

Sergeant Blick said McClelland had been a flight officer at Bowan Field, Ky., but had been discharged October 31. Shortly after that he came to Washington to appeal his case and while here met the WAVE, telling her he was a second lieutenant and had just returned from overseas duty. They were married at her home in Massachusetts, earlier this month.

$1200 Lost in Hotel

A wallet containing between $1200 and $1500 in cash was lost in the Mayflower Hotel lobby shortly after noon yesterday by George E. Terrell of 2032 Belmont st. nw., who is president of Terrell Products Co., duplicating machine manufacturers' agents.

Terrell said it was unusual for him to carry that much money on his person and that he was on his way to the bank when the loss occurred.

Navy Honors Seaman

Mrs. James Corley, 7816 Marlboro pike se., has been chosen by Secretary of the Navy Knox to sponsor the destroyer escort, USS Tinsman, named in honor of her brother, the late Carl Welby Tinsman, seaman second class, USNR. He was killed in action March 10, 1943, as a member of a boarding party on an enemy blockade runner. The Silver Star Medal for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity," and the Purple Heart were awarded to him posthumously.

Marketers' Election

Dr. Chas. F. Phillips, in charge of automobile rationing for the OPA, was elected president of the Washington chapter of the American Marketing Association yesterday, at a luncheon meeting.

Other officers elected for 1944 were Raoul Blumberg of The Washington Post and E. R. Hawkins of the Department of Commerce, vice presidents, and A. Rex Johnson of the Department of Agriculture, secretary-treasurer.

Guest speaker was Dr. Ralph S. Alexander, acting deputy director, Wholesale and Retail Trade Division, OCR, who discussed marketing problems of reconversion.

Service Children's Nurse

Children of service families will be cared for on a 24-hour basis in the nursery of the United Nations Service Center on Union Station plaza since the addition of Mrs. Mary Slovansky, registered nurse, to its staff, according to center officials. Primary purpose of the nursery is to look after children of service couples who are obliged to spend a few hours in Washington between trains with their parents or parent.

CIO Unit Asks Soldier Vote

A servicemen's welfare program, with the right to vote in the coming Presidential elections as point one, was adopted by the CIO Congress of Women's Auxiliaries' National Executive Board in a two-day session which ended yesterday.

Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, met with the board to discuss coordination of this work with the union political campaign.

Church Oil Stolen

Between 450 and 500 gallons of fuel oil were stolen from the Lewis Memorial Church, at 4th and Hamilton st. nw., police revealed yesterday.

The oil, which was stored in an underground tank of the church, was thought to have been removed some time last week but was not missed until Monday when the Rev. H. R. Deal, pastor, received a report from the sexton that the church's supply was exhausted.

Arnold to Make Award

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the United States Air Forces, will present the Fairchild Award today for the most outstanding achievement in aerial photography during the past year. The name of the recipient has not yet been revealed.

The presentation, which will be made at the Wardman Park Hotel at 12:30 p. m., is part of the two-day program of the American Society of Photogrammetry which is holding its annual convention.

Press Club to Visit Ship

Members of the National Press Club and their families will be guests aboard the American Mariner, 10,000-ton United States Maritime Service training ship, tomorrow between 11 a. m. and 12:30 p. m.

A converted Liberty ship, the vessel is docked at the Municipal Fish Wharf, 12th st. and Maine ave. sw., and will remain here until Tuesday.

The ship's crew of 253 trainees, 102 officers and permanent crewmen, will stage ship drills and demonstrate other training activities for the visitors.

Husband Holds Rolling Pin

A young married couple became slightly confused during a family quarrel late Thursday night. The husband, instead of being on the receiving end of the proverbial rolling pin, got hold of it first and banged his wife on the head.

She was treated at Georgetown Hospital for lacerations to the scalp and then sent home. No charges were preferred, and police said everything was lovey-dovey again—at least until she took over rightful ownership of the weapon.

Adm. Taussig Exonerated

Rear Admiral Joseph Taussig, USN, was found not guilty in Traffic Court yesterday on a charge of passing a red light on Connecticut ave nw. Admiral Taussig, who resides at 2126 Connecticut ave., testified before Judge Nathan Margold the light had turned amber as he entered the intersection and that he could not stop because of a slippery pavement.

Accused Thief Held

Harold Dorsey, 18, Negro, of 1233 1st st. nw., pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Thomas D. Quinn in Municipal Court to robbing the Excelsior Cleaners, 2606 Wade rd. se., from which were taken 121 garments. Dorsey was held under $1000 bond for grand jury action.

Pupils to Give Dimes

Public school children in the District will be permitted to make voluntary contributions to the "Mile o' Dimes" campaign in those schools that desire to give, Robert L. Haycock, District superintendent of schools, notified all school officers by letter yesterday. The project was approved at a meeting of the Board of Education Wednesday.

Companion Robs Man

Rupert C. Reamy, 42, of 60 Bryant st. nw., was found dazed in the first block of P st. nw, early yesterday. He said he had been assaulted and robbed.

Taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for head and face lacerations, he later told police that he had been walking with a man, dressed in a soldier's uniform, whom he had befriended during the evening. The man suddenly struck him with a blunt instrument, he said, and robbed him of $40 in bills. A blackjack was found at the scene, police said.

Steuart Case Back Broken, OPA Asserts

The Office of Price Administration hailed as a significant victory last night the decision of Justice Jennings Bailey of District Court upholding the power of the OPA to suspend allocations of rationed commodities to dealers found to have violated rationing regulations.

The decision broke the back of a court battle by the L. P. Steuart & Bro., Inc., large oil firm here, to sell as much oil as its customers have coupons. Renah Camalier, attorney for the firm, announced he would take the case to the United States Court of Appeals as soon as possible.

Steuart had taken to District Court an OPA order of January 2 which reduced the number of customers Steuart could serve to those it accommodated in the year prior to October 22, 1942.

Justice Bailey, in denying Steuart's requests for injunctions and in dismissing the case, said OPA's action was not in "the nature of a penalty or punishment for past conduct, but for the protection of the public as to future action, to prevent a continuance of the violations of the regulations of the OPA made for the protection of the public.

"There can be no question of the necessity of the preservation of those materials which are necessary both to the carrying on of the war and the health and existence of the people of the country, and the powers given to the President and to those whom he has chosen to carry out these objects are necessary and proper in time of war."

Court to Rule On Legality of Renegotiation

Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of United States Court of Appeals signed an order yesterday by which he will set up a three-judge statutory court to determine whether the Renegotiation Act is constitutional.

The order states, "I hereby designate D. Lawrence Groner, chief justice of the United States Court of Appeals, and Jennings Bailey, associate justice of the District Court, to participate with Edward C. Eicher, chief justice of the District Court . . . as a three-judge statutory court to hear and determine this matter."

The test arises out of a suit brought by the Lincoln Electric Co. of Cleveland resisting a demand by the Navy Department that it return $3,250,000 to the Government. This sum is said by the Navy to represent excess profits for 1942 determined by its price adjustment board.

Though the Lincoln Co. maintains it is making no excess profits, the Justice Department contends the company made profits in 1942 in excess of 19 per cent even after renegotiation, but before taxes were paid. The profits, say the Government, would be 23 per cent of the total net worth of the firm at the beginning of 1942.

Transit Union, Management Open Parley

Union leaders and officials of the A. B. & W. and Arnold-operated bus lines yesterday opened negotiations for agreements on the drivers' pay bonus question. The unions previously served a 30-day notice on the War Labor Board which would permit a strike vote in February if the question is not settled.

A. B. & W. officials and union representatives met with War Labor Board officers yesterday afternoon for interpretations of the WLB order suggesting bonus payments instead of wage increases for war-burden bus drivers in the metropolitan area. There were no comments from any of the parties concerned, A. B. & W. union and company men will meet again today and probably Monday on the bonus plan. William H. Jackson, president of the A. B. & W. local, made it plain that there was no friction between the union and the company on an hourly 5-cent wage increase which had been asked of, and denied by, the War Labor Board.

Bonus meetings between union men and Arnold officials will be held next week.

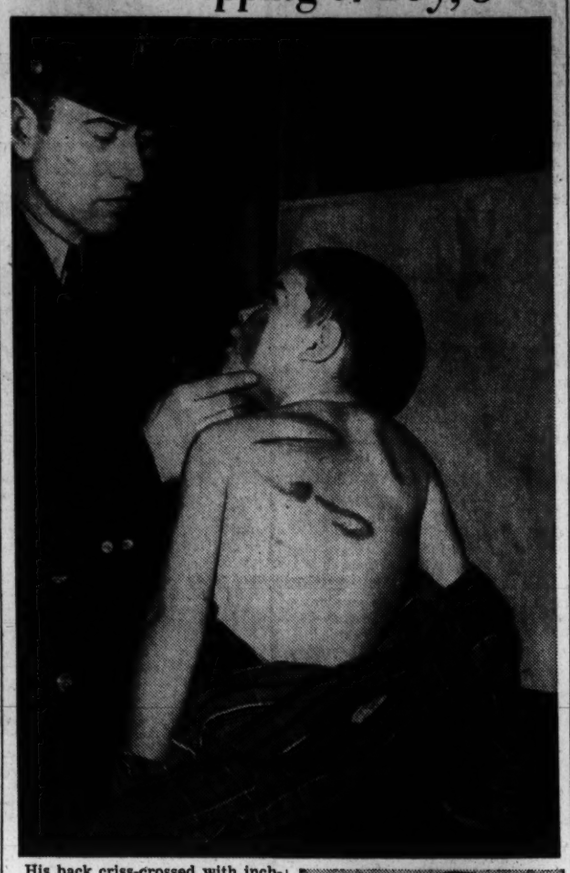
3 Southwest Schools to Be Replaced

A large, completely equipped structure will replace three outmoded Southwest schools when the needed materials are available in the postwar era, Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock promised last night at a joint meeting of the Southwest Parent-Teacher Associations and Citizens Association.

Under the city-wide "replacement program" planned several years ago by the Board of Education and laid over until peacetime, Haycock pledged the Southwest area will share in the "extensive program of elementary school building." At least 34 small and outdated elementary schools will be replaced in all.

In the Southwest area, Haycock told parents a single modern building will be constructed in place of the Amidon School, erected in 1882; the Greenleaf School, erected in 1896, and the Fairbrother School, erected in 1911, none of which have auditoriums, gyms, libraries or cafeterias. The Negro schools in the area will also benefit by the replacement program, he said.

Father Held for Assault In Belt-Whipping of Boy, 8



His back criss-crossed with inch-wide red welts, 8-year-old Joseph Edward Mercer, jr., told police yesterday his father had beaten him with the buckle end of a pants belt.

The father, a 32-year-old peddler, admitted he struck the boy "seven or eight times" because Joseph returned home at 10:30 p. m. Wednesday and "lied to me twice." Police charged him with assault.

Policeman Dewey Mayo discovered Joseph's plight after he went to the Mercer home, a single room above a garage in the rear of 630 S st. sw. Other neighborhood children had told Mayo the boy had been whipped.

Joseph's left cheek bore a red welt the width of the belt and his back and shoulders showed signs of a terrible beating.

Dressed only in a plaid flannel shirt, torn corduroy pants and shoes, with no underwear or stockings, Joseph said he had been at the Fourth Precinct Boys Club Wednesday night and got home a few minutes after 9.

His father took his (Joseph's) belt and beat him, the child said.

The family came here from Sandy Hook, Md., December 23, and the father has worked as a handy man for various concerns. He was arrested as an unlicensed vendor by two scout car patrolmen before the latter knew of the beating.

Mrs. Mercer died of pneumonia at Gallinger Hospital and was buried January 11.

Three other Mercer children, Elsie Mae, 6; Peggy, 4, and Samuel, 3, are being cared for by a grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Morman, at 487 E st. sw.

Paper Pickup Today Factor In Scout Trip

D. C. Salvage Committee trucks will make the rounds of Washington today to pick up current contributions from Washington area scouts and cubs to the paper salvage drive as scouters prepare bundles of waste paper for the third official collection of the program.

Scout Executive Linn C. Drake pointed out that the pickups this weekend will play a large part in determining the five Scouts from this area eligible for a train trip to one of the largest paper mills in the East, with full expenses paid by The Washington Post.

The five troops or packs collecting the greatest amount of waste paper for collection within the five Saturdays of the month, according to official figures recorded by the D. C. Salvage Committee, will be selected January 31. The outstanding troops may, in turn, select a Scout to represent them on the inspection tour, scheduled for February 5.

Meanwhile, eight more troops have joined the drive.

Among the new enrollees are: Troop 29, Sergt. James McDaniel, leader, 2222 8 st. nw., Decatur 1011, extension 19; headquarters, St. Gabriel's Church, 26, Grant Circle. Troop 72, Daniel J. Nelson, leader, 635 G st. se., Trinidad 4365; headquarters, 717 I st. ne. Troop 231, H. J. Moore, leader, 17 Monroe st., Rockville, Md., Rockville 578; headquarters, rear of South Perry st., Rockville. Troop 19, Presidential Gardens, Alexandria, Va.; headquarters, 23d and South Grant sts., Arlington, Va.

Troop 232, Douglas B. Cornell, leader, 4408 Fairfield dr., Bethesda, Md., Oliver 1613; headquarters, Lynbrook School, East Bethesda. Pack 412, J. W. Loftis, leader, 832 Wayne st., Silver Spring, Md., Sligo 6454; headquarters, 832 Wayne st. Troop 55, W. T. Rainey, jr., leader, 133 Joliet st. nw.; headquarters, Southeastern Boys Club, 17th st. and Massachusetts ave. se. Troop 512, Elmer R. Tyler, leader, 1635 Rosedale st. ne., Lincoln 1505; headquarters, 324 Virginia ave. se.

Among the troops scheduled to make plans for participating in the campaign at their next scout meetings are Troop 207, under Edward Dunlap; Troop 210, under Gilbert Lent, jr.; Pack 211, under Willis C. Beasley, and Troop 255, under William G. Hills.

ABC Board Gets OPA Report on Kronheim Case

The District ABC Board yesterday received reports from the local Office of Price Administration on its case against Milton S. Kronheim, Inc., for which the firm paid $200,000 out of court for violating price ceilings. According to ABC Chairman Thomas E. Lodge, the reports were sent on request of the board but that body will not have time to examine them until the completion of year-end business in respect to issuing of licenses by February 1 and scheduled hearings.

Should the ABC Board decide to review the case, a citation would be issued directing Kronheim to appear before a hearing of the board and show cause why his license should not be revoked or suspended. The evidence of the report would be studied by the corporation counsel before any decision would be made by the ABC Board.

Funds to Aid Hospitals Approved

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works administrator, yesterday approved a $244,700 allotment for construction of a nurses' home and training facilities at Providence Hospital and an allocation to Children's Hospital for erection of a new nurses' home and orthopedic department.

FWA will make a grant of $93,000 and a loan of $50,000 to cover the entire cost of the proposed project at Children's Hospital under the Lanham Act. Construction of the nurses' home and orthopedic department will release space to expand kitchen and dining room facilities to accommodate increased personnel and students. The new nurses' home will include 30 double rooms and 6 single ones with facilities for 90 nurses.

Two-Story Nurses' Home

The project at Providence Hospital provides for construction of a two-story and part basement nurses' home and training school to include a dining hall, kitchen, lecture room, dietetics laboratory, boiler and storage rooms, sleeping quarters for approximately 128 nurses, supervisors' and lounge rooms and fixed equipment.

In approving the Providence Hospital project, Maj. Gen. Fleming passed on a $191,465 increase from the original amount of the allotment, which rose from $53,235 to $244,700. The original project contemplated the leasing of two nearby apartment buildings to provide housing for the increased enrollment of nurses being trained under provisions of the Bolton Act and the construction of only a one-story and part basement dining hall and kitchen on Providence Hospital property.

Feasible Solution

Investigation showed, it was said, that construction of new quarters was the most feasible solution because nearby apartment buildings were occupied by warworkers. The new structure will be located on Government-owned land within a block and a half of the hospital.

Meanwhile, Folger Park facing Providence Hospital would be give without cost to the institution as a site for the proposed addition under provisions of a bill introduced yesterday by Representative D'Alesandro (Democrat) of Maryland. The park, which is owned by the Federal Government, covers an area of nearly 2 acres, according to Edward A. Dent, District tax assessor.

D'Alesandro said the dearth of hospital facilities in the District is so serious Congress should encourage private institutions by gifts of available land to plan extensions for the postwar period.

Favors Report's Approval

Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee said yesterday he believed that committee should approve recommendations in a report of the subcommittee which investigated Gallinger Hospital calling for removal of Commissioner Mason, Health Officer George C. Ruhland, and Drs. Joseph L. Gilbert and Charles P. Cake of the hospital medical staff.

The committee will meet in executive session Monday at 3:30 p. m. to consider the recommendations.

Blood Gifts Quadrupled Here in 1943

District donors contributed almost four times the amount of blood in 1943 than they did in 1942, according to the annual activities report of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross issued yesterday.

The report indicated that 1943 was a record-shattering one as far as wartime activities of the organization were concerned.

In the financial report, submitted by Frederick Siddons, treasurer, it was revealed that the chapter had spent a total of $753,711, tripling the amount spent during 1942. Of the total sum spent by the chapter, services to the armed forces accounted for $170,210 and the Blood Donor Center, $141,758.

The Blood Donor Center reported that residents of the Washington area had contributed 151,388 pints of blood compared to the 39,653 pints contributed during 1942.

In submitting the report, Mrs. George Angus Garrett, who succeeded Miss Mabel T. Boardman, as chairman of the Volunteer Special Services, stated that more than two million volunteer hours had been given to the Red Cross during the year.

"Figured at the rate of only 50 cents an hour, volunteer hours represent a financial assistance of $1,080,000," the report stated.

During the year more than four million dressings were completed and turned over to the Army and Navy, representing an increase of 100 per cent over 1942. In addition 570,000 surgical dressings were made for civilian relief, for seven local hospitals and for the Blood Donor Center, the report showed.

More than 26,500 knitted garments were completed as were 105,000 sewn garments and various miscellaneous items. Members of the Production Corps have completed 20,000 comfort and convalescent kits. The Survivor's Kit Depot at Dorchester House assembled and shipped more than 15,000 kits.

A total of 344,000 persons were served by the Canteen Corps. During the year 210 nurses were enrolled to serve the armed forces, and in order to relieve the acute shortage of professional medical personnel, the Nurse's Aide Corps stepped up its program to train nurse's aides and now have over 1100 members who donated 220,000 hours in 1943.

BARNABY By Crockett Johnson

I've assured all my colleagues at the Elves, Leprechauns, Gnomes, and Little Men's Chowder and Marching Society that there's no danger from that burst dam in the brook . . . As long as this freezing weather holds out . . .
I'll think of a solution to the problem before the spring thaw sets in . . . I'm responsible, in a way, for this mishap. It seems I antagonized the beavers. And they moved away, abandoning the maintenance of their dam.
Beavers?

Yes . . . One day I happened to be mulling over the question of riparian rights, and I, er—
Pop wants Congress to build a BIG dam, Mr. O'Malley, and—

The three million and more babies expected in the United States in 1944 may have much for which to thank Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey. The noted reformer is out to revolutionize the system of naming infants.

Mrs. DeGoofey

"At least 90 per cent of all people are dissatisfied with their names and I mean to do something about it!" Mrs. DeGoofey told her press conference yesterday. "Why should so many people go through life handicapped by names bestowed on them through some silly debt to ancestors or through their parents' fantastic whims? It is inconceivable that with all the other legislation out of Washington nothing should have been done to regulate the naming of babies, which are becoming our bumper crop."

Mrs. DeGoofey outlined a bill she said she would ask her old enemy Senator Tweet to sponsor. "His utterances," she explained, "indicate that his eyes are constantly on the voters, and, I know he will be glad to get in solid with the class of 1963. Here are the main provisions of my bill.

F.D.R. Jones

To Be Banned

"No infant shall be named for any public character. This will prevent women from being dated throughout their lives by their names. It will save them from having their ages—plus the usual number of years always added by computing friends—becoming public property, which would undoubtedly happen to anyone called—say Eleanor Roosevelt or Mayling Soong. It will also prevent such embarrassing situations as would occur when anyone named Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jones, on reaching manhood, achieved membership in a country club and wished to become a Republican.

"Any name that threatens to have a fashionable run shall be banned from use for at least five years. In that way we shall not have the confusion that results when a crop of Yvettes or Yvonnes comes along and every girl manages to twist her own cognomen into the craze of the moment.

"No parent will be permitted to inflict on a child a name that might be embarrassing later, as Venus or Salome, or Samson, Perceival or Napoleon. And no child shall be given two ultra fancy names, as Daphne Mignon or Mortimer Radcliffe.

Boys to Escape

Family Appendage

"No child shall be given two long-winded family names and called by both of them. This is to prevent boys' being persecuted by their playmates because their parents insist on addressing them as Arthur Arbuthnot or John Flitterwaite.

"Peculiar family or ancestral names shall be given only as second names so that they may be dropped later if they become embarrassing. Or I might add, if no financial benefit has resulted from the names.

"If initials are to be used, there should be at least three of them. Two initials make a name seem dull and ordinary. But three initials give an air of dash and success.

"Every girl should receive at least one name whose spelling can be changed to make her distinctive or fashionable. For instance, if a girl be named Alice, she has many chances to avoid mediocrity by becoming Alyce or Alys or Alisia and Alicia.

"No child shall be given a peculiar or odd sounding name. Humanity being what it is, the person with the odd name is always suspect—especially on school grounds.

"Finally, when the postwar world comes into being, a day shall be set aside for general name changing. On this day every citizen will be given opportunity to emulate the Hollywood set and take names that are agreeable and glamorous."

"What new name will you take?" Mrs. DeGoofey was asked.

"I haven't fully decided," was the reply. "I am fluctuating between Ivy Patricia and Daphne Divan. I am also considering Peggy Joyce, Nell Gwynne and Mati Harl."

Don't Be a Party-Killer

By Grace Martin
AP Feature Writer

How do you do in the matter of office parties—or parties held by any other group to which you belong?

Do you help plan the thing in the beginning or do you wait until all the arrangements are made and then shoot them full of holes with your criticism?

Worse still, do you wait until "the day after" and then tell everybody "We should have gone to Joe Doakes' place, where we get more for our money"?

When noses are being counted in advance, do you say "yes" or "no" at once? Or do you dangle along till the last minute before you say what you'll do?

And how about the money you are to contribute? Are you on the dot with that, or does the "collector" have to approach you several times before he gets your 50 cents?

Finally, are you among those who hold post-mortems, discussing what some other person said and did or failed to say and do?

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The "no" period of childhood always strikes the mother unawares. Heretofore her baby has been sweet and submissive.

Then, overnight, so it would seem, he begins to stamp his feet or knock his head on the floor or merely stand and scream, "No, no, I won't," when she makes the most innocent suggestion.

This no-no period is not indicative of a child's future incorrigibility. It doesn't mean that unless the parent clamps down and becomes a stern disciplinarian the child will never be cooperative again.

Develops Own Likes

What it does mean is the child has ceased to be a mindless toy wound up and run by the parent. He is growing into a person who knows what he likes or dislikes, who knows when he wants to play, go to sleep, go to the toilet or how to act in other situations which are typical of a child's day.

This is a good time to take stock of one's method of approach. It's pretty certain that it doesn't work well to say, "Johnny, you've got to come in now. It's time for dinner." It may work very well to say, "Johnny, look in the window. Snooky knows it's dinner time, and he's waiting for you to come in."

Or, if there is no black cocker to look wistfully from the window, she may say, "It's train time and your little trains are waiting to be sent on their way. Mustn't miss train time."

By such methods one sets the child's interest ticking in a different direction instead of putting thumbs down on what he is doing and saying, in effect, "You can't do that any more. You've got to do what I say." That brings about a perfect fury of negativism and the parent is as often the loser as the child.

Ingenuity Pays Dividends

There are things which have to be done and if there are no roundabout ways to accomplish them without arousing opposition, then they have to be done. The real difficulty with that method is that eventually the mother persuades herself that everything she wants to do, or wants the child to do, belongs in that category.

To espouse such an idea, to perpetually run counter to the child's desires, just because of convenience or laziness or lack of ingenuity, is to make this purely temporary phase of negativism grow into a perfect giant of rebellion against all authority.

Our leaflet, "When the Child Says, 'No,'" may be had by mailing your request with a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of The Washington Post.

Traveling Lieutenant Calls Nazi Motive Hate

By Jean Craighead

"A war must be fought with hate," declared a world-trotting lieutenant in the Netherlands army. Presently stationed in Washington, the stalwart lieutenant has been traveling the globe since childhood and has seen this second world war brew and explode.

"The Allies must learn to hate the Germans as deeply as they hate us. And make no mistake, they hate us with a vengeance.

"I can no longer say anything good about the Germans," he stated with tight jaw. He could not comment on their contributions in music and science. Everything is black or white. There is no fringe, no exception.

Born on a sugar plantation in Java, the lieutenant, whose name must be withheld in the interest of his relatives and countrymen in Holland, has seen much to make him retrospective since his early days of throughbred horses, and carefree life on the exotic Java plantation.

He has seen France, suffering from the ravages of the last war, led astray by politics at a vulnerable time. He has seen the German military class twist the national inferiority complex, created after the 1918 defeat, into blind, devastating self-love.

Saw Nation Overrun

He has seen his own nation overrun by the enemy and seized, and his people continuing undaunted their battle for freedom on the high seas and in the air.

"The Dutch Legion, the Netherlands Merchant Marine and the Netherlands Navy," he declared, are striking at the enemy with persistence and hate from many air and sea ports. Our navy, small but efficient, is working with the British and the United States in every fighting area of the globe. In Africa, in Sicily and up and down the Atlantic and Pacific."

The needling effect of these skilled seamen, is contributing much to the Allied cause, according to British reports and the Allied Shipping Board.

The lieutenant's European travels with a Dutch oil company were terminated a short time before the war, and, after having lived in the U. S. A. For a while he joined the Netherlands army in Canada. With the army he was sent to England, to South America and back to the United States.

From these vantage points he has watched the political, ideological, and economic war spread around the globe like a plague. When Great Britain and the United States took up arms, he declared the war became one for ideals, and economics were secondary.

Each Has Stood Test

"The oppressed peoples of Europe look to the United States with great trust," the lieutenant said," because of the people that make your nation, and the ideals that it was founded on. Some say this war is intrenched in economy and politics. But when nations cry out that Germany, Japan and Italy are wrong and will not be tolerated—then, it is more than that—it is human indignation crying for what is right."

The lieutenant, formerly a student of political science, looks upon the Hot Springs and Atlantic City conferences with great satisfaction. He said that the results proved that nations can get together and hash out problems in the interest of humanity. Each has stood the test of subordination for the survival and common interest of all people all over the world.

"At this moment," he continued, "there are cases where Dutch youth are paying their own way to come from South America, and North and South Africa to Canada and England to bring all that they are able to the Allies."

Again he mentioned Germany, and the long bitter fight ahead. If we cannot parallel their hate for us, through the ordinary channels of war, he said, then we must bring all the forces of propaganda upon the Allies 100 per cent. The Axis has not spared it—we must not.

However, he added, perhaps the invasion will be enough—more than enough.

Swift--Park Rites Take Place Here

On their way to California, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Swift, who were married here recently, will stop in Ashland, Ohio, to attend the Korean Recognition Conference.

Mrs. Swift is the former Anne Park, of Honolulu and Washington, and is of Korean descent. Mr. Swift, who is the son of a retired English manufacturer, came to the United States in 1938 and has resided in Los Angeles most of the time since then.

The marriage, which culminated a romance of wide interest, took place here last Saturday at the Foundry Methodist Church. The Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris officiated.

Roberts—Johnson

At another important ceremony the past week, Miss Meryle Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Hughes Johnson, became the bride of James O'Connor Roberts, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts of Washington. Walter Reed Memorial Chapel was the scene of the rites on January 19, with Chaplain George L. Cutton officiating.

Given in marriage by Oswin C. Rowbotham, the bride was gowned in white lace, styled with a train over heavy white satin. Her fingertip veil fell from a Juliet cap and she carried a satin-covered Bible with white roses. Mrs. Robert L. Stubbs, her matron of honor, wore pale green net over brocade taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses with gold-bronze ribbon.

Richards L. Roberts, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Capt. Richard Tracy and Warrant Officer Robert L. Stubbs. Following the wedding there was a reception at the Johnson home on Sixteenth st., and later the couple left on their wedding trip.

Collins—Cleland

Pvt. and Mrs. Martin William Collins, jr., are now making their home at Fort Belvoir, Va., following their recent marriage here. The bride is the former Miss Jane Irwin Cleland, and she is the daughter of Mrs. J. B. Cleland, of Jacksonville, Fla. Private Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin William Collins, of Scranton, Pa.

The Rev. Father John H. Zerhusen officiated at the single-ring ceremony on January 14 in St. Mary's rectory. Miss Bernice M. Richardson was the bride's only attendant, and Joseph J. Malinowsky was best man. The bride wore a frock of pastel aqua with lilac accessories, and carried an orchid corsage. Following the wedding there was a luncheon and the couple left later for a brief honeymoon trip to New York.

Geneva Law Followed By Nazis In Camps

By Genevieve Reynolds

What is life in a European internment camp? To find the answer to that question I sought out tall, slim, handsome Mrs. Hugo Cedegren of Stockholm, Sweden, who has the unique oppportunity of ministering to the women in various internment camps.

"Usually, the camps are located on healthy sites, often surrounded by beautiful scenery," she explained. "Women and children may work if they choose. Naturally, they must do their own laundering. Regulation uniforms are not required. Each person wears her own clothes.

"Physically, the women and children fare all right," she continued. "The Nazis comply with the Geneva international law. But it is the mental strain of being imprisoned that must be combated and the personal needs looked after."

Works With Husband

That's where Mrs. Cedegren, born the Countess Elsa Bernadotte, a niece of the King of Sweden, does her bit for the war and humanity. As a neutral and a representative of the World YWCA, she is permitted to visit women and children in the German internment camps and those of several other nationalities. She has talked with German as well as British and American internees. Her husband, who is now in New York City, does similar work for the YMCA.

Their respective tasks are to help the prisoners to occupy themselves with some sort of work or study; to give them spiritual guidance through the difficult internment period. The Red Cross cares for the physical needs.

In Sweden the YWCA collected money and sent kindergarten materials to one internment camp for the children there. Also, the association collected and sent books to many. One of the self-appointed tasks of the World YWCA is to provide reading material for prison internees in all parts of the world. It's a reciprocal service.

Many Teachers Interned

"Since many teachers have been interned, the children and women get a lucky break," she said. "They teach the internees. Languages are the most popular subjects."

All reading matter is censored. The prisoners aren't allowed any newspapers or news of the outside world. It's a monotonous, nerve-wracking, but not uncomfortable, existence in internment camps is the way Mrs. Cedegren sees it.

MRS. HUGO CEDEGREN

President of the Swedish YWCA from 1921 to 1942, the clear blue-eyed, white-haired woman came to Washington to attend an executive committee meeting of the World's YWCA, which got under way yesterday. She still is one of the vice presidents of the organization in her country. Her husband is general secretary of the YMCA in Sweden.

When will the war end? How weak is Germany? What was the amount of damage done in Germany by the RAF and U. S. Air Forces? None of these questions would or could she answer. "There's still work to be done," she explained. As a neutral who can and wants to do it, she gave forth no information . . . certainly not the kind we all eagerly wanted to know.

Busy Worker Always Has Time for "One More Job"

The recent announcement by the Executive Committee of the American Theater Wing's Stage Door Canteen that Mrs. A. F. Eberly, jr., (known for years by her pen-name Lucie Eberly) is now Canteen Editor, gives emphasis again to that old adage that busy people always find time "to do just one more thing."

Mrs. Eberly, former feature writer for local newspapers and associate editor of a current events magazine, has been "hiding her light" to a great degree lately but has been nevertheless quietly active in a number of church and wartime activities.

Emerging recently as chairman of publicity of the American Newspaper Women's Club, and now as Canteen Editor, Lucie Eberly is again true to her first love, newspaper work.

Daughter of Charles Thomas, Western newspaper editor and publisher, printers ink literally runs in her veins; and, according to rumor, she has been working for some time recently on a treatise covering her experiences and observations made while traveling in Europe in 1929.

Studied Political Science

In this work she will elaborate on a period spent at the University of Berlin pursuing a course in political science. Commenting on her project, Mrs. Eberly added, "The evolution of the Nazi Party had an alarming influence in the educational program at that time—the world, closing its eyes to the evil fruitage inevitably reaped the heartbreaking harvest it does not wish to claim. Seasons, eras of civilization, come and go—each leaving an indelible imprint, and demandingly point to higher resolves, intents and purpose. The seed sown in the next decade, we all know, will determine whether civilization, as we wish to know it, can survive."

Mrs. Eberly also worked as executive secretary to the late Rear Admiral Mark Lambert Bristol during his successful campaign of raising $250,000 for the American Hospital of Istanbul, in which cause he became interested while High Commissioner to Turkey. She continued as confidential secretary when Admiral Bristol was head of the committee for the management of the estate of the late Edward Beale McLean.

Worked With Admiral Bristol

Working closely with Admiral Bristol for almost three years was, according to Mrs. Eberly, equal to one of the most comprehensive courses ever taken at college. He was never ill-humored, always encouraging and had a sea-dog brand of determination which was almost unconsciously absorbed by those associated with him.

Make It Do

Service Wife Outfits Real Home at Low Cost

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin

Mrs. K. G. and her soldier husband are stationed for the duration (they think) in a port city on the East Coast across the continent from their home State. But they want even this wartime home to be friendly and comfortable, and here are some of the ways they've achieved that without spending money on expensive furniture that will be difficult to ship when peace comes.

Their furnished apartment has only skeleten furnishings. For the bedroom, a bed, a chest of drawers, chair, drab rug, worse curtains. The living room boasts a homely sofa, an old square oak dining table, a small desk, ditto rug and curtains.

Here's what they've done. For the bedroom, Mrs. G. has made flowered cretonne curtains, bedspread and slip cover. Then she bought a pair of wall-papered closet chests of drawers which she uses now for bedside tables. The "furnished" lamps don't look so bad with the cretonne shades she's made for them.

With Green Accents

The old rug fades into the background, unable to compete with the cheery cretonne.

In the living room, she's made curtains, slip covers and lamp shades out of the same flowered cretonne.

The repetition of this design contributes unity to the small apartment.

While the dining table between meals gets a green felt cover which picks up the green leaves in the cretonne, it makes a practical work top and brightens its corner.

For end tables, she's had simple wall bracket shelves built and painted green. She's slip-covered her trunk in green felt for a coffee table, binding and lacing the corners together in tailored finish. Extra sofa cushions are green, too.

On the wall she's put maps and photographs of friends. "After all, that's what we're most interested in these days," she explains. Altogether the effect is livable and bright—yet there's nothing that can't be packed to ship easily when time comes to shove on.

The cretonne slip covers, curtains and spread can, Mrs. G. figures, be made over or used again as is, for they're sunfast and washable and of stout weave and a lastingly nice design.

Fill-in Dishes

The wall-papered chests will be fine to pack things in when she moves and to use in closets later.

For dishes she's using the furnished stuff, plus some fill-ins from the 10-cent store, so she won't have breakables to pack. But she's buying nice silver and linen to supplement her wedding presents, for these too are easy to pack.

Just another example of cheerful acceptance of the inevitable inconveniences of living in these days! We'd like to add Mrs. G. to our own honor roll of those who believe that while the men are fighting for a better world, the women had better keep the home fires burning extra bright.

Venezuelan President Is Honor Guest

The President of Venezuela, Gen. Isaias Medina, was the guest in whose honor Adolph A. Berle, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Berle were hosts at dinner last evening. Yesterday President Medina was entertained at luncheon by the Ambassador of Venezuela, Dr. Diogenes Escalante and Senora de Escalante at the embassy; and today the distinguished visitor will be honor guest at a luncheon to be given by Edward Stettinius, Undersecretary of State, who will entertain at the Carlton Hotel.

Vice President and Mrs. Henry Wallace and the Venezuelan Ambassador and Senora de Escalante were among the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Berle.

Capital Lags Behind Area In Sales Gain

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales in the week ended January 15 showed a 1 per cent gain over the same week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday. In the same time store sales in the entire Fifth Reserve District were 7 per cent heavier than last year.

For the four weeks ended January 15 local sales were 8 per cent better than in the corresponding 1943 period while the region showed an 11 per cent increase.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in its weekly retail survey reported that milder weather intended to limit the usual seasonal clearance sales with little response accorded the few January clearance sales which were held.'

'Low inventories, the business research firm added, held down sales of house furnishings.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the District of Columbia, holding Probate Court. No. 62393. Administration. This is to give notice that the subscriber, of the District of Columbia, has obtained from the Probate Court of the District of Columbia, letters testamentary on the estate of Mosheim P. F. Swartzell, late of the District of Columbia, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof, legally authenticated, to the subscriber, on or before the 8TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1944; otherwise they may by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. Given under my hand this 12th day of January, 1944. THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. By J. WESLEY CLAMPITT, JR., Assistant Trust Officer. Attest: (Seal.) VICTOR S. MORSCH, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court. 15.22.29

ALFRED L. BENNETT,
Attorney for Receiver,
1919 Vermont Avenue (5).

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. In Re: Dissolution of Capital Casualty Company, A corporation. Civil Action No. 18872. Order of Publication. The object of this suit is to dissolve the Capital Casualty Company, a corporation, formerly doing business in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, to appoint a Receiver of its assets and to disburse same to the creditors and other persons entitled thereto. Upon consideration of the Petition of John B. Wills, Receiver, duly appointed and qualified in this cause, it is by the Court, this 26th day of October, 1943, Ordered, That public notice of the appointment of John B. Wills as Receiver herein, is hereby given and that all persons having claims against the said Capital Casualty Company, or against the Receiver, present and file an itemized statement of their claims, duly verified by affidavit of the claimant, with John B. Wills, Receiver, 907 Denrike Building, Washington, District of Columbia on or before FEBRUARY 1, 1944. Provided a copy of this ORDER shall be published twice a month for three consecutive months in the Washington Law Reporter and the Washington Post, before said date. F. DICKINSON LETTS, Justice. Attest: (Seal.) CHARLES E. STEWART, Clerk. By VIRGINIA POEHLER, Deputy Clerk. Nov.13,27;Dec.11,24;Jan.8,22.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. Agnes Josephine King, 1944 Naylor Road, S.E., plaintiff, vs. Milford Burkley King, Brooklyn, New York, defendant. No. 21451. The object of this suit is for absolute divorce on the grounds of desertion for more than two years. On motion of the plaintiff, it is this 14th day of January, 1944, ordered that the defendant, Milford Burkley King, cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, a copy of this order be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post before said day. T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH, Justice. Attest: (Seal.) CHARLES E. STEWART, Clerk. By ELEANOR E. JOBE, Deputy Clerk. 22.29.5

Filed Jan. 17, 1944. Charles E. Stewart, clerk.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. In re Application of Leo Cohen and Ray Fine Cohen for Change of Name. Civil Action No. 22760. Leo Cohen and Ray Fine Cohen, having filed a complaint for a judgment changing his and her name to Leo M. Colman and Ray Fine Colman and having applied to the Court for an order of publication of the notice required by law in such cases, it is, by the Court, this 17th day of January, 1944, ordered that all persons concerned show cause, if any there be, on or before the 14TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1944, why the prayers of said complaint should not be granted: Provided that a copy of this order be published once a week for three consecutive weeks before said day in The Washington Post and the Washington Law Reporter. T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH, Justice. A true copy. Test: CHARLES E. STEWART, Clerk. By EMMA C. SIMPSON, Deputy Clerk. 22.29.5

RIGHT AROUND HOME — By Dudley Fisher

POP SAID HE COULDN'T HELP ME WITH THESE PROBLEMS, 'CAUSE HE USES A DIFFERENT SYSTEM AT HIS OFFICE!
I THINK I'D BETTER TALK TO YOUR FATHER. IF THERE'S A BETTER WAY TO DO THESE THINGS, I WANT TO KNOW IT!
WELL—ER—WHEN THINGS LIKE THAT COME UP I HAND 'EM TO MY STENOGRAPHER AND SHE TAKES 'EM TO HER BOY FRIEND WHO WORKS IN A BANK, AND THEN SHE BRINGS ME BACK THE ANSWERS!
I'M SORRY, MYRTLE, BUT I'M AFRAID WE'LL HAVE TO KEEP ON DOING OUR PROBLEMS THE OLD WAY!

JOE PALOOKA — No More Sling — By Ham Fisher

THO'T I'D PICK YOU UP FOR CHOW.
OKAY. LET'S GIUT, FELLAS, ER WE WON'T EAT.
I BEAT THEM BOIDS OUTA SEVEN SMACKERS— I'M GLAD IT'S TIME FER CHOW— SAY...
SAY WHAT?
SOMETHIN'S WRONG— WHAT IS IT— YA— LE'SEE— HONKY SMOKES— YA FERGOT YER SLING—
I JUST LEFT THE DOCTOR— I'M NOT TWEAR IT ANYMORE.
OH JOEY— GOSH THAT'S TH' BEST NEWS I 'EVER HOID— OH GEE, KID, THAT'S— THAT'S SENSASH'NUL!!
AIN'T IT THO'.

JANE ARDEN — Another Clew — By Monte Barrett and Russell Ross

WELL WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT MOVIE DAME'S STORY, JANE?
I INSPECTED HER SHOES— THE SOLES WERE WORN ALMOST THROUGH— UNTIL THEN I SUSPECTED A FAKE—
OH-OH—I JUST REMEMBERED— THOSE WERE IMA LADY SHOES!
SO WHAT? WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE WHAT KIND OF SHOES THEY WERE?
JUST THIS— THOSE WERE VERY CHEAP SHOES— NOT THE KIND A MOVIE STAR WOULD BE WEARING—
THIS IS THE CLUE I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR!
WELL IF YOU SAY SO, WE'LL INVESTIGATE IT!

SUPERMAN — Hear Superman 5:45 P.M. Today—WOL — By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

CLARK, IS IT TRUE, AS SUSIE SAYS, THAT YOU'RE REALLY SUPERMAN?
WELL— ER—YES, LOIS...
AND ALL THESE YEARS YOU PRETENDED TO BE MEEK, YOU LET ME SAY SUCH HORRIBLE THINGS ABOUT YOU, AND— OH, I CAN'T BELIEVE IT...
BUT IT'S TRUE! SO STOP TALKING SO MUCH, AUNTIE LOIS...
...AND KISS HIM!
OH, CLARK!
("—THERE! THAT'S BETTER! NOW, SOON, UNCLE SUPERMAN WILL BECOME MY REAL UNCLE!—").

NAPOLEON AND UNCLE ELBY — By Clifford McBride

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — No Ticket—No Picket—Not Cricket — By Milton Caniff

DID YOU SEE CAPTAIN AUD?
YEZZR, HE WENT BY HERE IN A JEEP — HEADIN' DOWN THE LINE!
SHE'S GOING TO GRAB THE LAST AIRPLANE ON THE LINE... THAT'S MY SHIP...
GEEZT— IMAGINE THAT CAPTAIN AUD BEIN' A DAME ALL THIS TIME.... GEEZT...
IT'S TOO FAR FOR ME TO CATCH HER BEFORE SHE TAKES OFF— I'LL USE LIEUTENANT'S AIRPLANE!
SO THEY THOUGHT THEY COULD TRAP GANJAK!... I WHEEL DELEEVAIR, MYSELF TO THE JAPO-MESS, PLUS A NEW P-40...
BOOM

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — By Dale Allen

I GOT SOMETHIN' HERE FOR YOU, BUD!
OH, BOY! IS IT MY ORDERS TO REPORT TO AIR CADET SCHOOL, MR. TUPPER?
NOT UNLESS THEY'RE SENDIN' 'EM OUT IN CAST IRON CASES!.. THIS WEIGHS A TON!
IT'S FROM NEW YORK!
YIPPEE! WAIT'LL RICK SEES THIS ON HIS KID BROTHER'S BUREAU!

MICKEY FINN — Tough Spot — By Lank Leonard

DESTROYER DIRECTLY OVER US, SIR!
TURN EVERYTHING OFF! WE MUSTN'T MAKE A SOUND! HAVE THE MEN TAKE OFF THEIR SHOES!
AYE, AYE, SIR!
THE OTHER DESTROYER IS DROPPING 'EM NOW, TOO, SIR!
WE'LL TRY GOING DEEPER!
WE'RE BELOW OUR PRESSURE LIMIT NOW, SIR!
WE HAVE TO RISK IT! TAKE HER DOWN!

MR. AND MRS. — Business Before Pleasure — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoover

YOU SAY WE'VE GOT TO GO TO THIS PARTY AND I DON'T EVEN KNOW THESE PEOPLE
YEP. WE'VE GOT TO GO. MATTER OF BUSINESS
THIS TAXI RIDE WILL COST US ABOUT FIVE DOLLARS
MAYBE TEN— BUT WE'VE GOT TO GO
WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO WHEN WE GET THERE?
TURN AROUND AND COME HOME, I GUESS
BUT WHEN I WANTED YOU TO GO TO MRS. PULPY'S PARTY, YOU SAID IT WAS TOO FAR AND IT WAS ONLY A MILE
YEAH— BUT WHAT DOES MRS. PULPY MEAN TO ME?

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Help Promised — By Frank Martinek

CAPTAIN, DO YOU KNOW A MRS. TUTEL, WIFE OF COMMANDER TUTEL OF THE NAVY?
NO... CAN'T SAY THAT I DO!
IT'S SO STRANGE AND MYSTICAL... GOHITRO'S GANG IS DESTROYED.. I'M ABOUT TO LEAVE WHEN YOU AND MRS. TUTEL ENTER...
SKIPPER..
REMEMBER YOUR PHILOSOPHY, NO ONE ENTERS YOUR LIFE WITHOUT A REASON... YOU'RE STUCK, LIKE THE FLY THAT SAT ON THE FLY PAPER SAYING...
CUT IT, YOU PAGLIACCI!! NOW CAPTAIN, WE HAVE ANOTHER MYSTERY IN THE MAKING!

BIG CHIEF WAHOO — By Saunders and Wegger

OUI! EET EES A POPULAIRE SPOT FOR THE HANGING OUT, STEVE!
TOO BAD IT'S NOT BEING USED FOR HANGIN'— PERIOD! —OH WELL, I'M GLAD WE HAVE THIS CAVE! IT'S BEGINNING TO RAIN!
THE MEN ON THE ROOF WERE GETTIN' A SUN-BATH A WHILE AGO, BUT THEY'RE SITTIN' TIGHT EVEN IN THIS DOWN-POUR!
THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH THAT PICTURE!— SOME DETAIL THAT DOESN'T FIT IN!— I WISH I COULD PUT MY FINGER ON IT!!
UGH! HEAP LONG REACH!

WINNIE WINKLE — The Pursuit of Work Only — By Branner

SORRY TO DISAPPOINT YOU, DAISY, BUT THE EXTRA HELP WE'RE GETTING IS NOT A MAN— IT'S A GIRL TYPIST!!
AFTER ALL, WE'VE GOT TO GET SOMEONE TO WORK AROUND HERE ---
WELL, MY GOO'NESS— MEN WORK TOO, DON'T THEY?
I'M TRYING TO RUN A BUSINESS HERE-- NOT A LONELY HEARTS BUREAU OR A MATRIMONIAL AGENCY---!!!

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED — By Zane Grey

FOR A MOMENT ALL IS PITCH BLACKNESS, THEN SUDDENLY, THE FIGURE OF THE 'GLOWING GHOST' TAKES FORM!
NOW, THE OTHER ONE OF YOU... STRIKE A MATCH!

Prof. Prescott, Adventist Leader, Dies

Prof. William Warren Prescott, 88, prominent leader of educational, editorial and administrative work of Seventh Day Adventists, died at Washington Sanitarium yesterday after a brief illness.

PRESCOTT

Born at Alton, N. H., Professor Prescott assisted in establishing the Seventh Day Adventist World General Conference headquarters at Takoma Park, Md., in 1903, and he, with his family, became the first members of the faith in the community. He lived at 412 Carroll ave.

Professor Prescott received his A. B. degree at Dartmouth College in 1877 and his M. A. at the same school in 1885. During the latter year he became president of Battle Creek College, Battle Creek, Mich., the first Adventist college.

Served 2 Other Colleges

Professor Prescott was instrumental in establishing both Union College, Lincoln, Neb., and Walla Walla College, Walla Walla, Wash., and served each as its first president.

He was elected field secretary of Seventh Day Adventists in 1894 and went on a world tour, developing schools and establishing Bible institutes. He served in Great Britain for four years and later as president of the Australasian College in Australia.

Returning to America, he was editor of the Review & Herald, the Adventist paper, for seven years and in 1924 again was elected president of Union College, a post he held for eight years. He then became Bible instructor at the Emmanual Missionary College, Barrien Springs, Mich.

Wrote Religious Articles

During his last years of life, Professor Prescott wrote religious articles and aided all branches of church work.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Daisy Prescott, and two nieces, Mrs. M. C. Tracy and Mrs. Margaret Tracy of New York City. His only son, a pilot during World War I, was killed in action.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Takoma Park Seventh Day Adventist Church and burial will follow at Rock Creek Cemetery. Dr. Lynn Wood, professor at the Theological Seminary, will conduct the services.

Joseph P. Enright

Joseph P. Enright, 43, of 4905 New Hampshire ave. nw., an examiner in the office of the District Tax Assessor, died at his home Thursday as the result of a heart ailment.

Funeral services will be held at St. Gabriel's Church, 22 Grant Circle nw., today at 9 a. m., when requiem mass will be sung. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Enright was a native of Washington and had been an employe of the District for the past 20 years. He graduated from Gonzaga High School and National University Law School. He was a member of Holy Name Society and the Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherin May Enright; two daughters, Catherine May and Mary Ellen; his mother, Mrs. Agnes Enright, and three brothers, Brother Edwin Anthony of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, Maurice Enright of Washington and James (Happy) Enright of Baltimore, the latter two noted basketball officials.

Mrs. Margaret V. Finnegan

Mrs. Margaret V. Finnegan, 73, of 2936 Northampton st. nw., died of a heart attack shortly after she collapsed on the sidewalk in front of her home yesterday morning.

A native of New York, Mrs. Finnegan was a resident of the District for many years. She is survived by two nephews, L. H. McCarthy of Washington, C. F. McCarthy of New York, and a sister, Sister Dalmatia of New York.

William P. Cunningham

Funeral services for William P. Cunningham, 43, streetcar operator for Capital Transit Co. for the last 22 years, will be held tomorrow at 6 p. m. at the Warner Pumphrey funeral home, 8434 Georgia ave., Silver Spring. The Rev. Cedrick W. Tilberg, pastor of Keller Memorial Lutheran Church, where Mr. Cunningham was an active member, and the Rev. Raymond C. Sorrick, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Silver Spring, will conduct the service.

Services also will be held Monday at 11 a. m. at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Sharpsburg, Va., followed by burial in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mr. Cunningham, who died Thursday at his home, 806 Wayne ave., Silver Spring, had been ill for two months. Born in Fletcher, N. C., he had lived in Washington for 18 years prior to moving to Silver Spring four years ago. He was a member of the Brightwood Odd Fellows Lodge.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Maude G. Cunningham, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Cora Cunningham, Asheville, N. C.; a brother, Joseph S. Cunningham of Washington, and a sister, Mrs. Madge Steedman.
